Try mullet for both budget and taste

Mullet is an economical and nutritious fish that is readily adaptable to many different methods of preparation.

It can be broiled, deep fat fried, oven fried or baked. Smoked mullet is a favorite and in many parts of the Southeast and in Latin America salted mullet makes a hit.

Here are some good mullet recipes:

FESTIVE MULLET is made with two pounds mullet fillets, fresh or frozen; one-half cup French dressing, one and one-half cups crushed cheese crakers, two tablespoons melted fat or oil, and Paprika.

To prepare: thaw frozen fillets. Skin fillets and cut in to serving - size portions. Dip fish in dressing and roll in cracker crumbs.

Place on a well-greased cooky sheet, 15 x 12 inches. Drizzle fat over fish. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in an extremely hot oven, 500 degree F., for 10 to 12 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

Serves 6.

FOR BAKED STUFFED Mullet Fillets use two pounds fresh fillets, one teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, bread stuffing, one-fourth cup butter or other fat, melted, and 3 slices bacon.

To prepare, Skin fillets. Cut into serving - size portions.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Line 12 well-greased muffin tins with fillets, overlapping ends of fillets.

Divide bread stuffing into 12 equal portions; shape into balls. Place a ball of stuffing in center of each fillet.

Brush tops with butter and place one-fourth slice of bacon on each. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degree F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

Bread stuffing for baked stuffed mullet fillets is made with three tablespoons chopped onion, one teaspoon thyme, sage, or savory seasoning, three-fourths cup chopped celery, one quart soft bread cubes, one-third cup butter or other fat, melted; dash of pepper, and one teaspoon salt.

Cook onion and celery in butter until tender. Combine all ingredients; mix thoroughly. If stuffing seems very dry, moisten with one tablespoon water, milk, or fish stock. Serves 6.

MULLET TOMATO FANTANS require two cups 6.

Wine punch for bridal shower

This is the season for weddings. To honor the bride-to-be, delicate lemon-flavored punch will make any party the one she'll remember most. It's easy on the hostess too, because the punch is simple and combines well with any kind of party food.

flaked mullet, one cup chopped celery, two hard - cooked eggs, chopped; one-third cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, two tablespoons chopped sweet pickle or drained pickle relish, one tablespoon chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 6 large tomatoes, lettuce.

Combine all ingredients except tomatoes and lettuce; chill. Wash tomatoes and remove stem ends; place on lettuce. Cut each tomato in 3 vertical slices not quite through.

Separate slices slightly and sprinkle with salt.

Fill in between slices with salad, using about one-third cup for each tomato. Serves 6.

A solid ring of ice decorates and chills the punch with a minimum of dilution. For extra color and flavor, garnish the bowl with strawberries, either whole or sliced, and fresh flowers.

THE SAUTERNE produced in California is dry and flavorful, so it combines well with a fairly sweet sherbet to make a refreshing beverage.

For a sparkling punch, substitute California Champagne for the Sauterne and serve immediately.

SHERBET WINE Punch is made with 1 quart lemon sherbet, 1 can (6-oz.) frozen lemonade, concentrate, 1 (4/5 qt.) bottle California Sauterne or other white dinner wine, well chilled.

Place the sherbet and lemonade concentrate in a large bowl. Slowly blend in the wine until mixture is smooth and creamy. Serve immediately. The punch separates slightly as it stands; so stir before serving. Allow about 2 servings for each guest. The ingredients can be easily increased to serve any number desired.

The above makes about 20 three-ounce servings.

Sophia Loren, mate in bigamy case

ROME, (UPI)—Italian actress Sophia Loren and producer Carlo Ponti, married for eight years, must stand trial on bigamy charges a Rome court ruled.

The court set July 6 as the starting date for the long-delayed trial. If found guilty, both film producer Ponti and the Academy Award winning Actress would face one to five years imprisonment.

The trial is based on charges that Ponti was still legally married to his first wife, Giuliana Fiastri, when he married Miss Loren by proxy in Mexico in 1957.

Okay seen for more low-cost housing

Preliminary steps toward the possible authorization of up to 1,500 additional low rent housing units for Baltimore will be continued at 1 p.m. Monday, with an open hearing on the matter by the City Council's Judiciary Committee.

