White House event thrills Miss Tyler

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

Miss Veronica Tyler, the famed Baltimore soprano and AFRO Music Scholarship winner, said Thursday while at her mother's home here, "The honor of performing at the White House was one of the great thrills of my life."

The White House performance Wednesday night was for her and four other winners of the Tchaikovsky International Music Competition. It was held in the East Room with President and Mrs. Johnson hosting 250 other guests in their honor. The reception buffet was in the Blue Room.

Accompanied by Erich Leindorf, Miss Tyler sang the aria from La Rondine by Puccini and "He's Got The Whole World in His Hands," a Spiritual arranged by Margaret Dounds.

For the affair she wore a white Balenciaga silk floor-length formal gown with a high standing collar and a large Obe, a back sash designed by Margo Everts of New York.

On the guest list were her mother, Mrs. Alice Tyler, her husband, Barry Hawkins, a Marine engineer, and her aunt Miss Theressa Coleman, also a soprano and concert artist, all of Baltimore.

WHEN THE AFRO talked with Miss Tyler Thursday evening, she was rushing to return to her New York residence to prepare for the beginning of the regular season which extends through the spring of 1967.

Among her many 1966 - 67 engagements are her appearances in Philadelphia Sept. 21 and again with the Philadelphia Orchestra Nov. 2 - 5.

On Oct. 31, she said she will sing with the New York City Orchestra in "The Magic Flute." A highlight will be the Feb. 25 Leonard Bernstein Young Peoples Concert to be televised from New York.

Miss Tyler has been married six years. She and Mr. Hawkins have a 5 - year old daughter, Adrienne, who remainsinBlaitmeorthiw

Douglass pins hopes on crack JV backs

Douglass High School coach Roy Cragway, faced with a taxing rebuilding problem, appears destined to depend on a backfield of Jayvee graduates for the upcoming Maryland Scholastic Association football season.

"We're going to be hard put to find replacements for boys we lost from last year's team.

"There are only about 5 seniors left among the 44 boys — and it looks as though we're going to have to depend on our 1965 Junior Varsity backfield to carry us.

"MELVIN LIGGINS and Don Gray did a good job at halfback and Sylvester Epps was outstanding at fullback on a JV team that was 7-1.

"I think they can help us."

Cragway went on in discussing the 1966 Ducks with the AFRO.

"Where we are hurting is in the line. We lost three tackles and all the centers we used.

"RAY CHESTER, Ben Eaton and Theodore Darden were graduated. They were tackles.

"At center, we're hoping that the conversion of Lloyd McDaniels, a halfback, will solve the problem.

"Additionally, Howard Dixon, Wilbur Frazier and Willie Smith are gone from end.

"THE ONLY bright spot, at the moment, is the presence of the promising young group from the JV, and the fact that Andre Barnhardt will be available at quarterback.

"Andre had some experience at running the team last year—and we're hoping." . . LACY.

She stated she saw her own daughter, Pamella, leaning out the same window and rushed over to the apartment in time to snatch her from danger.

POLICE SAID a pipe running along the wall below the window gave the children a step to reach the window.

Both the mothers stated that there are supposed to be safety screws on the window screen to prevent them from being opened more than six inches.

But the safety devices have been missing for a good while, they said.

Transported by ambulance to Church Home Hospital, young Thomas was pronounced dead five minutes later at 2:20 p.m.

—Aged couple

their debris-littered home where there is no water, lights, or gas, and no visible evidence of food.

A check with the Water Department shows that the water was cut off last May when the aged couple failed to pay a $15 bill which has since accrued a $3 penalty.

Mrs. Ella Corb of the department's Consumer Service Division said the bill represent service for 1965.

A spokesman at the Gas and Electric Company told the AFRO that electric service was discontinued May 9 and the gas was cut off June 1, both for nonpayment of bill.

Mrs. Odom reported that Mrs. Lorraine Gilliam, assistant neighborhood counselor, learned the couple receive Social Security benefits.

Due to their inability to answer questions coherently, however, Mrs. Odom said many facts surrounding their condition are unknown.

AS PROPERTY owners, a Department of Welfare spokesman reported the Wiggins are not eligible for public assistance.

Meanwhile, the couple, not falling under the jurisdiction of any city agency, continues to live in the lightless, waterless, and gasless delapidated home.

Mrs. Odom reported at press time Thursday that her neighborhood workers were continuing their efforts to find a way to assist the couple.

A check with other residents of the block revealed that the Wiggins have "borrowed water" since service was discontinued, but now there is a reluctance on the part of some of their neighbors to help them.

This reluctance — if not hostility — was engendered by Mr. Wiggins, according to one neighbor who vowed he "will never help them again."

Robert Trayham, 71, who lives next door at 115, put it this way:

"When I help a person and get cussed out for my trouble, I don't feel like helping him anymore. That man waits until he gets drunk and lay on the street and call me everything but a child of God. I'm through with him forever."

