MAINE LOBSTER JOINED BY KING CRAB

LEWISTON, Maine—The most famous products of this community, until Tuesday night, were the Maine lobster and Maine sardines, with an occasional glance down the stately nose at Idaho in the potato bin . . . Since then, however, another scaly proposition has been added to the pot . . . It is a King Crab . . . and crabbing about what took place here at St. Dom's Youth Center on May 25, 1965, is likely to go on for sometime.

When Cassius Clay won the first heavyweight championship fight in Maine's history, and the only one in New England since Joe Louis mangled Al McCoy in Boston in 1940, the good burghers of Lewiston might have been able to pop their vests and girdles over the realization that their homeland was the cynosure of all the world's eyes for at least one night . . . But, due to the developments on that fateful evening, the natives can only be thankful of the fact that science has not yet come up with a way to televise in the third dimension . . . . the fishy smell would have stunk up the universe . . . just the same, there was a measure of pride here that Lewiston had become famous and devil take the manner or means.

* * *

THAT FIGHT fans could be induced to stay up as late as 3 o'clock in the morning in London—even as late as 4:30 a.m., in parts of France, Italy, Germany and the Netherlands—to see their town and what it had to offer the Early Bird satellite, was proof enough to Mainelanders that they are part of the nuclear age . . . and the fact that this came as something of a shock to them was clearly understandable from the moment a flight reporter left the Boston air terminal to board the plane for Lewiston.

For one who had enjoyed the luxury of jets, DC 6's, stratoliners, etc., the machine waiting on the runway was enough to question the faith . . . But with most of the expense allowance gone, it was the point of no return . . . There was no choice but to put the body aboard and look for jumping room . . . In comparison to the ships of previous A to Z flights, this looked like an airborne entry in the soapbox derby . . . and it wasn't until we were approaching the target that a measure of mental comfort returned . . . at least this little can would be able to get down through the tiny opening that had been cut out of the Primeval Forest, and land on the checkerboard laid out below in pretense o an airfield.

ENROUTE to the city, the ground transportation ran along cozy, macadam roads lined by pine trees weighted down with pregnant cocoons . . . these marked the approach to the most remote site for a heavyweight title match since the never-explained choice of Shelby, Montana, for the Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons thing in 1923 . . . and one wondered whether the good people here deserved what they were getting.

The suspicion became inevitable . . . that power-seeking politicians and money-hungry promoters had teamed up to foist a generally disenfranchised production on an unwitting public . . . The innocence of these simple folk stood out on their faces and there could be little doubt that, in the minds of most of them, muslim was just something used for making curtains. . . . That is, until gun-toting state cops started swarming all over the place, and Charlie, the friendly member of the local constabulary, suddenly lost his perpetual smile . . . That's when the burghers commenced to wonder.

And for their questions, there were unexpected answers . . . . One of the fight principals is a member of a cult known as Muslims and his wife is supposed to be a "queen" who was given him by the sect because he had been a good and generous boy . . . . And in addition to the opponent, who also travels under a gangster's tiara, there were sympathizers of a rival cult in town hunting for his head.

* * *

LEWISTON is a quaint little town of 41,000 permanent inhabitants, many of whom are doubtlessly still scratching their heads and trying to figure where so many colored people came from during the hours surrounding the fight . . . there is only one colored family here and they keep so closely to themselves that even City Hall had to call the principal at the high school to learn their name.

Ironically, while over 95 per cent of the population was in a tizzy over the presence in their midst of the two men supposed to be the world's best fighters, the family of Mrs. Margaret Taylor couldn't have cared less . . . Mrs. Taylor, who has been on the registrar's staff at Bates College for 14 years, admitted to A to Z that she isn't "much of a sports fan."

Her 19-year-old son, James, starred in football, basketball, and baseball while he was a student at Lewiston High, which explains why the family was quickly identified by the principal there . . . "and I suppose he'll play at the University of Maine after he completes a year of preparation at Maine Central Institute in Pittsfield," said the proud mother . . . "but I must confess, I saw very little of him in competition . . . my father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nichols, are both 88 years old, and much of my time is devoted to taking care of them."

