islature in Annapolis.

One wouldn't dare to call that colored House of Delegates member who came up with that "coon" joke during a session the past winter—a representative of the colored community.

Yet, he is supposed to be—as well as a representative of his district.

He is noted as a colored man first—and then secondly an area representative.

HERE, THEN, are just a few samplings of colored citizens in key areas—who are not representatives of the colored community at all.

Others could be cited authoritatively.

So, the hope here is when Mayor McKeldin does add a colored administrative assistant to his staff—he gets one who represents the colored community in every sense of the word.

We have more gray people about now than we can afford.

Bates High School class of 1942, when its reunion was held. The group presented her a sterling silver initialed dresser set.

During the same year again she was honored at the school at the Honors Day assembly for 44 years of service, and was presented red roses by the student body.

AN UNASSUMING personality, who has served the community in a quiet fashion, next to her teaching career, Mrs. Tate has served well in her church, the First Bapist Church. For the last 27 years she has served as organist and director of the Senior Choir.

She also serves as director of Religious Education for the church, and for a number of years sponsored the annual oratorical contest, held annually or the benefit of the Bates High School library.

For years she sponsored the Teachers Social at the church every Fall to welcome new teachers to the community and to acquaint the community with all faculty members of all the schools in Anne Arundel County.

Among her many affiliations are included a life membership in the National Education Association, membership in the Maryland Teachers Association and the Teachers Association of Anne Arundel County.

Civic affiliations include membership in the NAACP and the Northwest Street YMCA. She is also a member of the Entre Nous Bridge Club Her hobbies are playing the organ and crocheting.

Her only relatives are a half-brother, Leroy Smith of Philadelphia, and an aunt, Mrs. Lillian Brooks of Los Angeles, Calif. She resides at 44 Lafayette Avenue, Annapolis.
