—Expressway crisis

interstate program must be completed by Sept. 30, 1972.

"This means we cannot launch a program, if we cannot give all assurances of completion by that date."

Mr. Funk then displayed a recent letter from Rex M. Whitton, U.S. Highway Commissioner, who questioned whether the city could complete its program on time.

AT THIS point, nobody among top officials concerned seems to know. Only opinions were advanced for the AFRO.

Mr. Funk said he thought so, if the agencies and City Council could get together.

Philip Darling, director, City Planning Commission, said essentially the same thing.

Thomas D'Alesandro 3rd, City Council president, said Tuesday he hoped to have the whole matter through the Council by the end of this month.

"When we get the lower leg of the Jones Falls Expressway out of the way," he said, "everything will fall in place."

Disagreement is strong, however, even in the City Council over the Jones Falls route and its type, south from the present cutoff at Biddle St. downt to Baltimore.

Earlier plans, already federally approved, call for an elevated freeway, but one councilman has introduced an ordinance seeking to place the route at ground level.

Other differences remain which Mr. D'Alesandro hones to settle in a Council session he has set for 1:30 p.m. May 13.

BUT, WHERE does this leave the "Expressway dwellers" who have had to live with the doubts, uncertainties and fears brought on by all this still unsettled planning through the years?

"This is a big problem." Mr. Darling told the AFRO. "and there are no good answers.

"Nothing can be done by way of negotiating for such properties to be taken until there is clearance by the Council."

Earlier such negotiations are scheduled on the East-West route for the spring of 1967 in the sector west of Fremont Ave., in the Mulberry-Franklin Sts. corridor, should the Council approve the entire system.

Even in this area, there is sharp disagreement whether the route should extend south at Fremont and take a portion of the Poe Homes, or go south between Myrtle Ave., and Pine St. and turn eastward in the Lee-Hill Sts. sector.

SHOULD THE routes be approved by the June 10 deadline, there remain many headaches and fears for the homeowner who is an "Expressway dweller." In addition to trying to get as much as possible for his property.

There is the very big matter of relocating his family.

Mr. Funk had these explanations:

"We must give these displaced persons as much aid as possible in relocating in homes in accordance to their standards and affordable desires.

"The Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency has said it can only relocate 500 families a year. We have 4,000 to deal with.

"At the rate of 500 families a year, it will take eight years to get them relocated, longer than the seven years we now have to build the expressways."

WHAT IF the expressways federal funds are lost to the city, by continued bickering past the deadline.

"I don't know," Mr. Funk said. "We would have to start planning all over again to determine what to do. Maybe we would have to go out and build a second beltway.

"Something would have to be done to relieve the growing traffic.

Maryland motorists pay $15,000,000 a year in federal gasoline taxes, and they ought to get this back in government - aided, constructed roads for their use.

AT THE moment, the inner city sections of the East — West Expressway remain unsettled, as they have for at least seven years.

Agreement has been reached, however, on the "Expressway Dweller." In addition to trying to get as much as possible for his property.

Neither has been approved by the City Council though, formally, that is.

When the whole maze of expressways is completed, it will be a cost in excess of $250,000,000.

ONE FINAL question, a big one, remained.

Who is it that decides where an expressway is to go, making an "Expressway dweller" out of a homeowner who never dreamed his home would be taken to help make a traffic artery routes

"A number of things may be responsible," Mr. Darling stated. "Traffic congestion, federal highway programs, decisions by agencies as the City Planning Commission and the State Roads Commission of where best through consulting engineers' advice to place the arteries."

Does the property owner have any redress to stop such an arbitrary taking of his home?

"No."

commendation was rejected by the 14 - member advisory board.

Mr. Ellington's telephone comment was reported. "Fate's being kind to me. She doesn't want me to be too famous too young."

THE BOARD's rejection of the music jury's choice marks the second year that there has been no music award. No comment on the rejection was made available

Strange to say a jazz musician has never won a Pulitzer Prize. In 1960 Samuel Barber won it for his Piano concerto No. 1.

Duke Ellington was not recommended for the kind of prize which singles out a particular work, but for long — range achievement. In 1958 Walter Lippmann the columnist, was awarded such a citation.

HARSEY, Neb., (UPI) — More than 200 special fire fighters from three states joined the Battle Thursday against lightning-ignited out-of-control fire that has destroyed more than 2,000 acres of the nation's largest man-seeded forest.

