BALTIMORE AFTER DARK
On the TOWN
with the Pub Crawler

A swinging hello to all you gorgeous creatures and dap dandies! It's been like a long, loooong, loooong time!

That jazz about absence making the heart grow fonder may be something after all 'cause the Crawler has missed you chicks and cats something terrible and like there's a lot of catching up to be done. So let's hit it, and now.

To get stone serious for a moment, one of the most commendable things that has happened on the neon stroll in recent days is now in full swing at the Casino.

Al Quille, businessman par excellence, and major domo at the Casino, by his own admission is "a violent man."

"I can't get out there and walk picket lines and let those people abuse me without going to war. I can, and will, however, stand squarely behind those who can. It doesn't take violence to dig in your pocket and contribute to the cost of bail bonds and other needs of courages demonstrators.

THAT HE HAS done. As founder of the Baltimore Area Cambridge Committee he has been personally responsible for swelling the coffers of the Cambridge Non-Violent Action Committee to the tune of $1,800 in the past five weeks. For three more Wednesday nights, just as he has done for the previous five, Al will turn over all proceeds from the Cambridge Night to CNAC.

Although tickets are distributed to underwrite the affair, not a single one has been held where the "violent man" didn't have to dig down and make up the deficit. To his lasting credit he has, and without a complaint.

Hats off to Al, men — and women!

AMONG OTHER happenings along the great niteway during the Crawler's hiatus we would have to include Frank Reddish's plunge into gobs of things since returning from the big fight.

"Its said that the good natured president of NNLBA and No. 1 man at Dotson's is trying to forget what happened to his brother Willie's chief interest one night on the way to the store (oops, we mean the boxing ring).

At any rate Frank is into everything these days. F'rstance, he drawing up the blue print for a real community-interest program for his group of beverage men. Then you can expect to hear lots about their operations in matters such as registration and voting campaigns, neighborhood betterment, and other sound action to support the belief that those who extract their wealth from a given community should invest a portion of same into the betterment of that community — and not flee to suburbia.

Speaking of Frank and Dotson's, that petit little songbird, Ruby Hughes, unveiled a few moons ago, is sure to hit the bigtime, given proper care, and she'll get that. You should slip down on the farm and give a listen. She's like n-i-s-e, man, nise!

NEW talents also brings to mind a hefty rhythm and blues belter who answers to Rickey Madison. Rickey, 22-year-old former student of Peabody Institute, is now showcasing his song savvy at Oakland Park Country Club at Randallstown way.

They were swinging from the rafters the past Friday when Rickey made his debut. His first disc, "Bobbi Was Right" with "I Follow You," on the flip side, will be released this weekend. And there'll be a celebration for sure at Oakland.

Joe Parker, radio dee jay and host at Oakland, and Mrs. Alice Tucker, the boss lady there, are bubbling with thoughts of things nice happening to Rickey. They have best wishes from the Crawler, natch.

Bernie McCray, the lady operator at Greenwood Country Club, the Winter Wonderland and Summer Paradise nestled in the hills of Howard County, is also quite excited these days, and well she might be.

Glenwood is rounding out its first—and successful—year-round operation. Sports, dining, cabarets, dining and dancing dominated during the long, cold winter.

ATTENTION now turns to the great outdoors and fishing, golfing, tennis, picnicking and swimming — and all on the rambling premises of one of the most unique spots in this area.

Mention too must be made of that sweethearts' ball, a few darks and lights ago—it was a sweet heart!

Rosey Nick and his impressive board of directors, after getting the newly created Glenwood off the ground last summer, are geared to really put it into orbit this time around, and there's nothing to stop them!

Peacock Alley, and that's a name you'll be hearing and seeing a lot about the coming darks and brights, also blazed on the scene in recent weeks. J. D. Gross, the dapper, dynamic, and durable guy in city recreation work, is the brain behind the push to "create something really different.

He has able assistance from perhaps the most capable guys in the know who include the likes of Stanley (Deitz) and big' bro, Buddy Young, Paul Turner, Herb Brown, Bill Bell, Eddie Morrison, and of course Walter and Cliff, who will furnish the backdrop, Gonna be something else...again!

