Olivia named defendant in woman's $81,000 suit

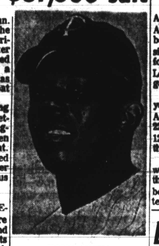
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins, the American League's leading hitter the past two years, was sued for $81,000 this week by a woman who allegedly was injured when he flung a bat into the stands.

Mrs. Dorothy E. Halling was attending a game at Metropolitan Stadium last August, the suit claimed, when she was struck by the bat. The suit said she suffered face cuts; injuries to her teeth, eyes and brain, plus nerve damage.

• • •

NAMED AS CO - DEFENDANTS in the suit were the Twins baseball club and the Metropolitan Sports Arena Commission, which operates the Minneapolis-St. Paul Stadium.

Oliva had a bone chip in his right hand last season and club officials explained it caused him to lose his grip on the bat sometimes when he swung and missed his pitch.



TONY OLIVA

Oliva underwent surgery for the condition during the off - season and reportedly will have better control of the tape here.

It was confirmed early this week that Ralph Boston, a Tennessee A. and I. graduate and world record holding long jumper, plans to compete here against his great Russian rival, Igor Ter-Ovanesyan. Boston currently is nursing an ankle strain and has canceled his next couple of appearances.

The African policeman, who has beaten Clarke in three out of four races, also bested the Aussie's 5,000-meter record.

Brown trial stopped by missing datebook

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A preliminary hearing on a paternity suit filed against Cleveland Browns' star Jimmy Brown adjourned quickly Thursday when the plaintiff failed to produce a calendar on which she allegedly kept a record of her dates with Brown.

Juvenile Court Judge Walter Wistlinzch dismissed the hearing and said he would call attorneys for Brenda Ayres, 18, and Brown back in April to set a formal trial date.

Miss Ayres, a high school dropout, charged Brown was the father of her child expected to be born later this month.

Last summer she had charged Brown with assault and battery and he was acquitted of that charge.

BROWN pleaded innocent to the paternity charge at the opening of Wednesday's preliminary hearing.

Norman Minor, Brown's attorney, questioned Miss Ayres two hours and 20 minutes Wednesday, but she could not remember certain dates involving her and the football star.

The girl testified she could remember with the aid of a personal calendar, which was being held by an attorney who represented her at the assault and battery trial.

Judge Whitlatch ordered her to produce the calendar in court Thursday, but she did not bring it.

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sports Editor

The drive to obtain major league hockey for Baltimore reaches a climax in New York City Monday afternoon.

A committee headed by Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin and representing the political and business leadership of the city will appear before officials of the National Hockey League at 3 p.m. to present Baltimore's appeal for a franchise in that organization. A decision on the Baltimore application is expected on Wednesday.

The NHL, which recently approved expansion from 6 to 12 teams, has already accepted Los Angeles and San Francisco. Baltimore is seeking one of the four remaining berths, along with St. Louis, Portland, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Buffalo.

At its New York hearing the committee will present pledges of full cooperation from Chambers of Commerce of all nearby major cities as well as from Annapolis and cities on the Eastern Shore.

Chairman Len Grasimck and Attorney George L. Russell Jr. will present blueprints of plans to enlarge the Civic Center to make it suitable for NHL hockey. They also will have at hand strong endorsements from leading industrial firms of the area.

Crack Tenn. State girls' team enters All-Eastern

BALTIMORE

When you travel about the country searching for a ban of Olympic - caliber athletes, you find yourself either in sunny California or in Nashville, Tenn., where coach Ed Temple makes a habit of grooming world champions at Tennessee A. and I. University.

Temple today told meet director Fred Leddy he would bring his two female Olympic gold medal winners and probably three other Tokyo veterans to the All - Eastern Indoor Games at the Civic Center here February 26.

HEADING THE team will be Wyomia Tyus, who tied the Olympic record of 1.2 for 100 meters in a semi - final and then won the title in 1.4, and Edith McGuire who race to a record 23.0 clocking for 200 meters at Tokyo.

Temple also plans to bring Eleanor Montgomery, eighth in the high jump; Estelle Baskerville, unplaced in the high jump which is not known as a specialty for American women, and Martha Watson, unplaced in the long jump. Miss Watson at the present time is being pressed and could be replaced by Sonia Lannigan, a sophomore.

ALSO SCHEDULED to return to familiar territory is freshman Tammy Davis, of Frederick, Md., who set the record of 6.4 for the All-Eastern 50 - yard hurdles two years ago.

