ALL QUESTIONS
The AFRO recommends a vote "FOR" all questions on the ballot, especially a "FOR" for QUESTION 5 to uphold Maryland's state-wide public accommodations law.

Card not needed for you to vote Tuesday

Supervisors of Elections officials are advising registered voters they do not need a voter's card in their possession next Tuesday, when they go to the polls to vote.

Mrs. Betty M. Silbert, board president and E. Paul Mason Jr., chief clerk, have issued a statement to the effect that all is necessary is that the person's name be on the books.

Here is their explanation to voters:

"If you have lost or mislaid your voter's card, this does not bar you from voting.

"Each polling place has its respective precinct binders and if your name is in the precinct binder—you can vote.

"If your name does not appear in the precinct binder—you cannot vote.

"It is not the voter's card that entitles you to vote, it is the precinct binder that is the determining factor."

* * *

MRS. SILBERT and Mr. Mason then pointed up these instructions for persons who may be voting for the first time:

"1. When you enter the polling place, you tell the judge of elections seated at the table your name and address.

"2. The judge will look in the binder for your name.

"3. If your name is in the binder, you will be given a voting authority card to sign. The judge will then check your signature on your registration form in the binder. If the signatures match, the judge will return

Votes 'FOR' Question 5, state's rights law, urged

Votes "FOR" QUESTION 5 on the ballots Tuesday is being urged of all citizens by the Committee To Uphold The Public Accommodations Law.

Question 5 is the last one on the second line of questions at the top of city ballots.

This question asks voters whether they approve or reject Maryland's new state-wide public accommodations law.

A vote "FOR" will keep this law in force.
A vote "AGAINST" will wipe it out.

* * *

SHOULD A majority vote against the question prevail, it would mean that Maryland would have a public accommodations law only in Baltimore City and 11 of the state's 33 counties, which was enacted in 1963.

However, President Lyndon B. Johnson's national Civil Rights Act of 1964, much broader in scope, would still apply throughout the state.

The effect of the state's own law will allow local enforcement in those areas covered. Where it does not apply, the federal statute and enforcement step in.

The state-wide law, enacted earlier this year by the General Assembly, was petitioned to referendum by the Maryland Petition Committee, a wide-spread segregationist organization.

The Committee To Uphold The Public Accommodations Law was successful in obtaining through Judge Wilson K. Barnes this week an injunction to prevent the Secretary of State from certifying the results of the referendum, until the group can present alleged irregularities purportedly used by the segregationist organization in obtaining the signatures.

A majority of votes "FOR" Question 5 will make further legal action necessary in this respect.

Medicare Vs. Balto. Program

TYPICAL of the people helped by the Baltimore program and the proposed Medicare Bill is Mrs. Lucy Gorman, relaxing here in the George Washington Carver Nursing Home.

By Roger J. Nissly

"The Congress hereby finds that the heavy costs of hospital care and relation health care are a grave threat to the security of aged individuals."

Thus opens the section of H. R. 11865 on Health Care Insurance for the Aged—termed Medicare—which was drawn up by the House of Representatives and amended by the Senate during the 88th Congress.

Although the bill now languishes in a legislative limbo until the next session of Congress, the issue of health care for the aged is an important factor in this election campaign and could be in coming elections.

Bishop D. Ward Nichols cleared of embezzlement

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A panel of three judges Tuesday acquitted suspended Bishop D. Ward Nichols of the African Methodist Church who was convicted by a jury of embezzlement and fraudulent conversion of about $100,000.

The opinion by judges Kendall H. Shoyer, Harold D. Saylor and Joseph Sloane said the commonwealth failed "utterly" to show Bishop Nichols did anything illegal.

Bishop Nichols, 64, Huntington Station, Long Island, N.Y., was convicted last April.

BISHOP D. WARD NICHOLS

The three judges, in granting Bishop Nichols an arrest of judgment, said the prosecution failed "utterly to show Bishop Nichols did anything illegal with the funds in the special or church account which was in his lawful possession."

It added that "the commonwealth offered unsatisfactory proof that the funds belonged to the church."

Abraham J. Bream Levy, attorney for Bishop Nichols, had asked Judge Shoyer for a new trial or arrest of judgment and the three-judge panel heard arguments last July on the motion.

Dr. Ward wins one

Dr. Charles S. Ward, who was fired without detailed reason from his $20,000 a year job as superintendent of Crownsville State Hospital, won round one Thursday in his legal battle with the State Department of Mental Hygiene and the Attorney General's office.

