THREATENS SUIT — Gloria Jon, Miss New York State of 1965 and the first of her race to win the honor has threatened to sue for a million dollars because she was stripped of her title. She charged she lost the title because of her race.

G. L. Washington named to AEF Board

WASHINGTON D.C. —The appointment of G. L. Washington, assistant to Howard University President James Foundation. M. Nabrit, Jr. to serve one-year term on the board of trustees of the Aerospace Education Foundation has been announced by Dr. Lindsey J. Stiles president of the The Aerospace Education Foundation is a non-profit educational organization in Washington, D.C. An affiliate of the Air Force Association, it was established in 1956.

Railroad employees covered by new law

Railroad employees and their families are eligible for the same hospital and medical benefits as other aged persons under the health insurance bill that was signed into law by President Johnson on July 30 according to Harry W. Murphy, manager of the Railroad Retirement Board's Washington district office.

Two health insurance programs for aged persons were established by the new legislation. The first is a hospital insurance plan that will pay most of the costs of hospital and related care.

The second is a voluntary medical insurance plan that will pay a substantial part of doctor bills and certain other medical expenses. Both programs will start in July 1966.

Fulbright Scholarship goes to former drop-out

Walter M. Miles of 2419 E. Biddle St., a June graduate of Loyola College, holds the distinction of being the first graduate to be awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship and a Fulbright Scholarship.

Which did he choose and why?

"I chose the Fulbright because it gave me a chance to do the traveling I have always wanted to do. Also, the probability of my getting the Wilson when I return is very high, so actually little choosing was necessary."

With the Fulbright he will will receive 5000 marks ($1,100), tuition and travel expenses to and from Germany to study for one year.

And if he gets the Woodrow Wilson, he can study at the school of his choice — Harvard — when he returns.

He is interested in Foreign languages (French, German and Italian), but English is his main concern. At the University of Marburg in Marburg, Germany the Scholarship winner will study the influences of English Romanticism on German 19th century Romanticism.

A little older than the average college graduate, Mr. Miles, 26, refers to himself as a "drop-out".

• • •

IN 1956 after graduating from Douglass High, he won a scholarship to Bradley University in Illinois which he left after two semesters.

It was not until he entered the business —still taking courses at night—he decided to return to School.

"Perhaps the thing that prompted me to return was my sojourn in the business world. I hated it. I worked for an insurance company in the Wall St. area (New York) for four years and discovered that the world of academics was far more to my liking."

In selecting a college, Mr. Miles said, "I chose Loyola because I believed it would be more of a challenge than some of the other schools in that area and because it was a Catholic school."

At Loyola Mr. Miles was secretary of the Music Club, feature editor of the newspaper, elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges." He also made the Dean's List and ranked ninth in a class of about 230 in his first semester senior year.

Mr. Miles belonged to the St. John Berchman Society and was a member of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine which qualified him to teach religion to public school children in the eighth and ninth grades at his parish, St. Katherine of Sienna, Preston and Luzerne Sts.

• • •

"INTELLECTUAL curiosity' is the good study habits he says.

"I am constantly amazed at the number of students who come to college thinking they have joined a social club. Or they think this is the entree to a higher paying job. Perhaps it is, but if these are the reasons for coming to school, usually poor study habits are the result," he counselled.

All study and no play won't make Walter Miles a dull man. He sees to that with his Wide range of hobbies and a keen sense of humor.

He loves "to do so much." He enjoys crossword puzzles, scrabble, a good game of bridge and being a true Marylander, a good Pinochle game.

In New York where he is working, he gets a chance to enjoy the things he likes the theatre, museums, reading and viewing art collections.

Like most men, he likes to eat, and he cooks too. "Soul foods" are his favorites — sweet potato pie, fried chicken, Maryland crabs and coconut cake.

Even though all of his close relatives are in Baltimore, Mr. Miles believes that he will probably "live in New York when I finally settle down".

He is the son of Mr. James Miles and Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Westbrooks, who works for the school system.

• • •

WALTER HAS two sisters, Jeanette, a 1965 Douglass graduate, who will enter Morgan in the fall, and Julia E., a student at Douglass.

He also has two brothers, James W., who may be attending Loyola in the fall, and Joseph, 3.

Mr. Miles is especially fond of his grandfather, the Rev. James L. Nichols a retired Baptist minister and a 32nd degree Mason and his godfather, Felix S. Anderson Jr., who is head of the English Department at School No. 181.

A clean medicine dropper kept at a convenient place in the kitchen is the very thing to use when adding just a drop or two of coloring to food.

Tent limits 'Porgy,, still has magic glow

Charleston's "Catfish Row" with its population of colorful characters seems somewhat out of place in a tent theatre, despite the general excellence of the production of "Porgy and Bess" at Painters Mill.

To expose its fullest values, both musically and visually, "Porgy and Bess" needs width and depth, something not available in a theatre in the round, which can only suggest, not underscore the warmth, reality and brutality of life at its rawest.

The location imposes a tremendous handicap on a cast, and the one at Painters Mills rises to the occasion. Martha Flowers as Bess and LaVern Hutcherson as the crippled Porgy are both excellent.

One, however, feels some disappointment in John Bubbles as Sporting Life, in that the slyness inherent in the character never seems to come completly off. Added to this was a tendancy to throw away lines so that they were lost in the confines of the tent.

Catherine Eason as Clara, Gordon Watkins as her husband, Jake, and Mariam Burton are standouts.

• • • •

THE PATHETIC love of Porgy for the weak Bess is an ageless story that, with the music of George Gershwin, has been turned into an American tragedy. The production at Painters Mills reinforces the opinion that the opera will be around for a long time.

We suggest you see it between now and Sunday . . . JDW
