Electrical engineer nabs purse snatcher

Clarence Williams, 28, 5572 Kennison Ave., an electrical engineer at Westinghouse Electric Co., was commended by Criminal Court Judge Joseph Byrnes Wednesday for capturing a purse snatcher in February.

The youth, convicted of the crime is Anthony Wesley Dorsey, 18, 2300 Allendale Rd., who was found guilty of robbery and sentenced to three years in the Maryland Correctional Institution for men.

Williams said he saw Dorsey hiding in an alley and held him until police officers arrived. At one point he said he and Dorsey struggled as the youth tried to get away.

The youth, who contended he did not snatch the purse, wept bitterly as he was led from the courtroom still protesting his innocense.

Mrs. Barbara Levin, 4000 block Liberty Heights testified a group of youths attempted to take her purse about 8:30 p.m. Feb. 4 but she hung on to Dorsey who dragged her on her knees over 200 feet on the street in front of her apartment house.

She said the $171 was missing from the purse when it was found in the snow in a back yard in the 4100 block Liberty Heights.

Dorsey testified he was passing an alleyway and saw the purse and looked into it out of curiosity.

He said Mrs. Levin, a manicurist, mistook him for someone else and he was never nearby except in the alley when Mr. Williams grabbed him and held him until the police came.