William D. Schaefer (5th), committee chairman, told the AFRO the hearing and subsequent full Council action is expected to be unanimous approval.

The proposal is a resolution to authorize the city's Housing Authority to apply to the Public Housing Administration for a preliminary loan of not more than $117,500 for surveys and planning.

The last such public housing to be built here is the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency's Murphy Homes on George St.

A number of additional units have been authorized as additions to some existing proects.

See more marchers in Ala. town

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — Integration leaders in nearby Camden sent a telegram to Gov. George C. Wallace Tuesday threatening daily demonstrations unless more voter registration days are granted.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. visited the Selma area Monday to breathe new life into the voter drive. It was his first trip to the area since the Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march, and he told a cheering crowd that "Alabama still isn't right," despite recent gains.

Leaders fanned out through Western Alabama during the day to encourage members of their race to sign up as voters. Most Alabama counties have two registration days a month, usually the first and third Mondays of the month.

The Camden group that wired Gov. Wallace said in addition to demonstrations, "24-hour church vigils" would be conducted through Saturday unless the voter registration period is liberalized in Wilcox County.

VALUABLE HISTORY BOOK — This picture, "The First Mississippi Colored Calvary bringing into Vicksburg Confederate prisoners captured at Haines's Bluff," is one of the engravings in a volume printed in 1885 and owned by Mrs. Mamie Rose, 1921 W. Lanvale St. The book, "The Soldier in Our Civil War," was given to her grandfather, who later passed it on to his children.

Four generations learn from rare history book

By ROGER J. NISSLY

Ask Mrs. Mamie Rose what her most valued possession is and the answer most likely will be "The old history book handed down by my grandfather."

The leather - bound book "Our Civil War"—was printed in 1885 and by now many of its pages are ragged and dog - eared from the constant use from four generations of Mrs. Rose's family.

Mr. Rose, who lives at 1921 Lanvale St., said the book was first given to her grandfather — a former slave — by some Friends of his in Richmond.

"At that time it was hard for colored people to buy books like this, you know," she said.

"Since then, it was handed down to my uncle, my father's family, then to me. I used it when I was in school and my daughter used it. You can see how worn it is; we have to hold it together with string now.

"There are things in it you don't find in books now. Here, let me show you."

AND, INDEED — in this time of vociferous discussion about teaching colored history in city schools — there are things in Mrs. Rose's volume that you don't find in today's books, especially today's school books.

"I've heard people argue that there was no colored cavalry in the Civil War," she continued, "Whenever anyone told me that, I just showed them the book and said 'look.'"

She pointed to a picture of the "First Mississippi colored calvary bringing into Vicksburg Confederate prisoners captured at Haine's Bluff."

"I wonder how many children know that," she mused.

The tattered 600 - page volume — about twice as thick and with pages twice as large as a telephone directory — contains many such illustrations, one for every other page in the book.

The pictures are engraved sketches drawn by, according to the publisher, "our own artists, who were eyewitnesses to the strife."

Along with a complete written history of the war, the commentary also includes tables on pay scales of soldiers, lists of all the cities that contributed money to the war and a complete chronology with all the events and battles, even the most minor ones.

AMONG THE handsome engravings are:

"Assault of the Second Louisiana Colored Regiment on the Confederate Forces at Port Hudson, May 27, 1863."

"The Confederate Generals Edwardson and Stewart taken to the rear by Colored Calvary, May 12, 1864;"

"Presentation of colors to the 20th U. S. Colored Infantry by Col. Bertram in New York City, March 5, 1864;"

"The Colored Infantry bringing in captured guns amid cheers of the Ohio Troops;"

"Exciting scene in the January 31, 1865, on passage of the Amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery for ever;"

"The War in Virginia — The 22nd Colored Regiment, Duncan's Brigade, carrying the first line of Confederate Works before Petersburg;"

And "The Plantation Police or Home Guard, examining colored passees on the Levee Road, below New Orleans, La."

Under one of the pictures, this summation of the bravery of the colored troops is given by a northern general:

"They answered every expectation. Their conduct was heroic. No troops could be more determined or daring. The highest commendation is bestowed upon them."

ALL THE famous battles are shown in the engravings, along with detailed maps of land and naval encounters.

The book's subtitle is "A Pictorial History of the Conflict 1861 - 1865, Illustrating the Valor of the Soldier as Displayed on the Battlefield."

