other areas, the Rev. Mr. Bascom also said, "We will be seeking to talk with them reasonably soon.

THE CRUSADING minister also said he felt the success and significance of the Easter Monday March would require real estate and other interests to see the urgency for action and the resentment of colored Baltimoreans on the issue of open housing.

He said rising awareness of colored Baltimoreans prompted beginning a "dialogue" with real estate leaders very sonn.

rights leaders will also strongly protest a proposal by real estate men to negotiate the sales of city property for a commission, unless there is a firm agreement on handling properties on a first-class basis.

Many of the real estate firms who want to handle city property were in the forefront of opposition to fair housing legislation.

Rights leaders question whether advocates of segregated housing have a right to make commissions to be paid out of all the taxpayers money when their policies favor segregated housing.

MEANWHILE MORE demonstrations were promised by Hosea Williams, an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Williams also told the demontsrator's demands.

The demands include the dropping of charges against students, desegregation of public accommodations and tax supported facilities, equal employment and creation of a biracial committee.

The Ponce De Leon dining room was the target Tuesday as the struggle continued to break down barriers in the nation's oldest city. Some 80 persons had been arrested before 140 took to the streets Tuesday.

THEY SAT at tables waiting for service until they were booked on trespass charges. Police brought up the dogs as the students were herded out into the street to be taken to jail.

When demonstrators sat down in the street refusing to walk to jail, policemen shouted, "Get up! Get on your feet!"

Ironically, that is what the students were demonstrating for—the right to stand tall on their own two feet.

pressions on the faces of even some of the colored persons present, she said.

The judge told her that it is a southern tradition for white folks to address colored folks by their first names. He said he would not change that tradition. He ordered her to answer. She refused.

The judge immediately held her in contempt of court and levied the fine and jail term.

• • •

IN PETITIONING the Supreme Court for a review, Jack Greenberg, director and chief counsel of the NAACP, stated that Miss Hamilton was "responding to one of the most distinct indications of the racial caste system.

"This is the refusal of whites to address colored persons with titles of respect such as "Miss," and to refer to them as 'boy' or 'Girl.'

"The literature of race relations abounds with recognition of the key role played by this difference in modes of address," Greenberg wrote.

• • •

MISS HAMILTON discontinued teaching in June, 1961, when she went to Jackson, Miss., as a Freedom Rider from Los Angeles.

Arrested there, she was sentenced to prison and spent 30 days at the state penitentiary in Parchman, Miss. To date she has spent a total of 65 days in various jails.

She was in jail in New York City for school demonstration for 2 days; Englewood, N.J.; Lebanon, Tenn., 5; Gaston, Ala., 21, and Birmingham, Ala., 6.

• • •

"I INTEND to stay in the movement as long as there is any need to fight for equality and justice," Miss Hamilton told the AFRO.

She said she has no plans at the present regarding matrimony.

A native of Denver, Colo., she is one of three sisters. Her sisters are Mrs. Joseph Williams of Denver and Mr. Paul Campbell of Des Moines, Iowa.

In addition to Greenberg, Miss Hamilton was represented by Oscar Adams of Birmingham and Norman Amaker of New York City.

William Warfield aids Chi nursery

CHICAGO (ANP) — It's wrong to assume that only the big charities and major organizations benefit from the generosity of the nation's top artists.

That much was made clear here with the announcement that one of the greatest stars of the concert stage will give a benefit performance for a small, little known organization here soon.

William Warfield, the great concert baritone and the husband of the famous Metropolitan Opera star, Leontyne Price, has agreed to give a benefit concert at Orchestra Hall on May 3 for the Algeld Nursery School Council, Inc.,

communities "to beat down distortions."

"We can't win unless we're here to win — and we can't win unless you're out there to win," declared Sen. Humphrey, urging the rights supporters, to go into all levels of community life in support of the bill.

Sen. Humphrey said the bill could be passed now if it could be put up for vote.

"There are enough votes in the Senate to pass this bill right now, if we can get it to a vote," he said. But that is the problem, he said, "getting it to a vote."

• • •

EXPLAINING WHAT he meant by linking the passage of the civil rights bill with President Johnson's re - election hopes, Sen. Case said:

"What I mean is it the first time we have had a situation like this."

The President needs the rights measure and proponents of the bill are "going to take advantage" of this fact, he said.