YE OLD CRAWLER received, by way of carrier pigeon, a note which brought both amusement and pleasure. It came from our old pal Sonny Daye, who is a favorite with the Mrs. Santa gang. Sonny will be in the spotlight Friday at the Elks Home for the Big B Show and Dance.

When Sonny is introduced don't flip if the announcer doesn't say "Sonny Daye." You see, the dapper little blues shouter answers to the name of "El Jay!" Hang in there, my man.

A FINAL item has to do with a basketball game. No, not the Bullets. This one, though not sanctioned by the NBA, involved the 30 year Oldtimers who really raised cain Sunday past at the Winchester Street Armory.

Normally these annual clashes between the hardwood greats of yesteryear from our town and Philly are a comic relief to shaky legs, bald heads, and short winds betray the will to dash down the floor and dunk a couple of two baskets.

But Sunday the old geezers really turned it on. At the end of the 40-minute struggle (Out of deference to age, quarters are limited to 10 minutes, rather than 15), the house came to its feet in standing applause.

Time and space preclude a rundown this seven, but same will follow shortly.

It was a swinger for sure and all agree it was another smash hit for C.P.T.!

NAACP blasts Fla. pin meet

TAMPA, Fla. — Protesting against continuing racial discrimination by the bowling alleys in this city, Charles Standford, president of the Tampa NAACP branch, has sent a telegram to Edwin Wildey, president of the American Bowling Congress, urging rejection of the city's invitation to bring the 1967 ABC tournament to Tampa.

"The managers and owners of various bowling alleys who are members of the Tampa Bowling Association and of ABC have refused to accommodate colored players," Standford said in his telegram to Wildey at Oakland, Calif., where ABC is holding its annual session.

Under these circumstances "we ask that the tournament be denied this city until segregation and discrimination in all bowling alleys is eliminated."

The branch has vainly sought to get the local bowling alleys to drop the color bar.

Top spinning tourney set

Next week will be "Top Spinning Week" in Baltimore. Each playground, playfield and recreation center will hold a Top Spinning Contest. A trophy will be presented to the winner at each of the 75 Bureau of Recreation Playgrounds. Other winners will receive certificates and sweater patches.

Winners will be invited on April 18 to a city wide tournament. Winners of this city wide tournament will win a trip to Disneyland.

Ernie Ladd—wrestler

"You can't possibly be six feet, nine inches," one observer adsised Ernie Ladd, 6-9, 325-pound American Football League tackle of the champion San Diego Chargers.

"You can't possibly weigh 325 pounds," another chimed in as the magnificently constructed big man smiled patiently.

The big man from Grambling College, just 25, who bears something of a physical resemblance to Joe Louis and who has some of the old champion's quiet dignity, merely smiled.

"They are always saying that, and then when I get up and walk away, everybody concedes my measurements, and weight, are right."

LADD MADE a big hit at Capitol Arena last Thursday night when he used power holds, and some football tackles and drop kicks in flattening journeyman Frank Hickey in just four minuutes and 50 seconds.

He is moving into Easter company at Washington Coliseum, Monday night, when he joins Bobo Brazil, the 6-7, 265-pound United States heavyweight championship claimant, in opposing brothers Dr. Jerry and Luke Graham in a tag-team feature match.

LADD, a refreshingly astute man with a mission, envisions wrestling as the means to an end. He is strictly business, not mercenary, but realistic.

He recalls that he was No. 4 choice of the Chicago Bears and No. 15 of San Diego in the college football draft a couple of years back.

"I NEGOTIATED both ways, and got what I wanted at that time from the Chargers," he advises. "However, I did the Bears a big favor. I recommended Roosevelt Taylor, who had been with me at Grambling, to them.

"I've made it pretty good, maybe real good, in pro football. However, I'm still negotiating to protect my interests.

"I think two more years of professional football, and possibly several more years of wrestling, will enable me to get into something else more productive."