Mr. Trayham, who is a retired foundary worker, added that "I live alone, but I help myself. There is no reason why they can't do the same thing.

"It's no use helping people who won't help themselves."

MRS. MARY LeCOUNT of 1121 N. Dallas, said she has been "giving them water and food," until recently.

A widow who lives alone, Mrs. LeCount said she has lived in the block for 41 years and helped the couple until Mr. Wigging "became overbearing." She explained that description thusly:

"When he gets 'right' (intoxicated) he uses terrible language and insults everybody in the neighborhood. I just felt that I'm too old to be worried, so I just don't bother anymore."

Thus the Wiggins remain forgotten — privately and officially.

If YOU Ask ME

BY BETTYE M. MOSS

Letter from S. Africa

Think you have problems? Are you bound up in the political faction fight here at home?

Are you blue because you think you can not be happy with what you have?

Are you dissatisfied with job and home?

If so, you may gain inspiration from this letter which reached our desk this week from AME Bishop and Mrs. Harrison J. Bryant in South Africa.

It was dated Sept. 2, four days before the assassination of Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd, who fathered the Republic's white supremacy policies.

AFRO readers may remember Bishop Bryant pastored Baltimore's Bethel Church before his election to the bishopric.

They may also recall there was over a year's delay before the South African government permitted him to enter the country.

Mrs. Bryant (Edith), writes:

"It seems that Bishop and I will be in Africa a while longer and we do miss our AFRO Newspaper. I am asking that you send it here to us for the next six or twelve months. Check enclosed.

"Bishop and I are kept very busy. We have covered most of our work which has taken us into every major city, township and location in the Republic of South Africa.

For the next ten days we will travel through the Eastern Cape and to the Transkei observing our work in this area.

We need to strengthen our work in this portion of the Republic.

"Our Series of Conferences and Conventions will begin in the Cape ...October 5, and we will close the seventh one of the series in South West Africa December 18.

"My health has greatly improved, but the Bishop is very tired. He has had very little rest because his work has been so demanding. Since he does not know how long he will be allowed to remain in South Africa, he is anxious to visit the whole of his work.

"He has lost six Presiding Elders by death since we came here. This has been very sad for us.

"Our building program is very great. We now have more than eighty new churches under construction to say nothing about parsonages.

"This Group Area Act . . . Where Ethnic groups are moved by the government to new locations we are forced to build new churches for the people.

"It is stretching us beyond our ability financially . . . But God is rewarding our efforts.

"Please remember us in your prayers and say hello to our many friends."

AFRO readers may cheer Bishop and Mrs. Bryant at their address: 28 Walmer Rd., Woodstock, Cape Town, Republic of South Africa.

People, places, things

Do send best wishes to Mrs. Anna Frazier, 813 Beaumont Ave. She is 80 years old on Sept. 10.

Many know Mrs. Frazier as one of two oldest living graduates of Morgan State College.

She finished the Virginia branch of the old Morgan Academy back in 1908.

This past June, she was honored by the Morgan Alumni Association.

Mrs. Frazier is the widow of the Rev. John T. Frazier, founder and longtime minister of the church now known as Mt. Calvary Star Baptist, at 1725 N. Milton Ave., presently pastored by the Rev. Noble H. Toyer.

Mrs. Frazier lives with her daughter who is the Rev. Mrs. Edna Knight, associate Minister of the church, and her son-in-law, George W. Knight, chairman of the church board.

Other Frazier children who will be here for the birthday celebration are:

Daughters, Mrs. Lee Pope (Omega), Bayshore, L.I., Mrs. Theodere Carter (Goldie), Bayshore, L.I.; Mrs. Lawrence Thomas (Cecelia), wife of the pastor of Gateway of Heaven Church, Baltimore;

And, sons, Robert W. Frazier, Chicago; Stewart Frazier, Gleason, Ga., and Thomas, John and Lloyd Frazier all of Baltimore.

Also due here: two grandsons, Lance Corporal Lloyd A. Poole, U.S. Marine, and Pfc. Morris F. Poole, both stationed at Camp LeJeune, N.C.

The honoree has 25 other grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren, most of whom are expected for the celebration.

Belated: Should have been cards in the mail on Sept. 2 for Mrs. Viola Scott, 1315 Harlem Ave. She is 76 years old, and 'just loves' to get cards.

More people, things

Visiting the Cortez Purvears (Geneva) on Colbourne Rd. is her mother, Mrs. Pearl B. Harper of Royston, Ga. Also hosts are Mrs. Harper's other sons, P. B. Harper and Hodges Harper, both chemists.

Parents and grandparents of Delegate Clarence Mitchell (D-4th), mark anniversaries in September.

On the 2nd, his parents, the senior Clarence Mitchells, were wed 58 years. On the 7th, the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Keiffer Jackson, (Dr. Lillie M.), observed 56th anniversary.

Here from Los Angeles for a family reunion was Christine Rose Jackson, 18, oldest daughter of the Bowen Jacksons, only son of the Keiffer Jacksons.

