CONGRESS on Thursday shut the door in the face of the wets and refused to allow the selling of beer and light wines until January next. Thus on July 1 the sale and manufacture of all intoxicating drinks must cease.

CONGRESS this week repealed the Daylight Savings Law to take effect in October. After that date the county will return to the old time. Farmers throughout the country have found this new time very inconvenient, while the factories and the business men have liked it. As the farmer is the mainstay of the country, it looks to us as though his interest should be first considered.

THE past week has been commencement week and we extend to the graduates of the colleges and the high schools our best wishes for successful and happy lives. You have received the foundation upon which to build your future. Let that future be so lived that your life may be a blessing to the community in which you live and let your example be one worthy of imitation. Many hard knocks are ahead of you, but be men and meet these trials in a manly way.

THE Eastern and the Western Shores of Maryland were linked together Thursday last by the opening of the Bay ferry from Claiborne to Annapolis. About 1,500 people made the initial voyage on the ferry boat. Addresses were made by Gov. Harrington and several other gentlemen present. Mrs. Harrington broke a bottle of champagne over the stem of the vessel and christened her "Gov. Emerson C. Harrington." It is to be hoped this connecting link of the two shores will make them mutually beneficial.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER IN CECIL

Italian Killed His Son With Hammer and Buried Him in Potato Patch

The treachery of a father resulted early Saturday morning in one of the most cold-blooded murders that has been committed on the Eastern Shore for years.

Guiseppe Guilmo, aged 60 years, a farmer two miles south of Elkton, moving quietly into the bedroom occupied by his son, Vincent, aged 19 years, and his brother, Samuel, aged 14, about 4 o'clock Saturday morning, and while the two boys lay sound asleep, with a heavy sledge-hammer dealt his son, Vincent, several blows on the head, killing him almost instantly.

The younger brother, Samuel, jumped out of the bed but at the command of his father stood by while the latter dragged the dead body of Vincent down stairs, placed it into a wheelbarrow and wheeled it a half mile and then buried it in a potato patch.

The murderer was cunning enough to place the body the length of the potato rows and after covering it up, planted potatoes over the body. He then brought the wheelbarrow back to the house and washed the blood from its seat. He then gathered up the boy's clothes, and placing them into a suitcase, went to a woods, where he hid the suitcase in a clump of bushes, telling his three younger children to say that Vincent had packed up his clothing and left the house a week ago.

The frightened children were in utter terror during the day and when Tony Guilino, the oldest son, who resides in West Chester, Pa., came home, Sunday morning, he noticed something wrong and for several hours he could not comprehend what had taken place. The blood stains in the bedroom and on the porch so roused him that he went to Elkton, reported the matter to the authorities, who upon investigation fixed the guilt on the boy's father. When pressed by the officers as to why he murdered the boy, the man said his son had ill-treated him and several weeks ago had thrown a hot pail of water in his face.

The Italian moved to that section about three years ago and purchased a farm of 200 acres. His wife died during his residence on the farm.

Chestertown Team Rounding Into Fine Form—W. C. Loses To Queenstown—Kennedyville and W. C. Game Ends Unsatisfactorily To All

The Chestertown Baseball Club, under the management of Manager Edward Blackway, is being drilled into good shape these days. The first game of the season will be with Queenstown at that place on July 4. The Chestertown team needs practice, but in a few weeks time, Manager Blackway will have a team together that can make any of the Eastern Shore teams hustle, and the Chestertown fans should, and we believe will, turn out to help make the team a success.

The batting and fielding averages of the Washington College Baseball team for the season were as follows: Duffy .400 and .909; Purnell .333 and 1.000; Hubbard .333 and 1.000; Lankford .297 and 1.000; Bounds, A., .281 and .808; Sterling .250 and .956; Walls .226 and .944; Bounds, W. G., .200 and .750; Gordy .188 and .889; Robins .154 and .897; Straughn .154 and 1.000; Ford .133 and .959; Young .120 and .778. Team average—batting .236 and fielding .915

Queenstown, after being severely beaten a week or so ago by Washington College team to the tune of 8 to 0, came to Chestertown Monday with a 'picked' team and gave the local collegians a bad beating, the score being 10 to 3. Duffy twirled for the college team, while Perry, the Rock Hill Col. twirler was on the mound for the visitors.

For seven innings Kennedyville and Washington College played a fast baseball game on Washington Field on Tuesday afternoon, Kennedyville having the lead by the score of 2 to 0. It looked like a Kennedyville victory with Archibald pitching first-class ball and his mates backing him [illegible] the seventh inning Kennedyville [illegible] ed Archibald in a bad hole. A drive to center field was fielded by Hurlock and hurled to the plate with the accuracy of the much quoted "needle to the pole." Here occurred a play that ended the game with dissatisfaction to all concerned. It seems that Derringer, playing third for Kennedyville, attempted to back up the Kennedyville catcher, and in doing so is said to have interfered with the progress of the W. C. runner, retarding him long enough to enable him to be put out. Umpire Jarman called the man safe, because of this interference, the run putting W. C. one run in the lead. The Kennedyville rooters and players contended that Derringer had not interfered with the runner and that he was out, making the score 2 to 2. After considerable argument pro and con the visitors left the field. Gordy was on the mound for W. C. and pitched a good game, while Archibald, for Kennedyville, also pitched a good game. The running catch in left field by Jones of a W. C. fly, and the home run drive and throw home by the hard hitting Hurlock for Kennedyville were easily the features.

