Deb receptions spark week end

With Lula Jones Garrett

It seems only yesterday that Barbara Prestwidge was a chubby, pretty little girl, with bright eyes and pigtails flying about her shoulders, as friendly and lovable as could be, even though she was then a nation-wide celebrity.

Her extraordinary knowledge of song hits had made her a winner on the "Name That Tune" program. Dashing to New York for the stiff competition (to say nothing of the prospects of winning a hugh cash prize, which became reality) had been just a lark to her. But then she had a mother (Mrs. Gladys T. Prestwidge) with feet solidly on the ground; and a priest, now Bishop Cedric Mills (whom the children of St. James Episcopal Church adored, even while standing in awe of him) to keep her in a child's place.

MONDAY BRIDE—Mrs. Frances Murphy Wood, daughter of Dr. Curl Murphy and the Mrs. Vashti Turley Murphy, will be married to Clarence Henderson in St. James Episcopal Church, Monday at noon. Mrs. Wood is on the faculty of the James Mosher Elementary School, No. 144. The prospective bridegroom, son of Mrs. Helen Henderson of New York City, is a graduate of Wilberforce University and holds a master's degree from Columbia University. He teaches at Carver Vocational High School, here. The bride-to-be is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and of Johns Hopkins University.

* * *

And now, here she was, Sunday, tall and lovely and adult, standing in receiving line, to be greeted by the scores of her family and friends. Her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Prestwidge, were hosts at a reception in the Blue Suite of the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel as a prelude to her introduction to society at the Me-De-So Cotillion on April 10.

The reception for Miss Prestwidge, now a freshman at Howard University, kicked off the Me-De-So debutante season, and started a round of parties for the 19 young women to be presented that will extend far into the summer. Many of the receptions, of course, will take place after debutantes have returned home for the summer . . . all of them being college coeds.

* * *

But for the nonce, fast on the heels of the Sunday affair will be the reception on Saturday afternoon, beginning at four, when Archie D. Williams, attorney, and Mrs. Williams will entertain for their debutante daughter, Miss Carol Phalecia Williams in the Red Suite of the Sheraton-Belvedere.

The following afternoon (Sunday) Mr. and Mrs. John J. Oliver will be at home in honor of Miss Marilyn Thompson Oliver, also a current debutante, from four to six. And on April fifth, Dr. and Mrs. Percival C. Smith will have a reception for their daughter, Miss Nannette Cecile Smith, in the Me-De-So Club. Dr. Smith is a member of the club which hosts the cotillion.

AURELIA LONESOME used the St. Patrick's Day motif when The Organization met with her for their regular monthly meeting. With plans just about completed for their Spring Party, the members made this a meeting for socialization and fun until invited to partake of the elaborate supper which Aurelia had prepared.

There for relaxation and fun were Marian Amprey, Mary Bacote, Mae Cornish, Leana Ferrell, Veronia Greene, Jeanette Johnson, Henrietta Jones, Alpha Williams, and Lillian Wilson.

THE FOR-WIN-ASH Garden Club, meeting Thursday ago, talked plans for their May 1st., 2nd. and 3rd. flower and fashion show, which will be held in the Mondawmin Mall. The affair will be open to the public the first two days . . . the third day affair will be by invitation.

Naomi Camper presided, and others about were Inez Kent, Hilda Higgins, Anne Payne, Myrtle Lee, Allmay Kendrick, Cathryn Parker, Carrie Johnson, Frances Richardson, Meribah Bell, Madeline Harding, Jimmy Laforest, Mae Campbell, Agnese Brown, Ruth Foster, Elise Hunt, Isolene Crowner, Olga Chambers and Dr. Martin Rodney.

Lula Patterson was hostess in her Fairview Avenue apartment . . . and Verniece Reynolds (in the format of that two) came along to lend a helping hand.

THE GENERAL SOLICITATION COMMITTEE of the New Provident Hospital building Fund continues its activities with unique plans to educators and other professional employees in the community.

Members of the various active alumni associations serving on the committee are contacting their members and asking for pledges for the new hospital. Much of the present activity stems around the members of the school system but aggressive plans provide for the invasion of the ranks of Social Security workers and others identified with the alumni association.

This most ambitious plan is the brain child of Dr. Delnes Hunt — Extension-committee chairman — and is augmented by Mrs. Rosalie McGuire and Frank Sorrell, co-chairmen of the Education and Professional Committee of the Building Fund Drive.

A report luncheon for the workers is scheduled for the middle of April.

Mrs. Victorine Q. Adams is chairman of General Solicitations.

VAGS celebrate their 4th anniversary on March 22, by worshipping at Union Baptist Church in Sparrow Pt.

Fourteen of the group of 18 attended the Palm Sunday services and made a financial contribution to the Women's Day Committee of the church.

Present also was honorary member Lena King Lee.