After Dr. Ward flatly refused to move out of the superintendent's official residence, following the expiration of a 30-day "administrative leave" and a 10-day extension, the Department of Hygiene, through Edward R. Jeunette, assistant attorney general, filed an eviction petition in Magistrates Court in Annapolis.

At a hearing Thursday, Magistrate Heise threw out the petition, ruled that the state had not given Dr. Ward sufficient notice.

Mr. Jeunette told the AFRO late Thursday that he would give the required notice, but declined to say when.

"No date will be set until the matter is discussed fur-

'Barry plans to scare our voters'

By MAX JOHNSON
AFRO Political Analyst

Goldwater Republican campaign supporters are preparing some insidious strategic moves against voters in Primarily colored areas at Tuesday's Election.

The carefully hatched plan is to discourage voter turnout and thus contain, to as high a degree as possible, expected votes in these areas for President Lyndon B. Johnson.

By holding down such votes in colored areas, they hope strong Goldwater support in many other sectors, particularly among the "white backlash," will carry the Arizona senator to victory in Maryland.

Confusion and, in some instances, intimidation of voters are all part of the plan, according to reports reach-

Polls for Johnson by 64 percent

President Lyndon B. Johnson continued to hold a wide margin over Senator Barry F. Goldwater in two polls taken this week on the national election set for Tuesday (Nov. 3).

Lou Harris, one of the nation's top pollsters, said Johnson was ahead of Goldwater 60 percent to 34 percent with 6 percent undecided.

According to the Gallup Poll, the Johnson-Humphrey ticket will poll 64 percent of the vote with 29 percent for Goldwater and 7 percent undecided.

Elmo Roper, veteran pollster, predicted the election of Johnson, declaring Goldwater's strength is in one place only—"the remaining six states of the once solid South where Gov. Wallace had intended to run."

Flood gets home, airman still out

MARTINEZ, Cal., — Scores of white residents of the fashionable Alamos District—most of them housewives—welcomed St. Louis Cardinals outfielder Curt Flood and his wife, Beverly, on Wednesday, to the home from which they had been temporarily barred by a racist real estate agent.

The neighbors gathered in front of the residence as the Floods appeared to take over under a sheriff's guard. They took turns introducing themselves and openly repudiating the agent, George C. Finn, for his refusal to honor a lease signed by himself and Flood.

* * *

THE ATHLETE and his wife moved into the $35,000 home without incident despite threats of keeping him out with gunfire.

Sheriff's deputies were on hand as a locksmith drilled through a changed lock and allowed the star centerfielder of the world champion Cardinals entry to the home they signed a lease for last week.

Finn, an agent of the owner, did not appear at the scene in spite of threats to shoot if Flood attempted to move into the home.

FLOOD ON Tuesday, filed suit in Superior Court charging Finn with displaying a shotgun. Flood quoted Finn as saying:

"No n...rs are going to move in here. We will shoot them first."

Also on hand when Flood moved in were representatives of the California Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC), who provided for the presence of

Dr. King to speak Saturday

A walk up Gay Street in East Baltimore will highlight the early part of Dr. Martin Luther King's day in Baltimore tomorrow (Saturday) to help the city's ministers to "Get Out The Vote".

Leaving the Lord Baltimore Hotel at 10 a.m., Dr. King will drive in an an open convertible over Baltimore St. to Gay and Orleans.

Here he will get out of the car and walk the four blocks to Aisquith and Gay and then proceed by car to Ashland and over Ashland to Bond St. and the Faith Baptist Church for a press conference and Ministers' Break

Piercing screams stabbed the hazy dusk that descended on the 1300 block Woodyear St. late Wednesday afternoon.

Hundreds of spectators, shock etched in their faces, converged in the narrow, rundown, ghetto-like block and spilled over into surrounding streets.

Reason—or one-half of the reason—for this utter confusion lay on the floor of 1331 Woodyear St.

Margaret Young, a 16-year-old school drop-out, was dead. She had been virtually cut in half by a 12-gauge shotgun blast.

The other half of the reason accounting for the near panic that shattered the relative quiet of a late fall afternoon in the prison-like street was

"Let the death of this boy be a reminder to his young friends and the youth of the community that life can be short.

"Let it shake them to the fact that they too must die."

Speaking at funeral services Thursday for 20-year-old Marvin (Marty) Mason, 2308 Avalon Ave., was the Rev. Bluford A. Dawkins, pastor, Progressive First Baptist Church.

The youth, according to the medical examiner, suffered a heart attack while engaged in a football game last Sunday on the Douglass High school athletic grounds.
