Hursey in law program at Harvard

BRIDGETON, N.J. — W. DeEdwin Hursey, of 179 Spruce St., a Delaware State College senior, was one of 41 undergraduates from southern colored colleges to complete the special summer program at Harvard law school in Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. Hursey is a history major at the Dover, Del. institution.

The program, sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation, was initiated a year ago to encourage college students to consider law as a possible career.

Professor Frank E. Sander of the Harvard Law School directed the program. Eight of his colleagues from the faculty of the Harvard Law School, and a visiting professor from the University of California Law School (Los Angeles), Leon Letwin, instructed the students. The classes covered selected problems in torts, contracts, the role of the jury, and criminal and constitutional law. The students also met in informal sessions with the Honorable Thurgood Marshall, Solicitor General of the United States, with Floyd McKissick, National Director of CORE, and with other visiting attorneys, judges and legislators.

A SPECIAL FEATURE of the Summer Program was a project in which the students acted out a simple law suit. Beginning with the first interview between lawyer and client, the "case" extended over the entire 8-week session as it moved to trial and appeal.

A grant from the Rockefeller Foundation covered the total cost to each student and provided for each an additional $600 stipend in lieu of summer earnings, to be applied against college expenses next year.

Isle of Patmos in new building

WASHINGTON

After ten years at 1519 U St., NW, the Isle of Patmos Baptist Church will move to its new location at 12th and Rhode Island Ave., NE on Sunday.

The initial service in the new church is set for 3 p.m. Sunday, to be preceded by a motorcade parade beginning at 2 p.m. at the old church.

The church is pastored by the Rev. George B. Rogers. The Sunday afternoon service will feature also the Rev. Cleveland Bateast, Rev. E. P. White, Miss Juanita Tyler, Miss Mary Neblett, the Rev. E. D. Swinson, the Rev. Charles Pryor, the Rev. Aaron McCombs, Mrs. Lucille Banks Robinson, the Rev. L. Buie, the Rev. W. B. Allen, the Rev. Harvey Beasley.

THE DEDICATORIAL sermon will be delivered by the Rev. W. L. Turley, pastor of Mt. Gilead Baptist Church and moderator of the Mt. Bethel Baptist Association.

The dedicatorial prayer will be said by the Rev. Ernest Gibbs. The church keys will be presented to the pastor by Elbert Blackmon Jr., trustee board chairman.

At 7:30 p.m., an evening of gospel songs will feature Lois L. Nicholson, contralto, presented by deacon Donahue Scott Jr. for the benefit of the annual Deacons Day.

A SERIES of 8 p.m. services will be held for the next two weeks, including these speakers for the first weeks:

Monday, Sept. 12, Rev. Andrew Fowler of Capital View Baptist Church; Tuesday, Rev. R. L. Walls of New Macedonia; Wednesday, Rev. A. L. Colston of Glendale Baptist; Thursday, Rev. Ernest Gibson of First Rising Mt. Zion; Friday, Rev. E. D. Swinson of Ebenezer Baptist.

MISS MAVIS M. CLAYTON and JUDGE RUSSELL

The 70th commencement exercises of the Provident Hospital Helene Fuld School of Nursing were held Friday in the Little Theatre on the Baltimore Junior College campus.

Judge Russell, member of the hospital board, presented the diplomas. Miss Clayton was the top student.

—Mrs. Adams, Grasmick

tended drive for hospital funds has received the approval of the Coordinating Council of Fund Raising, a group which arranges the period which an organization may solicit funds.

Mr. Hecht, who with Mr. Grasmick will work closely in contacting business firms, said many large corporations are already considering increasing their original gifes.

Groundbreaking for the hospital is planned for early next year when the first bids will be awarded. The city planning commission recently approved the architects plans. The new facility will replace the present 107 years building.

Mr. Tildon said that a 22-acre tract of land has been purchased on Liberty Heights Avenue west of Reisterstown Road.

The estimated cost of the 200-bed hospital is about $11,000,000, up about $3,000,000 from the original estimate.

