Started with rubber hose, now plays 48 instruments

Roland Kirk, blind jazz virtuoso who claims he started his music career trying to coax sounds from a rubber hose as a youngster in his Cleveland, Ohio back yard, drew sounds Sunday from a variety of instruments, brings howls of delight from a standing-room-only crowd at the Crystal Ball room.

The short, chesty little man with sometimes six horns hanging from his neck, made funny sounds on the familiar horns and familiar sounds on the funny ones.

At times he blew three different horns at once, punctuating his act with whistles from a fourth which he blew with his right nostril.

Upwards of 1000 persons thrilled to Kirk and his band, brought to Baltimore by the Left Bank Jazz Society. The jazz buffs are currently bringing in big names to raise money for the Provident Hospital building fund. . . .

KIRK BACKED by J. C. Moses on drums, Lamount Johnson on bass, and Charles Mathias on piano, used seven horns during Sunday's performance. He is said to have mastered 48 different instruments, including the piano and several horns he constructed himself.

"I'm in love with all of them," he claims. "Every time I pick up a another horn it's like making love to a different woman."

He says he graduated from a rubber hose to a bugle in his Cleveland High School band. His passion for diversification is party based on a "search for expression" and partly a dream he had as a youngster in which he saw himself blowing a number of different instruments at once.

"There I was standing in this big hall with maybe five horns in my mouth at once and the crowd is really digging it. I always felt that the dream meant something and I've been trying ever since," he said.

The musician praised the efforts of the Left Bank Jazz society in cultivating jazz in Baltimore. "I'm going back to New York and tell them that Baltimore is cool," he told the audience.

ACCORDING TO Benny Kearse, president of the group, all money raised over for the weekly jazz concerts operating expenses for the weekly jazz concerts is being contributed to the Provident Hospital Building Fund.

Among coming attractions are several groups who will appear in Baltimore for the first time. Sunday, April 3, the Elvin Jones quartet, with Pepper Adams, baritone, Delher Braxid, piano, Donald Moore, on bass, will appear.

Sunday, April 10, the jazz society will bring to the Crystal Ballroom McCoy Tyner on piano, Henk Mobley, tenor, Walter Booker, on bass, and Mickey Roker on drums.

A highlight of the hospital fund-raising activity is a cabaret planned for May 6 at the Famous Ballroom, featuring Mickey Fields and his band.

Youngsters plan Easter party

Little Les and the Combinations, a group of youngsters who have been singing together for three years, will sponsor an Easter party April 12 to help with the expenses of forming a band.

The party will be from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Lexington Poe project auditorium, 206 N. Fremont Ave. Admission is 25 cents. They will have hot dogs, pop corn and refreshments.

Sylvester Parson, 12, leader of the group and party chairman, says they will play rock and roll. Wilbur Johnson, 2100 block Koko La., works with the youngsters.

Les will play trumpet in the band. Others of the group are: Floyd Carter, 13; Willie Burke, 13; Harold Clark, 14; Melvin Johnson, 14, and Colis

Should a plain hardworking wall phone marry a Princess?

When a wall phone teams up with a lovely Princess* phone, it's a marriage of convenience—for you. A wall phone in the kitchen lets you make or take calls while keeping an eye on dinner. The Princess phone in the bedroom saves you time and steps and gives you the added security of its light-up dial at bedside. And extension phones cost so little... only $1.25 a month* after a low, one-time installation charge. Available in your choice of attractive colors. Just call our Telephone Business Office or ask your Telephone Man.

*Slightly more for the Princess phone.

—Doctor charges

The elderly physician said that the man told him he knew of a woman on whom he had performed an abortion and who later died in South Carolina and threatened to go to police with the information.

POLICE ARRESTED the accused man, David Lee Woods, 32, 2900 block Wynham Rd., in the doctor's office about 2 p.m. Tuesday and charged him with six counts of extorting money from Dr. Pendleton and two of using the telephone to harass him.

After hearing the testimony, Judge I. Sewell Lamdin held Woods for action of the Grand Jury on $500 bail for each of the eight counts, a total of $4,000.

The first charge of extortion against Woods stems back to Dec. 22, 1965 in the amount of $75.

Additional charges of extortion are as follows:

February 3, $300.
March 15, $400.
March 22, $400.
March 25, $300.

The sixth charge was for the amount of $200 on March 28, the day before he was arrested.

Charges for harassment by telephone involved the dates of March 24 and March 27.

POLICE RECORDS show that Dr. Pendleton reported to Officer Howard Corbin of the Western District on Monday that he had been the victim of a man who had been extorting money from him since December 1965.

Woods was arrested in the elderly doctor's office the next day by Officers Corbin, Mike Fucci and Sgt. Stephen Tabeling of the Central District.

GREENSBORO, N.C. — The First Secretary of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, D.C. — Jidetoshi Ukawa — conducted a seminar on Japan on Monday, March 14 as a feature of the program of Non-Western Studies at Bennett College.