Sen. Case made it clear that he was not making an "anti-Johnson" speech — and Sen. Humphrey nodded his head in agreement, indicating the speaker was only presenting a realistic observation.

Earlier Sen. Humphrey had stressed that the bill was not a "political or partisan measure — but a piece of legislature to guarantee human dignity."

In lauding the unity of both parties in supporting the bill, Sen. Humphrey said "there's no room for partisanship" and assured that there is "no Republican or Democratic Party" in this battle.

• • •

SEN. JACOB JAVITS (R-N.Y.) said proponent senators of the bill lack votes for cloture.

To gain needed votes, he recommended that senators from areas with small colored populations — but who stand for the rights of Americanism — be encouraged to vote for the cloture.

He added that he is hopeful that a positive answer can be given to those "who let their tempers" run away by no later than the summer.

Sen. Clark said there are only about 58 votes he knows of for cloture. This is nine shy of the required 67, and the possibility of reaching this number appears slim, he said.

However, Sen. Kenneth Keating's (R-N.Y.) view on cloture was a bit brighter. Although the cloture vote may be unsuccessful a few times, it would in the end close the mouths of civil rights opponents, he stated.

CALLING THE bill "modest," Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said it should be accepted as a "minimum

He further attacked the filibuster for prevent the will of "decent men" to prevail and blamed it along with "extremist" propaganda for putting "representative government" at stake.

Sen. Philip Hart (D-Mich) and Sen. Hugh Scott (D-Pa.) joined Sen. Kuchel in denouncing organizations that are disseminating seens of misunderstanding about the bill.

Sen. Scott said that when newspaper advertisements opposing the bill run, his mail is 5-1 against the measure as compared to 2-1 for it when no advertisement appear.

Mr. Wilkins said the NAACP would not attempt to counteract the "falsifying" ads with ads sponsored by his organization.

"We don't have the funds and we're not going to try to compete with full page ads sponsored by Mississippi," said Mr. Wilkins.

• • •

MR. WILKINS and the senators were evidently referring to ads by the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental American Freedom, Inc. which charge that the bill would affect such things as job seniority. It is known that Mississippi has paid a part of the group's expenses.

Giving the NAACP's position on the bill, Mr. Wilkins said he was not prepared "to sacrifice a semi - colon or a comma" in the measure.

Mr. Wilkins announced further that the NAACP and other civil rights groups have planned programs to push the bill. However, he said "at this time" civil disobedience would not be a part of the program.

• • •

BEFORE THE meeting, Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the NAACP, told reporters that the NAACP would only take action "within the framework of the constitution" to support the bill.

Another participant at the conference, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, executive secretary of the National Council of Churches, said that if citizens take serious the principles of religion, a "new pattern of race relations" would be ushered in.

Mr. Wilkins gave special recognition to the support of churches in the movement for freedom—and said it was the participatin of religious groups that distinguishes this drive from any other.

Among nationally - known leaders of organizations at the meeting were:

Baynard Rustin, organizer of the March on Washington; John Lewis, of the Student Non - Violent Coordinating Committee; Marvin Rich, of the Congress of Racial Equality and Mrs. Pearl Willen, of the National Council of Jewish Women;

Also Mrs. Ruth Mandschein, of B'nai B'rith Women; the Rt. Rev. John Cronin, of the national Catholic Welfare Council; Dr. Jachoem Prinz, of the American Jewish Council and Dr. Geraldine T. Woods, of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

ACCUSED in the slaying of 16 - year - old Thelma Jean Callaham, and the knife wounding of her sister, Delores, 15, during a teen - age fray outside a Mosby Court party on March 13, Alfred R. Stevens, 18, is due for a Police Court hearing on Thursday, April 2.

a way which made you feel completely at ease."

Miss Hale had not been at the lounge long before closing time, Mr. Lewis told the AFRO. He said she was wearing a loose fitting black dress.

"She was not a heavy drinker," Mr. Lewis stated. "She liked to dance and Sunday night she might have been a little high, not drunk but feeling good."

• • •

MISS HALE, a divorcee for six years, had re-taken her maiden name. She had been renting a room at the Robb St., residence for only about two months.

The victim's daughter, Mrs. Joan Lee, 2830 Ellicott Dr., said that she had visited her mother in the hospital.

"She asked for my daughter Cheryl and we talked a little bit. But she was not herself," said Mrs. Lee. "The only thing she remembers is being beaten by a man. She didn't know who he was."