It was edited by Paul F. Mollelay and T. Campbell Copeland, "assisted by the most notable generals and commanders on both sides," and published in New York.

"A lot of people don't know the colored soldiers played such an important part in the war," Mrs. Rose said as she closed the book.

"My grandfather, he was 84 when he died, wanted all his children to have the book and to use it. Now we are all grown and I feel it should still be used."

Mrs. Rose explained that she intended to give the book to a neighbor, who is majoring in history at Morgan State College and who is "greatly interested in it;"

"That way," she said, "he will be able to use it when he teaches, so that other children, both colored and white, will have it to learn history — real history."

THUS THE volume that James Logan a former slave, brought out of Virginia and gave to his children "to have and to use" will go on teaching other children history — real history.

Marines in 1st ground action

SAIGON, —(UPI)—U. S. Marine ground troops skirmished on the Viet Nam battlefield for the first time Thursday with Viet Cong guerrillas. In the air, U. S. and Vietnamese planes carried out bombing attacks against North Viet Nam, hitting a nest of Communist PT boats.

Marines planes have struck the Viet Cong and Marine Infantrymen have engaged in sniping and grenade-throwing incidents with the guerrillas but Thursdays 10-minute engagements near the Da Nang missile and air base was the first direct contact. One marine was wounded.

Shastri may visit

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — The White House said Wednesday President Johnson still hopes Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri will visit the United States in late summer.

Shastri canceled his scheduled U. S. trip after Johnson had announced the June visit would be postponed.

White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy said the postponement merely indicated the Asian leader's visit would be in late summer instead of early summer.

Hints for Homemakers

INEZ KAISER

If you are a typical homemaker, it is my guess that your thoughts are concentrated on spring cleaning. It is the time of the year when women want to give the house a clean, fresh, airy look.

Now there is one sure way of adding a touch of spring-time on the inside, and that is by cleaning your curtains, slip covers, and bedspreads. One of the surest ways of getting them clean is by using "all" when you launder.

This past weekend I laundered my bedroom and kitchen curtains and bedspreads as well in "all"! They looked like new when I removed them from my automatic machine.

After seeing how clean they were, I was more convinced than ever that active "all" outcleans every other leading detergent when used as directed. It is also effective for laundering your blankets or throw rugs before storing them away.

The controlled suds guarantee full washing action, better rinsing and are better for your washing machine. In fact, you use less than any other type detergent and get more cleaning power.

If you want your home to take on the look of spring, just wash out all the winter soil with "all."

Stripe Everybody needs somebody to share their honest viewpoint with them.

This applies to me, too. I am always anxious to know if my readers find that the products discussed really do what I say they will.

Last week a nationally noted woman civic leader chatted with me at length in New York about the column. Much of her conversation was devoted to how much she liked STRIPE Tooth Paste. Coming from her, I knew that the real truth would be told. And it was! She was a satisfied customer, convinced that this tooth paste keeps your breath fresh for at least four hours or longer.

It was her observation that this STRIPE Tooth Paste not only cleans your teeth, but serves as a mouthwash as well. I explained to her that the addition of hexachlorophene made this possible.

Since she was constantly traveling, she found that, by using STRIPE, it was no longer necessary for her to carry both a tube of tooth paste and mouthwash. All she packs now is a large-size package of red and white STRIPE.

Her last remarks were, "Now, I believe what I read about products, especially if you write it!"

There is nothing better than an acceptable, well-known name. It matters not whether it is the name of a family, an automobile, brand of food or a product. The fact that it stands for something good is all that really matters.

Lever Brothers kept this in mind when they chose a name for their new dishwashing liquid. The company could think of no better name than DOVE, because women know, like and use the beauty bar of the same name. They know that DOVE means mildness, whether it is used for bathing or dishwashing.

This pure white lotion liquid not only leaves your dishes sparkling, but your hands are kept safe, too.

Every clinical test that was made showed that it was better for your hands.

In fact, it is unusually good for those of you who may have dry, sensitive or problem hands.

DOVE is so gentle to the skin that you will actually see the difference in the way your hands look and feel when you use DOVE regularly to wash your dishes. It is available in regular, giant and king sizes.

So when you look for DOVE, be sure to purchase the liquid as well as the bar. Believe me, it is a new "safe" buy.
