TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1967—7 P.M.
MORGAN STATE COLLEGE
(STUDENT LOUNGE)
Sponsored by the Charm Club, the Women's Dormitory Council and Dean of Women, Mrs. Thelma Bando as a feature of WOMEN'S WEEK.

Free events are listed for Murphy auditorium

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Among the promising local events this season was the performance of the oratorio "Elijah" in the Murphy Fine Arts Auditorium, last Saturday by the Morgan College Community chorus and Symphony Orchestra and Chamber Ensemble (vocal) with soloists and Angelo Gatto conducting.

The concert was sponsored by the Department of Music Education.

The oratorio is a complex, highly organized composition. Just the step ahead of the opera. Without scenery, costumes and acting, all depends upon the music and the performers.

To maintain the suspense, enunciation must be crystal clear, attacks decisive and cut, makes unbelievably made with support from the orchestra that sids, but does not drown either chorus or soloists.

Some ideas of the scope of "Elijah" may be had from the fact that when the Jewish-Christian composer, Mendelssohn, conducted his work in Birmingham, England at the premier performance, there were 60 altos, to mention part of the huge chorus.

The massive choral scenes are most demanding in order to sustain the power and drive of the work. Maestro Gatto displayed a vital and musicianly understanding of the oratorio which unified the performance, as he made the most of the resources in hand.

THE CHAMBER Ensemble (from the chorus) achieved definite quality in the ethereal moments, such as "Cast thy burden" and "Lift thine eyes."

The 41-piece orchestra, of which Benjamin Durant is concertmaster, zealously supported the singers.

Since "Elijah" contains some of the great arias of vocal literature wise selection had been made of experienced professional singers, whose performance lent vivid dramatic meaning.

Phyllis Frankel; excellent soprano, altho a bit strained in the upper regions, was effectively brilliant.

In quality and style, Bettye Hankin gave a stellar reading of the contralto role. William A. Brown, with his sure musicianship and color, reaffirmed the assurance that he is one of the finest tenors Baltimore has had in many a year.

Joseph S. Eubanks displayed mature and eloquent appreciation of the emotional requirements of the difficult title role. Mr. Eubanks, with the assistance of Elaine Kelly, directed the Morgan Community Chorus and Ensemble.

Charles Hegley and Carol Lyles ably handled their incidental solo assignments. Despite the temperature a large and appreciative audience attended.

The Music Department, which is headed by Dr. R. Hayes Sperder, deserves hearty commendation for affording Baltimore the opportunity of hearing a standard work of high quality.

It is to be hoped that "Elijah" will become a part of the standard repertoire at the college and thus become as familiar and as appreciated as is "Messiah," both to audiences and performers.

SINGERS AND instrumentalists of the city and environs would do well to align their talents with the Morgan Community Chorus, Symphony Orchestra and Opera Theatre. We have long needed more opportunity to study and perform standard works under expert direction.

Events to come at the Murphy Auditorium, Morgan: March 21 at 8:15 p.m. the Morgan Symphonic Band; April 4, 8:30 p.m. Theodore Lillman, pianist; April 15, 7:30 p.m. two one-act operas; April 30 at 3:00 p.m. All-City Senior High Chorus and May 8, 8:30 p.m. Combined College Chorus from Notre Dame, Coppin, Towson, Hopkins, Md. St. Mary and Morgan, conducted by Dean Warner Lawson, of Howard University.

These performances are open to the public without charge.

THE FOURTH Music Appreciation Hour sponsored by the Piano Teachers Activity Group was held in February at the home of Mrs. Gwendolyn Lassiter, founder and coordinator of the organization.

Following a discussion by pupils and teachers of elements important in the study of piano, such as pedal and expression in relation to titles of work, students performed. In the mid-afternoon period there was an evaluation of each number.

Playing were Venetta Rakver, Sheila Scott, Vanessa Smith, Marilyn Barber, Claudia Narber, Charlene Saunders, Olga Summerville and Sharon Scott.

Guest performers were Jacqueline Brown, flutist; Willietta and Walter Royal, clarinetists.

There was also a discussion of the woodwind family of instruments. On March 19 intermediate and advanced students of the organization members will participate in a concert at Ames Mem. Methodist Church at 5 p.m.

muel N. Phillips, said permanent partitions would take place of the temporary ones in the cafeteria and new lighting would be installed if the classes were to stay there until June.

Mrs. Amy H. Weaver, principal of Beale Elliott, cited the "fine cooperation" of everyone that made the transition "so smooth."

A GROUP of parents Monday had urged School Superintendent Laurence G. Paquin not to split up the classes. Their wishes were respected.

Thursday a group of parents wished to correct the record on several points about the damaged school.

They contested statements made by youngsters at the scene of the fire—youngsters who turned out not to be students at the school—that the school was dirty, cold an had rats and roaches.

Among them, Mrs. Dolores Lyons, who has five youngsters in School 103, and Mrs. Dorothy Harding, who has three, agreed that the school was one of the best kept in the city.