Paquin may end right to snub in-city schools

Baltimore's practice of allowing new teachers to decide if they want to teach in inner city schools may be changed after Dr. Laurence G. Paquin takes over as city school superintendent in August.

Presently, well qualified teachers are accepted for employment even if they decline to teach in inner-city schools on the grounds that teachers are needed in all areas.

Reached in New Haven, Conn., this week Dr. Paquin declined to comment on the situation before he officially becomes head of the schools in Baltimore.

He did indicate that he "would take a position" on the practice when he is given "responsibility" for the schools here.

The practice which often siphons off the best qualified teachers to more modern schools on the rim of the city recently drew fire from Senator Robert Kennedy for the poor quality of instruction which it provides disadvantaged children in New York in inner-city schools.

drawn, is two miles from Dunbar and lies in an area on the rim of the city where other high schools have recently been built or are under construction.

The main site for a new 23-acre plot in an adjacent inner city school, as projected by CORE, would be in a urban renewal area near Dunbar.

The Rev. Mr. Clark showed that the enrollments in nearby elementary and junior high schools and the occupancy figures for six East Baltimore housing projects warranted the construction of a new high school in that area.

He said that the students who attend Dunbar are "deprived, have suffered too long."

Brenda Harlee, president of Student CORE, told the board that "Dunbar doesn't prepare graduates to enter into the labor force." She is enrolled in the commercial course.

Geraldine Jones, who asked for "basic" to be taken off diplomas, stated that "when you are competing for a job and you have 'basic' on your diploma; you feel like you have accomplished nothing in 12 years."

Another student, William Gross, said he knows fifty friends who have graduated and are not prepared for jobs.

Elizabeth Williams said that as an honor student in the basic course she could not go to college, although she took the same courses as regular students.

AFTER HEARING the presentation, Board Chairman Eli Frank Jr. stated that "as soon as we can complete our own studies, and they are well under way" the board would decide the fate of Clifton Park and whether it should be dropped in favor of a new Dunbar.

Board member Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy Moss assured the students that the board was heartened by the sincerity of their presentation and that it would give "serious consideration" to the solution of the citizens' demands for a new high school in the inner city.

Mrs. Christopher Gray, representing the League of Women Voters, asked for support of programs for special education for the culturally deprived.

EARLIER in the meeting, the Public School Teachers Association, representing 5,700 Baltimore teachers, submitted a 20-page study of recommendations to the board and offered the services of a special committee to study the Dunbar situation PSTA will make a study during the summer.

Other board members present were J. Percy Bond, Dr. William S. Stone, John J. Sweeney Jr. and Sidney H. Levy Jr.

Absent were Dr. William D. McElroy, who was out of the city; Philip Macht, who was out of the country and Mrs. M. Richmond Farring, who was confined to the hospital.

CORE demonstrators paraded outside the School Board's E. 25th St. office before the 4 p.m. meeting began. They carried signs urging a new Dunbar.

so-called "felony murders"—that is, those committed by robbers, sex offenders or other felons. The vast majority of killings take place as a result of personal animosity between people who are relatives or acquaintances.

Nearly a third of all willful homicides take place within a family unit. Husbands kill wives slightly more often than wives kill husbands. Parents kill children three times as often as children kill parents.

IN KILLINGS outside the family, lovers' quarrels are involved in 17 per cent, "drinking situations" in 14 per cent, quarrels over money in 5 per cent, and revenge is the motive in 4 per cent.

"The easy accessibility of firearms and the lethal nature of a gun are clearly apparent in the murder statistics," says an FBI official. Guns are used in 58 per cent of all willful killings, knives in 23 per cent, blunt objects in 6 per cent. The remaining 15 per cent involve poison, vehicles, strangling and a wide variety of other techniques.

Four Roses adds a Fifth Rose.
Where? Not where you can see it...where you can taste it.
We've found a way to make whiskey actually taste good. Not just smoother or lighter. Not just blander or milder. But good.
Many a distiller has tried. Now we've succeeded.
The great new taste of Four Roses—that's the Fifth Rose. At long last, a taste you don't just say you like—but really like.
This could change a lot of people's ideas about why they drink whiskey. And what whiskey they should drink.
Suggestion: see for yourself how surprisingly good a whiskey can taste. And how surprisingly reasonable a good-tasting whiskey can be. Four Roses doesn't cost any more any more.
So now there's no reason in the world why you shouldn't buy Four Roses.