MARYLAND AND the city of Baltimore have allocated $4,800,000 for the hospital. An additional $850,000 is expected from a HUD Urban Renewal grant. The total of -5,650,000 from the three Government bodies is about 56 percent of the total needed for construction and equipment, according to Mr. Tildon.

Another grant is expected from the Nurses Training Act to aid in the development of Provident School of Nursing which will be doubled in enrollment.

In the initial campaign, a total of $2,450,000, was raised the total the city's colored from public subscription. Of the tota, the city's colored community contributed more than $1,000,000.

When planning for the hospital campaign experts expressed doubt that the community would contribute $500,000.

With more than $8,250,000 already accounted for Mr. Tildon said about 75 per cent of the goal has been achieved.

Campaign workers will ask residents and business for an additional $1,000,000.

Mr. Tildon said that when this is accomplished, the leaders of the campaign will be able to approach other available sources for an additional $1,750,000.

He said that since the announcement of the change in campaign directors and the start of the final phase, more than $100,000 has been raised toward the new goal.

Hospital employees, for example, have contributed an additional $12,000 or 163 per cent of the second goal they were assigned.

In discussing the Nursing Training program at Provident, Mr. Tildon said the present enrollment is now 60 and that the school in its present outmoded building is accredited by the National League for Nursing and to obtain the accreditation attests to the outstanding educational program the school has developed.

Mr. Tildon emphasized that Provident has been and will continue to be fully integrated in the sponsored hospital where facilities will permit more patients.

get that car now."

Later they said they overheard one person say to another, "I'm going to the shop now." The reply came "Give him 594 for me."

MR. ENNELS was arrested in the raid on the Jay St. home at 11:30 a.m. March 31.

Police told the court they watched the traffic at the home that included like a factory store, from March 25.

In the kitchen cabinet of the summer kitchen they said they found 12 slips with $24.75 on 93 numbers.

Rackets Squad members said they staked out the area around Mrs. Lattimer's Dallas St. home beginning March 23.

They stated about 9:45 a.m., one woman accepted numbers from another and, telling her "I'll get these in right away," went in Mrs. Lattimer's door.

During the raid that came at 10:25 a.m. March 30, the officers said they found four slips in a pile of laundry in the middle room contained 195 numbers with $19.05 in play.

While the search was in progress, they revealed the slip Mrs. Lattimer took from her purse and threw in the stove, contained three numbers with 50 cents in play.

Police told the court when she raised the front door curtain and saw police on the steps, she refused to admit them and ran to the back of the house.

After they forced the door open, they discovered her in the backyard, they testified.

An address book had $11 in play on numbers. On the dining room table were eight slips with $2.50 in play on 42 numbers, all appearing to be "old stuff", they said.

The Squad's observance of the Hancock home began at 9:22 a.m. March 13 when a plain clothesman told a man on the corner he wanted to "play a number".

The officer told the court he gave the man $1 for two numbers at 50 cents each and the man went inside the Luzern Ave. two-story house. Coming out after about five minutes, he indicated "it's OK".

17 nurses graduate in 70th Provident ritual

Seventeen nurses received their diplomas as members of the 1966 graduating class of the Helene Fuld School of Nursing of Provident Hospital on Friday.

The exercises took place at the Little Theatre at the Baltimore Junior College. Dr. Harry Bard, BJC president presented a challenge to the young nurses in view of the new national policies, which seem to be emerging, that will make medical care available to all.

He commended the students for their roll as a part of Provident Hospital in helping "to build a better Baltimore.

Mrs. Doris Reese, director of the school, presided and presented the graduating class to Judge George L. Russel Jr., a member of the Board of Trustees who conferred the diplomas.

Henry J. Whyte brought greetings from the administration of the Hospital. The awards were presented by Mrs. Claytease Juico, associate director of nursing education. Prayer and benediction were offered by the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, Douglas Memorial Community Church.

A HIGHLIGHT in the exercises was reached when Mrs. Reese read a letter to the graduating class from the husband of one of the graduates, Mrs. Alberta Showell.

In a stirring letter, Captain Showell, stationed in Viet Nam, offered a challenge to his wife and to the graduates to use their recently acquired success "whenever possible to rid our clean country of the foreign bodies of bigotry, racism, black or white supremacy, and concentrated ignorance."

