Young Skaters Get Answers To Their Coliseum Questions

The roof leaks — floor in terrible condition — no proper facilities for drinking water — the floor is sometimes used for clothes, etc.

These are not complaints from Urban Renewal inspectors.

The place is the Coliseum Roller Skating Rink. The complaints are from the kids who go there three times a week to wheel around floors that some contend are not in the best condition.

According to the kids, the main use of the Coliseum these days is for roller skating. They estimate some 300 skaters use the place three nights a week.

* * *

BUT, THEY say, the floors are in unsatisfactory condition. "Loose boards all around.

"You really have to see this floor to believe that a skating rink floor can be in such condition and still be used by the general public . ."

Other comments rolled in: ". . . You have to get drinking water in the rest rooms where you wash your hands.

"You have to cup your hands together to drink the water because there are no cups available to you.

"The first - aid kit is not up to par as it should be." (First aid kits are probably important around new skaters).

IN WRITING about the leaky roof causing wet floors, one teen - ager referred to the building as a skating "sink."

"Why is it that a metropolitan city like Baltimore has no roller rink where the teenagers and even the young adults can go for a wholesome and enjoyable evening out?" asked one writer.

"Some might say stop patronizing the Coliseum and they will have to better con-

Supremes ban is no rumor; Revue not set

BY MOSES J. NEWSON

Here's another "rumor" for the columnist who can't believe the Supremes, who are booked for Vietnam in January, are currently barred from "our town's" civic auditorium:

The facts are that not only the Supremes but all rock-roll groups that would attract a largely colored audience ARE BEING BARRED from "our town's" Civic Center.

And here's another tip for WWIN's Larry Dean who interviewed someone way off in Pittsburgh on the air to prove the Motown Revue "definitely" is booked to play the Civic Center on Nov. 8:

Don't hold your breath ole buddy. As of this writing, only you and the man you had on your broadcast know anything about the "definite" date. I should have interviewed the Civic Center manager. He has facts.

* * *

NOW THE Rolling Stones, who are more than welcome at the Civic Center and are coming in this November, have a record going that sums up the feeling of most AFRO readers.

The record is, "I can't Get No Satisfaction."

But Radio WEBB dejay Rockin' Robin told the AFRO this week that the fight to change the situation will go on.

"I'm going to fight this thing all the way," he declared.

Of excuses that the Civic Center has had no firm offer on the barred Supremes, he observed: "That doesn't hold water. Promoters are discouraged by the Civic Center."

WEBB is bringing back James Brown to the

McKeldin proclaims Sunday 'NAACP Day'

With the stroke of his pen this morning (Friday), Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin proclaimed Sunday, Oct. 17, as "NAACP Day In Baltimore City."

The issuance of the proclamation is the forerunner for the local chapter's "Victory Mass Membership" meeting to be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at Sharp Street Memorial Methodist Church.

The Rev. Harold A. Carter, pastor of the New Shiloh Baptist Church, and native of Selma, Ala., will be guest speaker for the celebration which will commemorate the chapter's 30 years of achievements in the areas of education, housing and employment.

Special notice will be made to the recent promotion of Police Lt. Dennis Mello to captain in the Western District.

The meeting, to which the public is invited, highlights the organization's present six-week membership drive which continues through Nov. 16, under the co-chairmanship of Frank Ellis and the Rev. Marcus G. Wood. Reports will be made on the progress of the volunteer workers and churches in reaching the goal of 15,000 members for the year.

Among these present in the mayor's office for the signing of the proclamation were: Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the local chapter; John Murphy III, president of the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; the Rev. A. J. Payne, pastor, Zion Baptist Church; the Rev. Frank Reid, pastor, Bethel AME Church; the Rev. Clinton Coleman, pastor, AME Zion Church; the Rev. Henry Offer, pastor, St. Peter Claver Catholic Church, and Rabbi Morris Leiberman.

Sales guarantee no good if it is not in writing

"Let the buyer beware," is a warning that cannot be sounded too often. If you are planning to spend a sum of money for a household appliance, car, house, or even an insurance policy — be on your guard.

Be careless when you buy and your money may go bye-bye and you still may not be getting what you think.

Be sure to examine what you are about to buy, ask questions, and get any agreements and guarantees in writing.

Don't pay dearly for the words of a salesperson who may tell you something is guaranteed for 30 or 60 days whatever it should be.

Get it in writing or it is no good. Owners of a business are not liable for any verbal statement

BAYARD RUSTIN

Police payoffs seen by MCIC

Half of the top 15 "big" numbers backers in the city are colored, according to Rackets Squad Capt. Joseph E. O'Donnell.

These 15 known backers share the profits on the $100 million Capt. O'Donnell estimates that the lotteries take in during a year in Baltimore.

With their daily operations, the take of the 15 "big men" ranges from about $8,000 to $50,000, Capt. O'Donnell told the AFRO Wednesday.

At the same time, Alvin Zumbrun, executive director of the Maryland Crime Investigation Committee, charged that the Kefauver Crime Hearings have shown "that operations of this scale cannot exist over any period of time without positive protection from some police and some politicians."