* * *

SHE DIDN'T mention it at the time but the inquisitive AFRO reporter later learned that Mrs. Taylor is a member of the board of directors of the Young Women's Christian Association, and is chairman of the Lewiston chapter of the World Welfare Council, an organization dedicated to helping unwed mothers.

Octogenarian Lewis Nichols can't remember ever living anywhere but here and, within the confines of this home, there is speculation as to whether the town got its name from some of his forebears . . . like his daughter, he appeared totally indifferent to the excitement generated by the influx of thousands of outlanders to his quiet domain.

"I say that fight they have in the record books," he recalled, referring to the Al Couture - Ralph Walton bout of 1946, which ended in a knockout in 10-1/2 seconds and is listed as the shortest in history . . . "I paid 75 cents for my ringside seat, and when I left here that night I knew I would never see another one . . . if it wasn't for all the fuss they've been making around here, I wouldn't even known who these boys are."

Reasons for Viet blasts

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — A delayed fuse or an engine starter may have caused the series of deadly explosions at the Bien Hoa Air base in South Viet Nam, it was reported.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, said this was the opinion of Air Force officers who recently returned from an on-the-scene investigation. The May 16 disaster took the lives of 27 Americans.

Sick of Giardello dodge, Tiger asks for light-heavies

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Now it's Dick Tiger's turn to play it cozy.

It was more than 17 months ago that Joey Giardello took the middle - weight crown from Tiger and since that day he's been hemming and hawing and successfully avoiding a rematch. However, Giardelo seemed to relent somewhat Thursday when he announced that if Tiger defeated Rubin (Hurricane) Carter he would talk title with him.

WELL, Tiger defeated Carter and in convincing fashion with a unanimous 10 - round decision Thursday night in a bout that saw him down his opponent three times with ferocious left hands. And now Tiger says he's heard enough of Giardello.

"I've been waiting 17 months," Tiger said in his dressing room at Madison Square Garden. "I don't want to call him and waste any time. I've fought all the middleweights around and now I'm going to try the light - heavyweight division."

The 35-year - old Nigerian wants a shot at Wayne Thornton, the number one light - heavy, but Thornton has his sights set on Jose Torres, the new champ. That makes it unlikely Thornton will submit to a fight with Tiger and possibly torpedine his chances for a title go.

SOMEONE asked the veteran of 14 years in the ring if it wasn't unwise to move up to the light - heaviese at the age of 35.

"Maybe I should have lied in the beginning," he replied, "but what else can I do now? And then he added, "Did I look 35 tonight?"

Talent show feature of Shriners' youth banquet

"The Character of Youth" was exemplified in talent, at the Third Annual Youth Banquet on Sunday, at the Prince Hall Masonic Temple under the direction of Charles Downes and a corps of assistants.

Featured were 40 members of the Shriners' Youth Club of Jerusalem Temple No. 4, directed by Noble Charles Downes.

They presented a varied program of talent and drilling.

The Youth Club was reorganized by Illustrious Potentate Travis W. Vaulx, who assumed that office in 1964. Membership includes youngsters ages 9 to 18.

* * *

FOLLOWING the Introductory remarks by Director Downes, the color guard was presented, led by Master Melvin Cade Jr., grandson of Mrs. Innes and Imperial Deputy Noble Richardson, and son of the late Willa and Col. Melvin H. Cade.

Included in the talent of the evening were Michael Tillman, doing a trumpet solo; Carl Tillman, who sang.

Talmadge Makell, their cousin, and master of ceremonies, who, with the Tillman brothers, formed a trio known as "The Three Keys," also showed stage presence.

* * *

INSPIRING talent was a pantomime by the Cade children. The situation comedy was in costume and done with appropriate props.

Although the heroine was inwardly nervous, after two months of rehearsing, Debbie, daughter of the late Major Mr. and Mrs. Cade, showed a mastery of an art slowly fading from the theatre and stage.

The skit was developed from a fun recording entitled, "Dial That Telephone."