BRAZIL, regarded by promoter Vince McMahon as one of the finest men in wrestling, is coaching Ernie, and helping him develop in every way possible.

"He considers the big fellow an apt pupil, one who can go a long way in top company."

What are Ernie Ladd's favorite holds?

"I do everything I can to get my opponent out of the way," he says. "They call me 'The Cat' because I'm fairly fast on my feet.

"I used a lot of power, I've got a lot, and I also make use of legitimate football tackles and blocks, and can drop kick!"

He's right, he does do everything!

Outdoor Tips

THERMOCLINE MINNOWS

If minnows die in bucket or trap in shallow water, you may have them in an area of the lake that is devoid of sufficient oxygen.

Store them in deeper cooler water and chances are they will be okay.

HOT DOG PIKE

Down from Canada come tales of a great new pike killer.

A hot dog! Seems a regular old doggie with a hook worked into it gets the big ones' meat-eating instinct up in arms.

Frayed skin adds to lure's sexiness.

GARMENT BAG SCALER

Apartment dwellers who fish have a problem. Where to scale the fish?

Tiny kitchens aren't much help. Try this solution:

Scale the rascals inside a plastic garment bag. Transparent bag lets you see what you are doing but bag contains flying scales.

Whole thing goes in garbage can when through.

GRAPEFRUIT WORM CATCHER

What happens if you take half a grapefruit and lay at roundside down on your worm bed?

The worms collect them selves in it, that's what.

NYMPH CATCHER

Surely everybody knows by now the way to catch hellgramites, stone fly nymphs, crawfish and the like is to stretch a piece of screenwire between two sticks.

Then go upstream and kick over rocks. Bait drifts down into screen.

DRESS BOOTS

Reports indicate boots that are heated on the inside with a hair dryer take dressing a whole lot better an cold boots

REPAIR KIT

Ever see the cement cabinet-men use to hold down formica and other counter surfaces? It is waterproof, flexible and rugged.

For a temporary repair of tent or boat rips, sew tear neatly, then coat stitches with this cement.

LAZY ICE FISHERMAN

Lazy ice fisherman cover their hard - cut fishing holes at night with pieces of insulation board carried to the lake for that purpose.

They pile some snow on the board to hold it in place in winds and mark it with a stick.

Next day, they uncover the board and use the same hole which has not frozen over.

PLUG DISPLAY

A wall of pegboard with suitable pegs and some old flylines threaded between makes a fine place to display your lures and keep them in better shape than in your tackle box.

PRESSED PAPER DECOYS

Here's a tip to make those paper - type decoys last a longer time.

Paint 'em with rubber base paint. Then paint them for correct coloring.

Trojan mentor gets State post

PETERSBURG, Va. —William "Pete" Bennett, track coach and assistant professor of health and physical education at Virginia State college, has been appointed chairman of the finance committee of the U. S. Track and Field Association for Virginia.

Prof. Bennett, who has been track coach at VSC, his alma mater, for the past 11 years, has held a number of outstanding athletic posts in recent year, including an eight - year tenure as chairman of the track committee of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA).

On Wednesday, March 18, at the Banneker Elementary School in Catonsville, the Maple Glen "Tigers" defeated the Union "Dodgers," 56-22, in the Rubber game to decide who would play the Mt. Olivet "Hawks" for the championship of the cubs division of the Methodist athletic association.

The clincher came on Saturday, when the two contending teams battled for the league championship.

The game was nip and tuck all the way from start to finish. The outcome was in doubt until the final whistle. Mable Glen emerged the victor by one point — 31-30.

that whites do not have" and vice versa, the former board president said further:

"I object to social contact between the races. They should be kept apart socially and in schools. I object to any type of school integration."

ASKED IF he had colored servants Mr. Cadwalder answered:

"Yes I have and have had them for years."

"How do you square this with theory of separation?" he was asked.

"I told you I don't want to discuss this on the telephone," the speaker said as he ended the conversation.

The son of the elder board member declined to comment after he was reached at his Redwood St. insurance office. An earlier call to his home brought this message:

"I don't know where Mr. Cadwalader is. I'm the cleaning girl!"

