Mr. William Benjamin spent the week-end in Baltimore.

Mr. Daisy Stewart, one of Baltimore's leading commission men, has been in Kent county the past week.

Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Barrett are spending the summer months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Creasy, the latter spending the vacation months at their home in Pennsylvania and elsewhere.

Mrs. E. R. Anthony has returned from a visit to her former home at Princeton, N. J.

Mr. William Parrott observed his seventeenth birthday at his home on Mill street Tuesday evening. A large crowd was present and an enjoyable evening spent.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Parrott will move to the residence now occupied by Mr. Owen C. Smith and family, Mr. Smith having purchased where Mr. Parrott resides. Mr. and Mrs. Parrott will continue to conduct a boarding house.

Mrs. A. E. Coleman and son returned on Saturday from Annapolis, where she has been the guest of her parents.

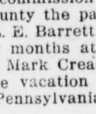

Miss Sarah Seney, who has been attending school in New York, is home for vacation.

Mr. Samuel Sparks was taken to Easton Hospital on Monday. He was suffering with intestinal trouble and his condition is believed serious. Mr. Sparks was able to work until Saturday, when he was taken sick. He was operated on Tuesday and seems little improved.

Mrs. William B. Usilton, who has been quite sick in a Baltimore hospital, we are glad to report much improved in health. Mrs. Usilton will leave the hospital next week and spend several weeks at Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonn Towner and son, of Morgnec, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Malcomb.

UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES

Sergeant Maxwell Blakeney arrived in Chestertown on Monday, after having been in Europe for over a year. Mr. Blakeney saw much active service during the latter part of the war.

Centreville, Elkton and other places paid a big tribute to the boys. What will Kent county do?

Dr. G. Allen Jarman received an interesting letter from his son, Capt. Carey Jarman, this week. Captain Jarman has been making a tour of the British Isles and recently saw Captain Earl Withgott.

A major part of the Kent county boys are out of khaki and have resumed their regular occupations again. What a change since this time last year!

Mr. Charles Hodgkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hodgkin, of Chestertown, is on his way home from France. He is on the George Washington with President Wilson. Mr. Hodgkin has been in khaki for over two years and has done good work.

GOOD MONEY FROM BAD EGG

Jim Buckley Finally Proved Truth of Saying That He Was Fond of Repeating.

"Thar ain't nothin' in the world but is good fer somethin'" is one of the favorite sayings of Jim Buckley of Bear Lake.

Buckley is a thrifty soul. He farms in summer and traps in winter and between wheat and furs he is growing rich. One morning his wife was cooking breakfast. She broke a rotten egg into a skillet and was starting toward the door to throw it away when Buckley stopped her.

"Woman, don't throw that egg away," said Buckley.

"But it's rotten," protested his wife.

"Makes no difference," declared the philsopher. "Thar ain't nothin' in the world but—"

"James Buckley," exclaimed his wife, "I've heard that a thousand times."

The wolf never sniffs at the doors of the prosperous farmers of the Peace river country. But foxes are different animals—here is something you don't know—rotten eggs are rated as an epicureau tidbit in vulpine menus.

That night Buckley set a trap in a poplar grove near his home and baited it with the rotten egg. He hoped to catch a red fox or perhaps a coyote. But when he went out to his trap next morning, what do you think he found? The biggest silver fox Buckley ever had clapped eyes on. He sold the pelt in Peace River the other day for $346.

"A right nice lot o' money to hatch from a rotten egg," remarked Buckley, as he stuffed the money in his pocket. "I've allers allowed that thar ain't nothin' in the world but is good fer somethin'."—Chicago Post.

ONE GOOD THING FROM WAR

Cocone Nut, Hitherto Considered Only as Nuisance, Has Been Made Article of Commerce.

Before the war the cocone, which grows freely in the Southern Americas, on large trees of the palm family, was literally such a hard nut to crack that its vegetable oil had no place in commerce, and the tree was known chiefly as a botheration to banana planters when they wished to enlarge their plantations. Eighteen hundred pounds' pressure is required to crack the cocone nut, and there was no machinery for doing it. Then government experts said that nothing else in the world would provide such good carbon for gas masks as the cocone nut, and the United States financed the creation of machinery for cracking it, thus starting a new and important industry. Hereafter it will be well worth while breaking the shells for the vegetable oil inside them, valuable for cooking, lighting, and the making of nut butter; and the shells, happily no longer needed for masks, can be used as fuel or in the manufacture of gas. And so, out of an effort to prevent the expansion of autocracy by conquest, the Southern Americas find opportunity to expand by commerce.—Scientific American.

Aristocrats in Gutter.