A native of Baltimore, is survived also by a sister, Miss Lorraine Hale, and four brothers.

They are, Leroy, Gerald, Eugene and Bernard Hale.

Funeral arrangements are being made by the Locks Funeral Home.

Finan against new candidates filing

Congressional candidates who want to withdraw from the May 19 primary election will meet no opposition from the State, Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan stated on Wednesday.

While agreeing that candidates who wanted to get out of the election race could do so, Mr. Finan said the state would fight court orders that would add new candidates to the ballot who had not filed for election by the March 8 deadline.

Mr. Finan's announcement came after Anne Arundel County Court Judge O. Bowie Duckett signed an order that John H. Hiser's name be stricken as a candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the Sixth District. Judge Duckett said the State had until Monday, April 6 to oppose his ruling.

• • •

MR. FINAN then said he would not oppose this order but would fight Judge Duckett's order that John N. Johnson's name be added as a Republican candidate in the Fifth congressional district.

Judge Duckett is next to rule on a civil suit brought by Wilsie Adams, Democratic candidate for congressman - at - large, which seeks to have all candidates on the lists on March 14 to stay in the congressional races.

Because of the political hassle over congressional redistricting, many candidates are reluctant to run now in districts which may be enlarged or reduced when redistricting takes place.

In explaining his position, Mr. Finan said he could understand why candidates might want to withdraw because of the confusion overnew congressional districts but he felt no new candidates should be allowed to file after the legal March 9 deadline for application.

Worthy gratified US dropping suit

NEW YOK — AFWO-AMERICAN correspondent William Worthy said Wednesday he was gratified to learn that the Justice Department had decided not to seek a Supreme Court review of his now famous "passport case."

A Department spokesman had earlier announced that the Supreme Court would not be asked to review a circuit court decision which last month reversed Worthy's conviction for having re - entered this country after visiting Cuba.

Worthy said, "I am of course gratified" that the Justice Department will let stand the lower court decision which Feb. 20 branded the conviction "as the height of legal absurdity."

• • •

"BY NOT APPEALING that landmark decision, the Justice Department is tacitly acknowledging that the Supreme Court would uphold the unanimous Circuit Court."

Worthy went to Cuba in 1961 without a passport. The State Department has banned trips to Cuba except for persons who have specially validated passports.

When he returned, Worthy was convicted and sentenced to three months in jail for having re - entered the United States after such a trip. The 5th Circuit set aside the conviction.

WAS DEVOUT BUDDHIST

Pretty ex-dancer suicide by fire

By MILDRED O'NEILL

PHILADELPHIA

A devout believer of Buddhism — the religion of central and eastern Asia based upon the doctrine of Gautama Buddha's teaching — A 48 - year old attractive ex-dancer — who was known professionally as "The Goddess" — doused her clothing with a flammable liquid and burned herself to death in the bathtub of her home last Friday morning in her West Philadelphia home.

Mrs. Bertha Gardner of the 5900 Block of Vine St., who believed in the doctrine of Buddha that "nirvana, escape from liability to suffering and from mortality is the highest goal obtainable and that the way of escape . . . fire suicide is the "Eightfold Path" of right belief, right resolve, right word, right act, right life, right effort, right thinking, right meditation, was a human torch by the time her husband was awakened by neighbors and was told that smoke was pouring from a second floor window.

The victim's husband, Kelly, 74, who was sleeping downstairs, rushed upstairs and noticed smoke coming from under the bathroom door which he found locked.

BERTHA GARDNER

Gardner ran outside and pulled a fire alarm.

Firemen on the scene said it was the worst scene that they have ever witnessed.

Investigating detectives found a note which read, "Immortality through death by fire. The time has come."

Hundreds of books on Buddhism and Hinduism were found in the victim's bedroom.

Mrs. Gardner, who was born in Green Hill, S. C., was well known for her Indian dances in clubs on the East and West Coasts and in Canada before retiring in 1956.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from the Garriest Funeral Home, 58th and Vine Sts.

Webster's dictionary defines Buddhism — "The religion based upon the doctrine originally taught by Gautama Buddha. The Great suffering. Buddhism teaches that nirvana (nibbanal), release from liability to suffering, from mortality, is the now or hereafter.

"The religion has developed and embraces many sects. "The two main divisions are Hinayana and Mahayana.

Recently several Buddhist monks have destroyed themselves in South Viet Nam by setting fire to their robes.