THE FOLLOWING awards were presented.

The Women's Auxiliary of Provident Hospital Award for the two students achieving the highest scholastic averages were presented to Miss Mavis Clayton and Miss Beverly Francis.

The Surgical Award to the student with the highest achievement with the theory and practice of Surgical Nursing was presented to Miss Mavis Clayton.

The Obstetrical-Gynecological Award for the most outstanding performance in the theory and practice of Gynecological Nursing was presented to Mrs. Ida Lino Lyles, and Miss Beverly Francis.

The Chi Eta Phi Sorority Award for the highest achievment in psychiatric nursing went to Miss Dorothy Kearse.

The Alumnae Award for the student exemplifying the most desirable qualities of a nurse went to Miss Joyce Jones.

The Vessell Award for the student who has demonstrated qualities that make her a credit to her school went to Mrs. Alberta Showell.

MUSICAL MOMENTS

Young pianist seen having star talent

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Wayne Lee Dorsey, 18-year-old Baltimore pianist, is matriculating at Howard University this fall. The gifted student enters the School of Music with a scholarship of $200 per semester, which is renewable as long as he maintains an average of B or better.

He was auditioned recently by Mark Fax, a former Baltimorean, now on the university faculty, playing Bach "Inventions," complete sonatas by Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven, Chopin "Preludes" and a modern work in Romantic style, "Malaguena."

Young Dorsey has been accepted by T. Henderson Kerr, also a native Baltimorean and head of the piano department, for his major course in piano.

For the past five years he has been under the tutelage of Robert Earl Anderson well known musical pedagogue, coach and accompanist.

Wayne, who began his piano studies at the age of 12 with Mrs. Mildred Bryant, attests his early interest in music to hearing Robert Laws, his sixth grade teacher, play for the class a program "Let's Meet the Composer."

Further interest was sustained by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dorsey and particularly by hearing his father practising piano assignments for his lessons with Louis Shah at the Institute of Musical Arts.

During this period the lad received as a gift a recording of Rachmaninoff's difficult "Prelude in C sharp minor", which he proceeded to work out at the piano himself.

In 1960 he won a $100 scholarship at an audition sponsored by the local Music Guild.

WAYNE practices six hours daily and has been a regular attendant at Lyric concerts, where he heard his idol, Andre Walis, Van Cliburn and Lorin Hollander. His ambition is to become a concert pianist like Watts.

The young musician is a graduate of Forest Park High School, where he accompanied the choir. He feels that the enrichment courses he took during the 12th semester at Western High School added greatly to his appreciation of music.

Wayne is a personable, modest young man who possesses a high degree of talent and intelligence. He bears watching, for his gifts and capacity for hard work should carry him far.

AUDITIONS for membership in the Senior Choir of the Peabody Preparatory Department will be held Saturday, Sept. 10 at 21 E. Mt. Vernon Pl.

Students enrolled for the fall semester at the department in any subject are eligible for the auditions, which will take place at 10:30 a.m. in Studio 317.

Students accepted during the May auditions as well as those who audition successfully in September will meet for the first full rehearsal on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., under the direction of Mark R. Dubbo, newly appointed director of the Senior Choir.

Mr. Dubbo is a graduate of Lebanon Valley College, in Pennsylvania, and took his master's degree at Columbia University, followed by further study at the Peabody Conservatory.

Flora Wend, Swiss-born soprano, who has been a faculty member of the Peabody since the fall semester starts, Sept. 26, according to Dr. Charles Kent, director.

Mademoiselle Wend, twice winner of the Grand Prix du Disque, France's highest award for classical recordings, will fill a vacancy in the voice department caused by the resignation from the full-time staff of Martial Singher. After study in Geneva, Paris, Berlin and London, Mademoiselle Wend sang French contemporary music for the British Broadcasting Corporation, followed by concert tours in all of the countries of Western Europe, as well as in North Africa and the United States.

From 1954 she was a member of the jury for vocal examinations at the Conservatoire de Musique de Paris.