Teele Farm Agency Incorporated

The Farm Agency, heretofore conducting business in Kent and Queen Annes Counties under the name of Albert L. Teele Farm Agency, has been incorporated under the laws of Delaware, with paid up capital of $25,000. The tite of the corporation is Albert L. Teele Farmy Agency, Inc., and its principal officers are at No. 812 King Street, Wilmington, Del. It will contain branch offices in Chestertown, under the management and control of Mr. John E. Barnes, who is a stockholder, director and vice-president of the corporation.

Mr. Barnes will have a considerably increased scope of operations and the business of this agency will be pushed with the utmost energy and vigor during the coming year.

While not a large number of sales have been made during the last year in Kent and Queen Annes County, the Agency has made a total record of about forty farms of an aggregate value of approximately $500,000. This firm now has listed in the Chestertown territory nearly fifty farms, some of which are well known to be among the most fertile and productive in the Chester River district.

Very extensive advertising is promised for the coming year, and with the increased demand for farms which this territory is experiencing, there ought to be a very healthy business during the coming twelve months.

Mr. John E. Barnes has recently moved his headquarters from 535 High Street to the corner of High and Kent street, where he can be found at all hours of the day and night.

The corporation maintains offices in Oxford, Pa., as well as Newark, Del., and probably will open an additional office during the coming year in the vicinity of Havre de Grace.

More About Abolishing Wrinkles

Jars and rubbers are both needed when it comes to Canning Wrinkles, and for the demonstration to be given at the school building in Chestertown on June 26, at 8 p. m., I promise to furnish both. If the crowd is too large for the hall, an overflow meeting will be arranged, so don't leave and return to your homes, if you find that the standing room is also filled.

This will be the first time any such demonstration has been given, and it is especially hoped that dentists, lawyers, politicians, bakers, nurses, house wives, plumbers, butchers, canners, reporters, farmers, farmers' wives, and the wives and husbands of all the others mentioned above will attend. Also all grangers and prospective grangers.

Tribute To A Horse

The horse is one of the chief factors in the work and pleasure of Kent county, and the following tribute to this useful animal by Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, is a fitting and just one. He says:

"From the very beginning of all things, through the march of the centuries in every sphere of life, the horse has occupied a significant place. In sport, in art, in literature, in war, in peace, in commerce, in romance, in drudgery, in love, in religion, in life and in death, this reliable, courageous, ever-ready for command servant of man has proved himself a most potent factor. His fleet hoofs have flashed light from the pebbled path of every poet; his beautifully arched neck and tossing mane have taxed the skill of the ablest sculptor's chisel; his attractive figure has made realistic the story of every class of literature—historic, fiction, fact and Biblical; the delight of childhood, the willing slave of man, the sure trust of old age, this faithful ally through all time has plowed the fields, and hauled the loads and penetrated the wilderness and waded the rivers and with blood-stained flanks has carried the warrior in battle, and tossing snowy mane has borne the victor home through triumphant march, and a thousand times ten thousand when worn by toil and lack of food to a mere skeleton, has pressed with his task with a patience, perseverance and a sweetness of temper that one could almost call divine."

Maryland in the Hall of States

Hundreds of Maryland soldiers, wounded or ill, lying in the big Army hospitals of New York, receive their first special welcome and their first hint of home from letters and calls from volunteer women workers at the Maryland desk at the Hall of States in New York City. Backed only by the Southern Society and the Maryland Society, these women are trying to do as well by Marylanders who reach New York as other states are doing for their homecoming sons, despite the fact that other states have large appropriations for the work. Kansas is spending $35,000 to welcome her boys, Massachusetts $50,000, and other states smaller amounts. The Maryland women say they have received no financial aid from the state, even toward the clerical work of writing almost two hundred boys from the state now in the hospitals here.

These letters, sent out under a plan devised by the War Camp Community Service, are as a rule [illegible] from homefolks to read [illegible] that are avidly seized, and flowers or fruit.

All the hospital activity for the various states centres at the Hall of States, which War Camp Community Service, has established at 27 West 25th St., close to the Victory Arch. Here "Buddies" meet, at the war's end, and homefolks welcome the boys back from the trenches and the deep blue seas. How the eyes of the home-sick lads do shine when they sight women from the home community! How they do rush for the home papers! Some of them need more practical aid, some are "blue," some need a job back home, some want to trace lost families. To all of these the Maryland women give help. Sometimes they take a "Blue" lad to dinner and to the theatre, sometimes they find the lost loved ones. For those who need jobs the War Camp [illegible] Service maintains at the [illegible] nation-wide employ[illegible] ager, J. H. [illegible] land, other [illegible]
