JUDGE CONSTABLE DEAD

Eastern Shore Jurist Succumbs at His Home in Elkton

Chief Judge of the Second Judicial Circuit Albert Constable, who has presided over many terms of the Circuit Court in Chestertown during the past few years, died at about 11 o'clock Friday night at his home in Elkton from heart trouble.

Judge Constable, with Judges Adkins and Hopper, heard cases in the Court Friday until 10 o'clock at night. At that hour the Court adjourned and the three held a little chat. Judge Constable seemed to be in excellent excellent health and bid his associates a cheery good-bye. He went to his home, where his wife and he conversed for a little while and then went to bed.

A few minutes later Mrs. Constable heard an unusual noise in her husband's bedroom. She went to the room and saw Judge Constable lying still on the bed. She called to him, but received no answer. Mrs. Constable sent for a physician, who pronounced the Judge dead.

The news of the sudden death of the Judge spread all through Kent county Saturday morning. His friends were shocked and dazed. Judge Constable had been prominently identified with politics and legal work in Cecil county and was known to every person in this section of the state. He had many friends in Kent county.

Judge Constable was 48 years old. He was born in Elkton and was the son of the late Albert Constable, Sr., who was killed a number of years ago by John Simpers, the murder being one of the most sensational in the state in many years.

Judge Constable before ascending the bench was State's Attorney for Cecil county. He was one of the leading lawyers of Maryland and was a Democrat who always took a keen and active interest in the doings of his party. He was a leader of what became known as the Constable faction. The Judge was urged by his friends to become a candidate in the last gubernatorial race, but declined. He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Miss Emily Evans, daughter of W. S. Evans, attorney, and by four children, three sisters and four brothers. One of the brothers, William Pepper Constable, Esq., lives in Baltimore. The other brothers are Reginald, Henry L. and John G. Constable, all of whom live in Elkton.

Judge Constable was respected and admired in Kent county by a wide circle of people.

The funeral of Judge Constable was held on Tuesday afternoon, and was attended by the whole bar of Kent county.