* * *

PEOPLE ARE sadly mistaken, Mr. Zumbrun told the AFRO, if they do not believe that a large percentage of these profits "finds its way to the campaign funds of pseudo- or quasi-honest public officials."

"Disappointed with the lack of efficiency in getting the big people," he agreed with Capt. O'Donnell that the answer may lie in more cooperation from federal agents (who police undeclared income for the Internal Revenue Service) or a changing of the laws because "these people should not be left untouched."

Mr. Zumbrun said his

Rustin has his say

By RAY ABRAMS

For all the sound and fury, some of which still echoes in the state, Bayard Rustin came to Maryland this week, delivered the two lectures he had been invited to give before law enforcement agents and helped strike a significant, intellectual blow in favor of free speech not only here, but for the nation as a whole.

As he was giving his final speech Wednesday evening at the University of Maryland's

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — A divorce suit by America's first colored astronaut, Capt. Edward J. Dwight Jr., was on file Wednesday in Wyandotte County District Court.

Dwight's petition charged his wife Barbara Lou with neglect and extreme cruelty. They were married Oct. 1, 1964, at Leavenworth, Kan.

Dwight is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Dwight of Kansas City, Kan.

Paquin Stirs Teachers To Picket

Baltimore's new school superintendent, Laurence G. Paquin is a fighter.

This was vividly demonstrated on Thursday afternoon when he called upon members of the Baltimore Teachers Union to "demonstrate" for restoration of school funds in the current budget.

Paquin says: no more blacktop yards and trespassing signs. See story inside.

His call for 'positive action' on the part of all citizens interested in better schools, came at the luncheon meeting of the Union held at the Sheraton-Belvedere.

He was given a standing ovation.

* * *

RESPONDING TO Dr. Paquin's call for action, a large number of teachers left the meeting and paraded to City Hall.

In a call to march on City Hall, Joseph Marschner, a Union official, echoed the superintendent's statement:

He said, "We have heard our superintendent call for demonstration. . . we must insist the Board of Estimates support the School budget, we propose a march on City Hall in the name 'of the voiceless children of this city.'

At City Hall, Dennis Crosby, president of the Union, and Henry B. Waskow, executive secretary, led the group into Mayor McKeldin's chambers and handed him a 176-word petition urging him to use 'the full power' of his office in support of the school budget.

* * *

MAYOR MCKELDIN left a meeting of the Board of Estimates to greet the group. He reminded them that he was in a picket line for school budget support last year, and pledged his full cooperation.

Others at the head of the 68 - person delegation were Charles Laubheim, vice president; Mrs. Thelma Cox, recording secretary; and Mr. Marschner.

They carried signs which read, 'Hooray For Dr. Paquin, Please Give Him The Full Budget'; 'Save The Budget'; 'Save Our School System, Mr. Mayor.

And, Spare The Knife' and 'For Qualified Education, You Can Reduce Class Size, But Not The Budget'.

Announced were plans to resume picketing when the Board considers the budget on Monday.

* * *

DR. PAQUIN used his appearance before the Teachers Union luncheon to unveil for the first time his detailed plans for the city school, which he defined as a bold and new concept.

He described such a school as an institution housed in a school building which seeks to provide education, recreation for young and old, as well as

17th Ward sleeper in reseating plan

By MAX JOHNSON
AFRO Political Analyst

ANNAPOLIS — After almost a week of fruitless hassling, the Senate, sitting in committee on reapportioning its body, began Thursday afternoon to show some tangible advancement.

First, they killed with an unfavorable report the Legislative Council's highly controversial Senate reseating plan by Congressional Districts, by a 26-1 vote.

This was the proposal to elect six senators from each of eight districts throughout the state, including two in Baltimore.

SECONDLY, THE step forward came with a favorable report on another plan by Senate President William S. James (D. Harford), which would retain the six

Surprise 'victory'

A hurricane of confusion whipped up by a Maryland Court of Appeals decision has literally brought to a standstill the state's legal machinery.

The decision which, scrapped all recent criminal indictments, outlawed the use of an oath for jurors requiring a belief in God before qualifying for jury duty.

According to Thomas B. Finan, state attorney general, "We'll have to start again, right from the beginning, in every pending criminal case, where the defendant does not waive his right to demand his case be taken before a new grand jury."

No grand jury will be available for two-to-three weeks, Mr. Finan said.

One of the immediate repercussions of this decision was felt as far as Texas where Mrs. Madelyn E. Murray is fighting against extradition to Maryland.

Mrs. Murray brought the Supreme Court case which outlawed prayers in public

Football Fill-in worth $50, ducats

One game, one score, four free tickets and $50 cash.

That's the story in the AFRO's Football Fill-In game for readers in Baltimore and Washington.

One game because Baltimore's Colts invade the Washington Redskin camp in the nation's capital.

The $50 cash is something new thrown in and unless some lucky winner collects it this Sunday the pot goes up to $75 — plus two tickets.

To play, just fill in the Football Fill-in blank, Page C-1 this issue and mail in to the AFRO, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, Md., by midnight Saturday.

It's that simple. If you've got your own tickets it's still a pretty big thing to be able to invite friends to come along and see an exciting National Football league match.