Dr. and Mrs. I. Bradshaw Higgins (Hilda) are beaming.

Their son, Ivan, spurned an invitation to enter Harvard Medical School, is enrolling this month at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, and will live at home.

Overheard in the beauty shop: 'So many of my friends are running for State Senate in the 4th District, I don't know how to vote.'

This editor's note: Look at the AFRO ballot in this issue and then make your selection.

New residents of the swank Mohawk section in Northwest Baltimore: Dr. and Mrs. Louis Randall, and Dr. and Mrs. Lionel Desbordes. Pretty, pretty, pretty are their new brick homes.

Speaking of beautiful homes: People are still talking about that dream residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hicks (Marie), up Frederick, Md. way.

A Sunday ago, they entertained a score of guests at a party beside their new swimming pool.

Gracious living in a city: Mr. and Mrs. Roland Williams (Anethia), had a large group of neighbors and friends in for a lawn party at their Hilton Rd., residence on Labor Day.

To show you what ingenuity can do: Tables were conveniently arranged on the spacious lawn and a long buffet table conveniently placed.

To add to the day—there was music by the Meredith Birchs combo.

Mrs. Williams — a gracious hostess — flitted here and there to make sure guests were comfortable.

Many a guest had a good, hearty laugh because effervescent Mrs. Miles Robinson (Louise), was about. She has, you know, a marvelous sense of humor.

Most interested onlookers: Residents of a nearby home for the aged who oohed and aahed from their second floor residence.

Quip of the party: This is one party which will break up soon. School opens tomorrow, and there are plenty of teachers and administrators here who have to get up in the morning.

Labor Day at the Jesse Hughes Hillsdale Rd. residence, neighbors dropped in to share her delicacies prepared at the open fireplace.

Spotted here: Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks Clarks, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Owings, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stith.

Dr. and Mrs. Elroy Young (Walta) also cooked out with neighbors and family.

About here: Dr. and Mrs. Archie Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cole, and Dr. and Mrs. Joshua Mitchell.

Also there: Miss Wilma Bristol, of Bermuda, who was guest of the Youngs' daughter, Jan. The two girls were Morgan roommates.

Maryland Elks were honored at the fraternity's national convention last week in Cleveland.

Dr. Bernard Harris Sr., president of the Tri-State Elks (Md., Del., D.C.) was voted 'oustanding Elk brother of the year', and presented the Finley Wilson Memorial Trophy.

He was also reelected president of the state presidents council.

Elected secretary of the exalted rulers' council was James Hill of Rock Hall, who is also 3rd vice president.

Charles Carrol of College Park, tri-state esquire, received the past grand exalted rulers' degree as did Spearman Butler of Southern Maryland. He is also a tri-state trustee.

Mrs. Amy Warden, of Catonsville, president of the tri-state auxiliary, was reelected vice president of the Daughters' council of state presidents.

AFRO visitors on Thursday: Arnold De Mille, NYC, where he is Manhattan's chief recruitment officer; and his teenage daughters.

Mr. DeMille was here looking for prospective patrolman for N.Y.P.D. His daughters are Valerie, 17; and Arnette, 15.

Out of the mouths of babes department: Our 10-year-old going-on-11 asked: 'Are you going to vote for Sickles or Finan?'

When we answered we had not decided, she observed, 'wonder why they don't let the colored people get the top jobs!'

Our answer to the effect that the civil rights fights and the cry for black power were aimed to give colored people a voice at the top did not seem to impress her.

See, even at ten, our youngsters are not satisfied with inaction, or some promise of something better later, they seem to think we adults should have jobs at the etc. NOW.

Quotes of the week: Congressman A. Clayton Powell at his Wednesday news conference, commenting on his Black Power Conference: 'Roy Wilkins, Martin Luther King and Whitney Young are in the process of praying . . . for the Lord to give them guidance. . .'

Of his advocacy of self-protection as opposed to passive non-violence, he said, 'Self defense if one of the elementary laws of nature. . . I advocate protection of black women as well as black men. . .'

* * *

Of himself, he said, 'I carry a Colt .38 strapped under my arm all the time.'

Asked by newsmen whether he had such a gun on him during the press conference, he drew a laugh when he quipped, 'No, I figure I was among friends.'

* * *

Dick Gregory drew loud laughter on the Tonight Show an evening ago when he struck at those who say colored people who move into former white neighborhoods depreciate the value of the area:— 'How can I depreciate a neighborhood where I pay $75,000 for a $13,000 house,' he snapped.

* * *

Truism of the week: The hurrier I go, the behinder I get.

Philadelphia visitor here: Mrs. Edna Cooke. She vacationed with her sister, Mrs. Bartow Norman of Myrtle Ave.

Prayer of the week: O God, who has sent us to school in this strange life and has set us to tasks which test all our courage, trust and fidelity, may we not spend our days complaining of circumstances or fretting at discipline, but give ourselves to learn of life and to profit by experience. —AMEN.