"My daughter attended," one said, "and she was so upset that they said that about the school."

Visitors had often remarked on the upkeep of the school, they said.

The mothers, through the PTA, also have begun to form a committee to help out during the period the "emergency" exists.

How many do you expect at your next meeting in Baltimore?

Assembly notes MSC anniversary

ANNAPOLIS — New bills and resolutions are still being brought in the Senate and House, though deadline for introduction was Tuesday.

They are coming in under suspension of the rules procedure.

Resolutions congratulating Morgan State College on its 100th anniversary have come to both chambers.

The Senate one, sponsored by the Baltimore City senators, is expected to be adopted today (Friday).

The Morgan House resolution, sponsored by Delegates Marvin Mandel (D. 5th Balto.), Thomas H. Lowe (D. Talbot) and Murray Abramson (D. 4th Balto.), was adopted in that chamber Thursday.

AMONG THE new bills is SB 566, by Senators Thomas M. Anderson Jr. (R. Howard & Montgomery) and William S. James (D. Harford), which would place restrictions on persons engaged in the negotiation of secondary mortgage loans.

On the House side of special note is one to aid indigent persons appearing on charges in Baltimore's Municipie Courts.

It is HB 713, and it would authorize the judges to appoint attorneys to represent these persons, and allow fees of from $50 to $500.

Its sponsors are Delegates Isaiah Dixon Jr., Mrs. Lena K. Lee, Calvin A. Douglass (All D. 4th Balto.), Walter S. Orlinsky (D. 2nd Balto.), Andrew J. Burns Jr. (D. 3rd Balto.), and Thomas J. S. Waxter Jr. (D. 5th Balto.)

FOR THE first time, the Senate's Judicial Proceedings Committee has acted favorably on a bill to abolish the death penalty.

The vote to bring it to the Senate floor was 8 to 2.

The Baltimore City Senators opposed it, but the floor action Thursday afternoon a bill to make cross burning a criminal offense.

A similar bill, adding the wearing of masks in public as a criminal offense, was placed before the House Thursday by House Speaker Mandel.

Samuel Jackson to address League dinner

The 42nd annual dinner meeting of the Baltimore Urban League will be held on Sunday, April 9 at 5:30 p.m. at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, it has been announced by Mrs. R. Robinson Baker, dinner committee chairman.

Samuel C. Jackson, appointed by President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1965 as one of the five original members of the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, will speak.

A major item of business at the annual meeting will be the election of members of the board of directors of the league.

The Baltimore Urban League established in 1924 and funded primarily through the United Appeal, is the only voluntary city-wide organization working full time for improvement of race relations in the Baltimore metropolitan area. It is non-profit and non-partisan and interracial in its leadership and staff.

New indictments in Miss. slayings

HATTISBURG, Miss.—Two sets of indictments were handed down by a special federal grand jury here this week, and at least 20 persons, including the sheriff of Neshoba County and the Imperial Wizard of the Mississippi Klu Klux Klan, were arrested.

The first set of indictments was in connection with the deaths of three civil rights workers in Philadelphia, Miss. on June 21, 1964.

Those named were: Sheriff Lawrence Rainey, Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price, Olen L. Burrage, on whose farm the bodies of Andrew Goodman, Michael Sciwerner and James Chaney were discovered.

Billy Wayne Posey, Jerry McGrew Sharpe, Herman Tucker, Richard Andrew Willis, Bernard Lee Akin, Jimmy Arledge, Travis Marvin Barnette.

James Thomas Harris, Frank J. Herndon, Alton Wayne Roberts, Jimmy Snowden, Horace Doyle Barnett, James Edward Jordon, E. G. Barnett, the Rev. Edgar Ray Killen, and Sam Holloway Bowers, Jr., the Imperial Wizard.

THE WIZARD'S was the only name mentioned in the second set of indictments, issued for the fatal burning of civil rights leader Vernon Dahmer near Hattiesberg, Miss. on Jan. 10, 1966.

The 11 others, indicted along with him in the killing, are: Henry Edward de Boxtel, Howard Travis Giles, Mordaunt Hamilton, Sr., Charles Lamar Lowe.

Clifton Eudell Lowe, Melvin Sennett Martin, Emanuel

Meyerhoff says Pa. housing law is successful

Joseph L. Meyerhoff, a Baltimore builder who has drawn sharply criticism for his company's segregated housing practices, has voiced support of an open occupancy law for the state.

In a statement issued this week Meyerhoff, who is also president of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, said that, "we believe that the cause of human advancement will be served best by passing laws and served not at all by impractical and vindictive efforts to force open housing on a voluntary basis."

This we believed to be a reference to Activists for Fair Housing which has been picketing the orchestra.

The Activists campaign was aimed at bringing to task public leaders who supported or built segregated housing.

Meyerhoff pointed out that his company had been operating successfully in Pennsylvania under open occupancy and that he expected no problems when and if the measure is put into effect in Maryland.