Miss Montgomery, the American record - holder and defending All - Eastern champion, and Miss Baskerville will face, among others, Olympic bronze medal winner Taisia Chenchik, of the U.S.S.R.

• • •

THE LONG jumpers must face another Olympic bronze medalist, Tatyana Schelkanova, also of Russia. Miss Tyus, who set an indoor record of 6.9 for the women's 60 - yard sprint in Detroit last week, probably will wind up battling Miss McGuire to

Bear cagers drop 3 in row

Morgan State College basketers, off to an encouraging start in late November, sank to their lowest ebb during the week, dropping three straight games on the annual trip into North Carolina.

The Bears, now impaled by a 5 - 8 record, visit the Howard University Bisons tomorrow (Saturday), in a desperate hope to regain momentum. They return to the friendly confines of the Hurt Gymnasium on Tuesday, hosting Delaware State.

• • •

ON SUCCESSIVE nights, Morgan's quint bowed to North Carolina College, 73 - 64, at Durham; to A and T at Greensboro, 110 - 71, and to Winston - Salem State Teachers College, 102 - 77.

The game at Winston - Salem, where ex - Morgantite Bighouse Gaines steered his Rams to a decisive win, was especially discouraging. Four Bears — Bob Gordon, Jimmy Hall, Jeff O'Neal and Lee Cornish — hit in double figures, but to no avail.

Following Tuesday's tiff with the Hornets from Dover, coach Brutus Wilson's charges entertain Maryland State on Saturday (Lincoln's Birthday), and North Carolina College on Monday.

Poets kayo Loyola as title threat

Dunbar High cagers, behind a 29 - point output by Dickie Kelly, handed Loyola a 92 - 61 thumping at Dunbar Thursday afternoon, thus gaining their eighth win in 9 games and solidifying their hold on first place in Division 1.

The victory, not nearly so easily achieved as the score suggests, removed Loyola as an immediate threat to the Poets' quest of a third consecutive division title.

• • •

COACH Sugar Cain and his youngsters visit Southern this afternoon (Friday) as the Maryland Scholastic Association tries desperately to make up for lost time due to weather conditions.

Next week, more importantly, the Bards must take on Edmondson, the only team to stop them thus far in division competition.

• • •

AS FOR the performance against Loyola, Dunbar spurted to the front in the opening minutes and held a 6 - point, 27 - 21, lead at the end of the first quarter. At halftime, the margin had been boosted to 10 points, but there was no room for comfort as any Loyola opponent knows Tom DeMoss, the top schoolboy scorer in the city, is capable of getting hot at any minute.

Once this happens, the entire team seems to become inspired, adding to the danger of a successful rally.

DeMoss, however, who went into the contest with a safe percentage lead over the pursuing Kelly, hit but 22 points, outscored by Dickie's 29.

• • •

IN OTHER MAS action, City — probably the most formidable club in the conference—drubbed Patterson, 86-40, for her 9th win without loss; Carver downed Mervo, 89-70, and Edmondson ran off with a 99 - 65 decision over Towson Catholic.

Scheduled for further makeup action today are Mt. St. Joe and City at City, Poly and Carver at Carver, Edmondson and Douglass at Douglass, and Loyola at Forest Park—SAM LACY.

New building started on Tenn. State campus

NASHVILLE — Tennessee State University broke ground last week for its $750,000 graduate and general classroom building, a major structure in the school's $3,000,000 expansion program.

"The discovery of knowledge is essential for the continued growth and development of faculty, students, and alumni, as well as Tennessee. The graduate school assumes this responsibility," President W. S. Davis said during the ground - breaking ceremony.

Dr. Hubert B. Crouch, dean of the Graduate School, speaking for the faculty, point out graduate study opportunities have been provided for professional men and women of Tennessee and other states.

"NEARLY 1400 Master's Degrees have been awarded in approximately 20 different fields for upgrading the qualifications of teachers and specialists who are gainfully employed throughout the United States and many foreign countries."

A fire-proof, four - story brick centemporary structure, the building will house four — areas — the Graduate School, English, speech correction, and social sciences.

In addition to offices and faculty conference rooms, there will be a library, seminar room, study booths, speech and hearing, reading and language laboratories, and a recording room.

Motel suit

NEW ORLEANS The Justice Department filed suit to desegregate two motels in Bogalusa, La., last week.

The suit charged that owners of the Choctaw and Delmar Motels turned away a customer because of his race in violation of the 1964 Civil Rights Law.
