President of Zambia feted at Blair House

WASHINGTON

In America for his first visit since becoming president of newly independent Zambia, Dr. Kenneth D. Kaunda was entertained at a Monday night reception at Blair House.

Zambia was formerly northern Rhodesia and gained her independence from England on Oct. 24 of this year.

Dr. Kaunda's visit was described as a working trip during which he conferred with President Johnson on Wednesday and met with other U. S. officials.

Included in Dr. Kaunda's party was the new ambassador to Washington, Hosea Josiah Soka, who presented his credentials at the White House on Wednesday.

Serving as host was U. S. Chief of Protocol Angier Biddle Duke and his wife, assisted by the protocol staff, including Julian Nichols.

The Zambian party was accompanied from New York by various government officials including James Pope, head of the African Desk at the United States Information Agency.

Harvest Ball held at Glenwood Country Club

A chilly wind swept gently across the hills of Howard County Friday night. A new moon, ringed by a misty haze, shown dimly. It was cold.

In the cozy confines of the Glenwood Country Club, however, members and guests gathered to celebrate the second annual Harvest Ball.

It was warm, very warm.

The club, a cooperative recreation county paradise, is headed by Roosevelt Nixon, president.

On Friday, Mr. Nixon, Mrs. Mary B. McCray or "Bonnie," the manager, and the program committee served a delectable menu — Creme chicken on toast, chef salad, and coffee, with Clyde L. Clark at the helm of the ship of service.

Johnny Sparrows and His Bows and Arrows served up an equally delectable musical and the way those folks danced until the wee hours of the morning they were obviously thankful for a bountiful harvest.

"LIBBY BYRD," as Mrs. Johnny Sparrows is known when she's at mikeside, aided and abetted the Bows and Arrows.

There were twisting, shouting, walking the dog, fruging Wa Tusing, swim, diving, birding, and monkeying all over the place.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, the above are legitimate titles of popular dance crazes.

Old standards, however, that is ball room, jitterbug, the Big M, and fox trot were also in vogue for the night (which made may of those on the other side of youth happy).

The most dashing jitterbug exhibit was turned in by Mr. Nixon and Mrs. McCray, his sister - in - law, by the way.

Other Harvest Ball celebrators included:

Also Messrs. and Mesdame Albert W. Crump, Linwood Nixon, and Dr. and Mrs. Roland C. McConnell. Mrs. Joyce E. Davis, Mrs. Cassie Carmen, and Misses Thelma J. Craig, Gloria McIntyre, Mary Lynch, Gloria A. Hall, Sandra L. Grist, Jacqueline M. Spooner, Loretta Lassiter

Also Messrs Adolph McDonald, Calvin W. Paker, Von L. Burton Jr., Samuel W. Beasley, and scads of others too busy to sign the guest sheet.

Mrs. Ethel H. Felder named head of Beauticians' Guild

Mrs. Ethel H. Felder was re-elected president of the Professional Beauicians" Guild at the recent session.

Other officers named were: Mrs. Bertha Jones, vice president; Mrs. Elma Steward, recording secretary; Mrs. Joan Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, treasurer; Mrs. Edythe Myers, financial secretary; Mrs. Josephine Monroe, chaplain; Mrs. Virgie Waters, new member director; Miss Jeanette Spriggs, historian; Mrs. Mamie Allen, sargeant-at-arms; Mrs. Christine Anderson, parliamentarian; Mrs. Joan Johnson, publicity director; Mrs. Dorothy Tross, educational director.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the induction of officers, the group planned a party, to which past members and friends will be invited. This affair is scheduled for December 14.

Members of the Guild also include:

Mesdames Elizabeth Wright, Mary Crosby, Mary Brooks, Cora Henderson, Sarah Hudson, Bernice Harden, Mildred Harper, Anita Pleasant, Lillian Tate, Mae Walk-

Mesdames Gertrude Robinson, Sarah Sterling, Lois James, Emma Hawkins, Bernice Harden, Ruth Cheeks, Margaret Singletary and Blanche Richardson.

MRS. ETHEL H. FELDER

Business, which was concerned with the year's program, was presented by committee chairman and emphazied the Links' three - fold purposes, civic interest and responsibilities locally and nationally, cultural appreciatio throug the arts and enriche- intergroup relationships.

The initial payments of the Mrs. Lou Perrin, president of the Baltimore chapter of Links hosted that group at cocktails and dinner in the Sheraton Baltimore Inn, recently.

Assisting her in the Hospitality Room were two "heir - o - Links" (daughters) Cordrene Griffin and Julia Davidson, who pinned corsages on each member. Mrs. Perrin was also assist- National sinks pledge to the NAACP Education and Legal Defense was made, and adopte was the National Youth Project for the local chapter. Special aid to the Tutorial Projects and the Lafayette community center was endorsed.

Local projects outlined for the year included the pledged payment to the Provident Hospital Building Fund; cultural activities of the Performing Arts; international interests centering around Africa; annual Christmas gifts to Crownsville; Participation in local civic projects and the annual Easter Monday activity.

The Lnks played an important roll during Foster Parent Week by giving service and making a financial contribution.

Pearl Pennington, Catherine Adams and Mrs. Perrin served as hostesses at the State Building during the reception given for Foster Parents which was attended by more than 2,000 people.

During the play period which followed the business session the special orchid of Friendship for the month was presented to Link Florence Gloster.

Bridge was played with Sook McDonald and Florence Gloster winning prizes.

Out - of - town Link guests included Mrs. Oneida Anderson of Chicago, guest and relative of Pearl Pennington; and Mrs. Doris Busby of the Detroit Chapter who is living at Ft. Meade where her husband is stationed.