Following the service, the VAG's (named for the late Vivian Garth Alleyne) held their OWdgiv-IW ROFrQmbeach regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Celia Crawford with Charlotte D. Mason and Serena G. Mann as cohostesses to a delicious spring time repast.

The VAGs are winding up their arrangements for the April 18th "Waltztime Party and Dance" to be held at Cherry Hill. Guest for the refreshment period was Genevieve Randolph.

Members attending included:

Esther Brown, Gloria Barnes, Virginia Champ, Gladys Knox, Fannie Lane, Queenie Lane, Jo Lindsey, Ruth B. Murray, Elizabeth Parker, Elizabeth Spicer, and Edna Walker.

THAT LOVELY springlike Saturday ago found the Big Sisters and guests enjoying a Fancy Pants Party in the beautiful club room of Dr. and Mrs. Edward (Bernice) McDaniels on The Alameda.

And for the fanciest of the fancy pants prizes went to Agnes Willis, first; Jean Cummings, second, guests; and to members Lilyan Slater, first and Mary Robinson, second.

Agnes was charming in gold pants with gold print overblouse. Petit Jean was in daffodil yellow pants and yellow and white blouse. Lilyan chose black velvet pants and a Chinese blouse in red and gold, and the ensemble which brought Mary a prize was slim white pants and shocking pink torso sweater.

The afternoon was spent playing bridge, pinochle and other games, including a hilarious one called "Animal Modeling." Guests and members chewed bubble gum, then, with toothpicks, sculptured animals and insects. Ann Holt took first prize for her modeling of a monkey, and Barbara Bentley was second, modeling a butterfly.

Following games, a buffet supper was served from a table beautifully decorated with early spring flowers.

Bernice, Willa Bouldin, Phyllis Shamwell and Ida Nicholas were co - hostesses. Other members are Madora James, Bernice Watson, Frank Hinchen, Imogene Douglass, Iris Whanger, Catherya Parker, Lucille Brown, Mae Helen Chamberlain, Bernita Fuller, Frankie Hinchen, Mamie Greene, Vivian Burnette, Gladys Parker, Credella White.

Among their guests were Hazel Scott, Roberta Keats, Cardrienne Griffin, Mary E. Peck, Frankie Wood, Harriette Trader, Gwendolyn Seaborne, Rosalee Jenkins, Jewel Mosley, Miriam Cook, Betye Shelton and Mattie Armstrong of Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. CLIFTON F. WHITE entertained 35 members of the Kittrell College Choir at their Bonner Road home, Sunday afternoon, at a buffet luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. White's son, Allen, is a member of the choir. The hosts were assisted by Mrs. White's sister, Mrs. Venus Stanley Cox, whose son, Charles Stanley, is in the college band. . .

THE 5-1 BRIDGE CLUB was entertained beautifully in the home of Unice Robins on Friday night. Gloria McDaniels, very attractive in red velvet lounge wear was the gracious hostess.

The members, after four sets of bridge, were treated to a showing of Spring Hats. The narrator was Jean Adams, models, Loretta Bryan, Jackie Harding and Bernice Brown. Shown were one of a kind picture hats, toques,

Call MR. HENRY for Home Consultation

MARYLAND DAY speaker at Morgan State College, Congressman Clarence D. Long (D., Second), meets freshman Horrace Derricks and Celestine Baxter after talk on "The Coming Revolution in Education."

Long calls for more and better education

Congressman Clarence D. Long (D. Second), endorsing a war on poverty, but not on one "that will take from the rich to give to the poor," Tuesday called for massive expenditures for public education to help "educate the millions of people so that they can climb off the taxpayers' backs and start paying part of the load."

The economist-turned-politician, who is now on leave of absence from The Johns Hopkin's University, spoke at the Morgan State College observance of Maryland Day.

He appeared as a replacement for Senator Daniel B. Brewster, who was detained in Washington for Senate action on civil rights legislation.

* * *

HE CALLED "poverty and unemployment America's two great economic problems," noting that one could help themselves and said that this can be achieved only massive revision and education.

"I subscribe to President Johnson's war on poverty," he declared, but said he is against a war on poverty that "will take from the rich and give to the poor."

He advocated that the nation "must help the poor help tre poor help themselve and said that this can be achieved only through a massive revision of education.

Congressman Long advocated four major changes in American education to educate against poverty.

First, he said, there "must be a great quantitative extention of education — particularly at the college level.

Secondly, he proposed that educational institutions be "qualitatively consolidated" so that education for colored measures up to white education and so that low white education measures up to better white education.

* * *

HIS THIRD proposal was "greater diversification of education" so that education is geared to the individual person and to individual differences.

His fourth proposal was for "greaater diversification" to make provisions for education to keep up with the tremendous amoun of new knowledge now available

The Maryland Congressman was introduced by Morgan's president Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, at the observance of the 320th anniversary of the State's founding.