The Rev. Mr. Cook said the school has an enrollment of 200 students but none is colored. It is located in Brookland area of Baltimore County.

agencies, for charges need not be excessive.

WHAT TO DO in any case —get your own lawyer's approval before signing.

A legitimate lender, Mr. Morrill states, will have no objections whatsoever.

The racket flourishes, he told the AFRO, primarily because of two causes:

1. Increasing willingness of more and more people to go heavily into debt.

2. Reluctance of responsible lending institutions to let them get in debt "over their heads."

He advises homeowners seeking a 2nd mortgage to try first the institution holding the original mortgage.

Should they qualify, they may obtain a 2nd mortgage with most of these institutions.

Sonny Liston just 'tool' for backers, Senate told

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sports Editor

The Senate Anti - Trust and Monopoly Sub - Committee was given evidence Thursday that backers of Sonny Liston regard him as nothing more than a tool to meet their own ends and otherwise hold him in utter distain.

According to them, the former heavyweight champion acts as if he is not only stupid but stubborn, irresponsible, and unreconstructive.

Cassius Clay, on the other hand, was described as an alert young man with the good fortune of having strong business ties behind him and working for his interests.

These are the pictures that were painted in the second day of the committee's investigation of allegedly strange circumstances surrounding the Feb. 25 fight in which Liston lost the title to Clay.

THERE WAS, however, during the Thursday testimony exoneration of Liston in the questionable deal which permits Sonny's Intercontinental Promotions Corporation to promote the next defense of the crown by Clay.

Shortly after the later lamented seventh round knockout of Liston in Miami, it was revealed that Intercontinental had purchased the right to stage Clay's first defense in the event the Louisville lip was victorious.

CARLTON CHERRY, attorney for Intercontinental, took the witness stand Thursday morning to testify on Liston's connection with Intercontinental and with its apparent hold on Clay.

His testimony added to the impression already given on Wednesday that Sonny is considered little more than a puppet on strings pulled by the great fathers.

Liston was pictured as a man entirely devoid of intellect and common sense. Cherry declared that Sonny rarely understood normal conversation and was completely in the dark about money matters except to the point of demanding that he always have spending change in his pocket."

THE LAWYER absolved Sonny, intentionally or not, in the pre - fight purchase of the right to promote Clay's first title defense. He said Liston knew nothing about the deal.

Asked why a big stockholder, such as Liston is represented to be, was kept in the dark about the Clay contract, Cherry said the ex-champion was not consulted "because he wouldn't have understood it."

"He knows absolutely nothing about business and money matters. Sonny is simply satisfied with having change in his pocket."

IN EARLIER testimony Jack Nilon had told the committee that Liston refused to train for the bout with Clay, that he partied almost nightly at the Miami Beach house where he stayed, and that he (Sonny) persisted in entertaining gambler Joe (Pep) Barone throughout the ex-champion's stay in Florida.

Barone is the former associate of convicted gambler, Blinky Palermo, and is the man whom Senate investigators had warned Liston was no fit companion for the then heavyweight contender.

Nilon, who was recognized as Liston's advisor - manager, was guilty of making conflicting assertions while on the stand. He said during his early remarks that Sonny rebuked him when he tried to make Liston take the Clay fight seriously. Later, however, Nilon admitted that he had shared the general opinion that Cassius would be a pushover.

FOLLOWING Cherry, the Intercontinental lawyer to the witness chair, was Gordon B. Davidson, attorney for Clay's Louisville connections.

On Wednesday, he expressed the view that Cassius has the best working plan any fighter ever enjoyed. His testimony was interrupted by a quorum call in the Senate Chamber and he was recalled on Thursday.

Confirming his earlier contention, Davidson explained that Cassius received a monthly salary from his backers, whether he fights or not, and this is an exchange for their right to execute his business. Davidson said Clay also is protected by annuity investments which he cannot touch until he is 35 years old or has permanently retired from the ring.

The lawyer refused repeatedly to offer any comment on Clay's alleged Black Muslim connections.
