DEATHS

Miss Susan Williams, one of the richest women of Maryland, and owner of "The Hermitage," near the town of Queenstown, died in Baltimore last week, aged 72 years. She had been in failing health for several years. Miss Williams spent several years in France and it is said that her home near Queenstown will be converted into an asylum for the poor and afflicted of France. Miss Williams was noted for her charity. She bequeathed in her will $5000 to the Rev. Albert Ware, of Masseys, this county.

Mr. John Brock, formerly of Chestertown, died in Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, Friday night last of cancer of the stomach, age 70 years. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. S. W. Scott, of Baltimore. Funeral was held Monday interment in Baltimore.

Mrs. F. A. Bennett, of Baltimore, formerly of Chestertown, widow of the late George Bennett, died while on a visit to her daughter in Washington on Monday last, aged about 78 years. Funeral was held Wednesday, interment in Chester cemetery. The deceased leaves two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Ward, of Baltimore, and Mrs. P. S. Smith, of near Washington.

Mrs. Mary A. Hyland, wife of Mr. T. W. Hyland, died at her late home near Rock Hall last Monday, aged 64 years. Besides her husband she leaves one son, Lewin T. Hyland. Funeral services were held Wednesday from the Adventist Church, interment at Wesley Chapel cemetery. Undertaker C. L. Dodd in charge.

Printing Under Difficulties

Private Earle Duyer, who saw service on the Mexican Border and who did good work as a sharpshooter when the German army was smashed in the Muese-Argonne drive, was the editor and publisher of a neat little four page paper that is a credit to his editorial ability and his skill as a printer. The paper was published on the return trip from France to America and under great difficulties. The sea was rough, the type was limited, while the machinery was poor. Nevertheless, a neat little paper was published. Among the many appropriate and well-written articles from the pen of Mr. Duyer we print the following:

THE FUTURE

Stretched out on our narrow bunk, with the throb of the ship's engines constantly in our ears, each revolution of the mighty propellers bringing us nearer home and those we love, our thoughts instinctively leap before us and seek to wrestle with the future with the problems and possibilities that lie ahead.

In the hard school of war we have learned many things. We have learned the value of our homes. We have learned much about our own value, our points of weakness and points of strength. We have seen in fair perspective the lives we lived "back home," and we know where we have failed and where we have succeeded.

Will this knowledge, gotten at so costly a price, help us to meet the new life that lies beyond?

It is a good time for thought, and for resolution. What are we to do, what are we to be, in the future? Has the time spent in the Army been waste time, or are we going back to civil life stronger men, better able to master the problems which civil life is sure to hold for us?

For the future will be—what we Will it to be.

Happiness, achievement, usefulness, progress—all these are ours, with every other good thing in life, if we so Will it to be.

Success or failure lies before us—what is our will?

It is truly a good time for resolution.

Let others speak of the days gone by, and cite with glowing terms the deeds that now are history. For us, our eyes are looking forward, our step advancing. God grant the future, the crowning of our lives, be worthy of the glorious past!