We hear rumors of grand dukes and other members of the old nobility of Russia driving cabs and peddling bootlaces in Petrograd. This is no new thing in Europe. In England the descendants of the great Plantagenets have been found in very lowly occupations. A few years ago a lawsuit proved that a genuine Bourbon was then hawking vegetables in the streets of Paris. A few years earlier a son of a cousin of Empress Josephine, Napoleon's first love, was sent to prison for petty larceny. In 1892 the Marquis DeFoligne was an omnibus conductor; the Comte de la Marche was a house painter; the Marquis DeTorcey d'Etallinde kept a small inn at Carnac, and the Marquis d'Hauteroche, a descendant of the nobleman who, at the battle of Fontenoy, called out to the English: "Tirez les premiers," was a gendarme.

Antimony in the Transvaal.

A new body of antimony is reported to have have been opened near the Komati river, in the district of the Stenysdorp gold fields, Transvaal. As the ore is found to be valuable, a mining company is now carrying on smelting operations on the spot. Three shafts have been sunk to a depth of 50 feet, besides open workings. One is continuous throughout. A furnace capable of smelting ten tons of ore per day is in operation and it is stated that there is sufficient ore in sight to keep the furnace working while developments are being made.—Scientific American.

Roberts Predicted Foch's Victory.

When Lord Roberts was in Canada ten years ago at the dedication of the Plains of Abraham park and playground he made this prediction: "They refuse to believe me, and we are asleep under a false security, for I do not hesitate to affirm that we will have a frightful war in Europe, and that Great Britain and France will have the hardest experience of their existence. They will, in fact, see defeat very near, but the war will finally be won by the genius of a French general named Ferdinand Foch, professor in the military school in Paris."

Little Rivers Important.

In his war ode Dr. van Dyke remains loyal to "little rivers." In his book, "Little Rivers," he has already made little rivers as interesting as the little drops of water that make the mighty ocean. Freedom begins at the source.

BACK TO HIS OLD FREEDOM

Stormy Petrel, After Brief Stay With Tame Birds, Returns to His Accustomed Place.

"The stormy petrel has left us," said Sergeant McGee of the park police. "He appeared to be getting along with the mudhens like a house on fire, but on Monday or Tuesday last he just faded away, and now he is back on his ocean wave or wherever else petrels go when they get tired of the company of mudhens.

"But a successor has come from the briny deep to keep up the traditions of the blue-water birds on Stow lake. He is only a seagull, and a seagull is not such a rara avis on terra as our lost friend, the stormy petrel. Nevertheless he is the first wild one of his kind that has ever tarried with us for two weeks, and seemed to keep comfortable.

"He has no use for either the ducks or the mudhens. That is to say, he does not mix with them. But he has struck up a friendship with Anthony and Cleopatra, the two pelicans of the Nile, and there is no driving him away from them. Maybe he thinks they will protect him from the mudhens, maybe it is a case of 'the desire of the moth for the star,' and he is in love with one of them. If so, it is only a matter of time when one or the other of them will get jealous and gobble him up in one gulp."—San Francisco Bulletin.

It is curious how episodes of the Boer war are recalled by the world conflict, says a writer in the Yorkshire Post. In our issue for May 16, 1900, for instance, we published an account of the bravery in the field of Private E. Wischusen, who threw a live shell over a cliff during an engagement.

Now his son, Private Eric Wischusen, duke of Cambridge's Middlesex regiment, has proved himself to be no less brave. As a parchment certificate from his commanding officer shows, in a raid near Voormezeele, on June 19-20, he was "conspicuous for his determination and bravery." Despite a heavy artillery and machine-gun barrage, he reached the enemy trenches, cleared them, and finally covered the raiders' withdrawal, "showing complete disregard to his own safety."

Private Wischusen, who is only twenty, is now in hospital at Lowestoft with a shot wound in his leg. His home is in Hornsey.

Oil Near Old Indian Cemeteries.

Geologists are unable to explain the fact, proven in Osage county, that oil wells drilled adjacent to Indian cemeteries are good producers. Many such burial sites have been invaded by drillers and in more instances than one riches in crude oil have spouted forth. The largest producer in the vicinity of Pawhuska was drilled beside an Indian graveyard. It is on the summit of a high, rocky hill that overlooks the town.—From the Oklahoman.

Records Seeds' Value.

In a patented seed tester of A. F. Oestlinger, a Michigan inventor, a strip of cloth or other material is folded over a pad and then stitched across and lengthwise so as to form little square sections. The seeds to be tested are placed in these squares. The pad retains moisture for a considerable time, long enough to produce germination of the good seeds, and numbers on the squares give a means of record and identification.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Chestertown Citizens Show A Way

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Chestertown citizen says:

Mrs. May C. Frazier, High St., says: "I suffered from my kidneys and backache. At times I had dizzy spells and black spots before my eyes. My back ached when I had to bend over and my kidneys didn't act right at all. I surely was feeling miserable until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from The Stam Drug Co. I used them and had great relief."