* * *

SPEAKER was Mrs. J. J. Barnes, widow of the Methodist minister and a retired school teacher of over 40 years service in the Baltimore schools. Youth members gifted her with flowers.

The youngsters also presented corsages to their mothers and to wives of Nobles and other lady guests at the head table.

These included Illustrious Commanderss Esther Winston; Past Illustrious Commanddress Daisy Bailey Jones.

Another highlight was distribution of a individually wrapped basketballs to the entire membership, courtesy of the Baltimore Bullets. Grand Master Samuel T. Daniels did the honors.

* * *

WORKING with the youth group is a Shrine Adult Auxiliary, composed of mothers, and sponsoring ladies.

President is Mrs. Constance H. Ridgeley, whose father is Arthur L. Hatcher, past potentate of Jerusalem.

Other officers are: Mesdames Bernice Burrows, secretary; Julia McKay, treasurer; Azalea Foreman, business manager.

Other members are: Mesdames Edna Ellis, Virginia Smith, Verda McCleary, Delores Carroll, Maxine Lane, Daisy Spencer, Virginia Perkins and Delores Brooks.

* * *

A NEW auxiliary member, Mrs. Estelle Ratliff dedicated a solo to the guest speaker during the awards ceremony.

Color slides of the largest Shrine parade in St. Louis, 1964, were shown by Nobel Samuel Johnson.

* * *

SURPRISE of the evening honored. Illustrious Potentate Vaulx. Youth Director Downes presented him with an engraved plaque for his "untiring efforts in trying to establish a youth club and for his continued advice and concern for the club director."

In the Senior Cabinet of the Jerusalem Temple No. 4, Youth Club are: Wesley Payne Jr. and Peter L. Redman, assistant directors.

Others recognized were: Dr. Lucius Leeper, a noble, and imperial Advisor of the Jerusalem Temple, Noble Alvan S. Stanley, secretary.

Invocation and benediction were by Noble Robert Julius, Illustrious Organizer of Jerusalem Temple No. 4.

NEW YORK, (UPI) — Several foreign exhibitors at the New York World's Fair Thursday threatened to close their pavilions one or two days a week unless fair officials agree to lower the $2.50 admission fee to the grounds.

Mrs. Mays wins Green Ladies meet

By JOE WHITFIELD

The area women completely dominated the Green Ladies Golf Tournament held recently in Philadelphia, Pa. Mrs. Francis Mays won first place in the championship flight with a sparkling 80.

Second was the perennial champion Mrs. Ethel Punches with 81; third was Alma Arvin with 89. They also took the honors in the first flight with Miss Rose Harper winning first place and Mrs. Irene Brown second.

EARL TASCO won the first flight as usual and Bill Taylor our most competent starter, won third place in the second flight.

Vernon Terry, Bernard Montgomey and George Taliafario qualified in the Men's Championship Flight.

The recipients of the awards were Dr. Montague Cobbs who was awarded the outstanding citizen award; Mrs. Parish Brown, Florence Coleman and Timothy Thomas were awarded the service to youth plaque for their contribution to the physical education program for the sponsorship of the YMCA golf tournament.

Big doings

WASHINGTON, — House members agreed Thursday that further research is needed on the structure of cows, the sterilization of fruit flies, and the love life of the honey bee.

They decided against cutting off price supports on tobacco.

Then they passed and sent to the Senate a $5.7 billion appropriation to finance these and other programs of the agriculture department in the 12 months starting July 1.

Warnings on astronaut lives

ST. LOUIS, Mo., (UPI) — A top U.S. space official that Thursday warned America's high - geared space program cannot be expected to proceed indefinitely without some tragedy involving our astronauts.

The warning by Dr. Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, came just eight days before astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White II were scheduled to take off in the Gemini-4 spacecraft for four days in space.

Homosexual law not changed

LONDON, (UPI) — The House of Commons refused to consider a bill for reform of the law on homosexual offenses by a vote of 178 to 150.

The vote ended hopes that the law might be revised during the current session of Parliament, although the House of Lords approved in principle a similar bill by a two to one margin Monday. The law would remove criminal penalities of private acts of consenting males over 21.