SEASON'S subscriptions for the 1966-67 series of Candlelight Concerts are now being received by the Peabody. The series will open Nov. 22, with the internationally famous violinist, Isaac Stern; followed by the duo pianists, Whittemore and Lowe, December 13; the Baroque Chamber Players, January 6; Regine Crespin, soprano, February 24 and the Guarneri String Quartet on March 14.

A dividend concert for subscribers, to be announced later, also will be offered on the Candlelight series, which will mark its fifteenth anniversary and the centenary of concerts at the Peabody this fall.

NEW REGIME UNPRODUCTIVE

Ghana govt. mouths white policy; spurns Black Africa

By CHARLES P. HOWARD
UN Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS—If there was ever any doubt about the fact that the present regime in Ghana had any economic, political or social program for Ghana and for Africa, that doubt is now forever dispelled.

This column has [illegible] from the first that this take over by a segment of the military and the police was not a genuine Ghanian revolt but was an operation financed by the British and American forces from the outside using the old opposition headed by Dr. Kofi A. Busia as its tool.

Up to now this group has had more than six months in which to show to the world what it proposes for Ghana and for Africa. Not only to tell "show" whatsteps have been taken to correct evils that they claim were present in Ghana. what it proposes but to "show" what steps have been taken to correct evils that they say about the out look and program of the present Ghanian regime which seized power

TO DATE two missions from Ghana have appeared in the United States: a four-member Economic Mission led by Mr. Emmanuel Omaboe in June, and now a five-member Goodwill Delegation to the United States headed by Dr. Kofi Busia.

This so-called Goodwill Mission held a press conference here at the United Nations on Wednesday August 31 and what its leader had to say about the outook and program of he presen Ghanian regime zhich seized power from President Kwame Nkrumah, the Parliament and the Convention People's Party (CPP) on February 24 should create no end of "so-called" goodwill in Washington, London, Bonn, Salisbury and Johannesburg.

By the same token, however, the words of the leader Dr. Busia should cause plenty of apprehension and worry in Black Africa now struggling for unity, full freedom and the ending of Rhodesian and South African apartheid slavery practices.

DR. KOFI BUSIA designated as Deputy Chairman of the National Liberation Council, in proper Oxfordian accents, left the assembled UN correspondents in the words of some, "in consternation and amazement."

After repeating the old hackneyed criticisms about prodigite spending, foreign exchange depletion, reserves in 1957 of 200.000 pounds and now a large debt of over $400.000 pounds, correspondents began to project specific questions.

Asked for the present regime's position with reference to the Ghana-Guinea Federation which now proposes President Nkrumah as the leader of said Federation, Dr. Busia replied, "As far as some of us are concerned the Ghana-Guinea Federation is non-existent".

DR. BUSIA was asked what Ghana's new rulers are doing regarding long range development plans, the answer was "nothing." In fact Busia informed the correspondents that Nkrumah's Seven - Year Plan including the multiplex Volta River hydroelectric project was being abandoned.

Dr. Busia said, "first things come first." "The new regime is setting about the task of paying debts." The plan of the new regime to pay these debts seems to be to borrow more and more money from their British, American and German backers

In return for this they are selling or dismantling all of Ghana's government corporations, plants and projects, cutting down on education, health and welfare services. It is difficult to see under this program how Ghana will ever be able to pay back the money it now claims is already owned and the money they are now borrowing.

IT IS a fact of life that until Ghana can find the solution to the price squeeze put on cocoa that has driven it from 75 cent a pound to 12 cents a pound, Ghana's economy will be in trouble.

Dr. Busia was asked about the status of the cocoa market in Ghana and he transferred the question to Mr. William Ofori-Att, Chairman of the Cocoa Marketing Board. Mr. Ofori-Att said the new regime hoped to create an atmosphere of improved relations with the western cocoa powers and thus get better prices.

It is known that the United States in the last Cocoa Conference held a few weeks ago refused to agree to a cocoa price that would make for a stable economy in Ghana.

But Dr. Busia who was the Opposition United Party leader when Nkrumah was President of Ghana, shook up the press
