WHY NO AFRO ALL-AMERICA? HERE'S WHY

BY SAM LACY

For the fifty years, the AFRO has been questioned time and again as to why it refuses to select its All-America team which follows every collegiate football season. The answer was the same last year . . . At this date it seemed silly to attempt to evaluate and compare players you never see with those who come considered under your personal observation. . . An excellent case in point is the weekly rating of small college teams announced each Tuesday by the news services.

Make the ridiculous situation Dan Dunavitz in the current United Press Intnl. rating. . . As usual, Morgan State College is where to be found, although the Golden Bears from Baltimore are presently riding a 22-game winning streak. . . In all probability, when and if UPI is questioned about the omission of Morgan, the answer will be that the CIAA team does not win in the kind of competition that deserves serious consideration. . . Yet the UPI's latest rankings list Florida A and M and West Chester State College, both of whom were soundly trounced by Morgan in the last 22 months. . . Florida in the Orange Blossom Classic and West Chester in the Tangerine Bowl. . . They both were rated then, too. . . and Morgan wasn't.

On being ridiculous

Equally ridiculous has to be the so-called "all-time world heavyweight championship tournament," being broadcast over nationwide radio outlets each week. . . According to the show's producers, the tourney is matching up all the great fighters of heavyweight history with the aid of a computer . . . Judging from the last two "fights" heard here, A to Z is beginning to wonder what's in store for the world if it continues to follow its present course of accepting electronic guidance.

In the first of these "fights," Max Baer, who was strictly a one-punch boxer who depended solely on his right hand for scoring knockout victories, outpointed (yes outpointed) Jack Johnson, whom Nat Fleischer, Ring Magazine editor, describes as "perhaps the best defensive boxer I've seen in 60 years at ringside" . . . In the other "fight," awkward, bullish Rocky Marciano outpointed (that's right, outpointed Gene Tunney, again one of the game's classiest boxers.

Thanks for crumbs

On the same day (Oct. 13) that the Wall Street (N.Y.) Journal reported that Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, "will at least match his next year's salary ($100,000) during the off-season" in endorsements and personal appearances, the New York Times announced that Bob Gibson of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, "will get the sports car awarded by Sport Magazine."

And while the subject of endorsements, etc. is fresh in mind, perhaps an open letter to all the colored pro athletes should be jotted down.

Dear Bill and Boys: The Southern Courier of Montgomery (Alabama, of course) recently expressed resentment over the fact that the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund is spearheading a campaign to lower the bars in commercial television, toward the end of gaining TV spots for you ten players. . . "Now that everything has been taken care of in Alabama and Mississippi," it said in its editorial, "the LDF is making sure that Bill White, Willie Mays and the other downtrodden (colored) athletes get their fair share of shaving-cream and beer commercials. Of course, most of these athletes can't remember the last year they made less than $30,000, but this country won't be right again until they get in those commercials. . . "

Now listen, fellows, never mind asking what is meant by the country being "right AGAIN," or when it ever has been right in the area of human relations . . . Never mind pointing out that you're not interested in any more than an opportunity similar to that which has gone to the likes of Mickey Mantle, Leo Durocher and Brooks Robinson since their last $60,000 checks. . . And never mind going into the reminder that millions of men of your complexion shave and drink beer. . . Just thank the nice gen'lmen sub, for their crumbs. . . Sam.

Only his wife

Once in a great while, an extremely warm relationship develops between a professional athlete and his employer. . . Jackie Robinson and Branch Rickey, Willie Mays and Horace Stoneham. . . Last week, general manager Stan Musial of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, said of Bob Gibson: "He's one of the most competitive athletes I've known in all my years in baseball, and a guy I'm proud to have as a friend" . . . Said Gibson of Musial and (Cards manager) Red Schoendienst: "Stan and Red are the kind of people I'd like to play for the rest of my life."

When someone asked Bob Gibson whether the pressure of pitching the deciding game of the World Series made him nervous, the classy righthander declared: "There was pressure, of course, but nothing makes me nervous. . . nothing that is, except my wife."

Who's Unitas?

In all the many discussions of National Football League passers —John Unitas, Sonny Jurgenson, John Brodie — you probably have never heard a word about Bobby Mitchell. . . and he has the best percentage of any active player in the game. . . When the Washington Redskins flanker-receiver-runner completed a 17-yard pitch to John Burrell in the 20-20 tie with Atlanta the other Sunday, it made him 3 for 3 for 61 yards and a touchdown for his 10-year NFL career.

Of 47 trades negotiated in the National Football League to date this season, 12 involved colored athletes. . . They sent: Bill Triplett from St. Louis to New York, Bernie Casey from Atlanta to Los Angeles, Herman Lee from Chicago to New Orleans; Ernie Wheelwright from Atlanta to New Orleans . . . Charlie Bivins from Chicago to Pittsburgh, Willie Daniel from Pittsburgh to Los Angeles Ben Wilson from Los Angeles to Green Bay, John Brown from Cleveland to Pittsburgh. . . Sidney Williams from Cleveland to New York to Washington, Gerry Allen from Baltimore to Washington, Roger Brown from Detroit to Los Angeles, and rookie Ron Duncan from Philadelphia to Cleveland.

Seeing double

Whether or not it is realized by the average observer, the skyrocketing morale of the Baltimore Colts has had much to do with the success of the team in the early schedule. . . Not since the club became a permanent fixture in Baltimore 13 years ago, had there been instances where veterans like Lenny Moore, Jerry Hill, Dale Memmelaar, etc., were seen arguing for the right to run on the kickoff and "special" units, often referred to as the "suicide squads" . . . not until this fall, that is.

Preston Pearson, drafted 12th by Baltimore out of the University of Illinois, didn't exactly win a Colts job this fall but he did gain a wife. . . Pearson, a member of coach Don Shula's taxis squad recently obtained a license to wed Miss Linda Finely, who occupies the next apartment at 3002 Thorndale Avenue, in Baltimore.

Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SIAC) football teams may be seeing — double when they play Bethune-Cookman this fall. The school, which itself represents a sort of collaboration, has a pair of identical twins. . . Samuel Cooper plays one end, Daniel Cooper plays the other.

FOOTBALL ROUNDUP:

Maryland drubs N.C., 26-6; A&T, Tenn., Southern win

BY SAM LACY

Maryland State College, though playing before a disappointing turnout in her first venture at University of Maryland's Byrd Stadium, turned back North Carolina College, 26-6, on Saturday afternoon.

Also winners of their respective games were North Carolina A and T, prefacing next week's visit to Morgan's Centennial homecoming with a resounding smash of Winston-Salem State College; Tennessee State with an upset of sorts of Florida A and M, and Southern University with a come-from-behind triumph over Alcorn.

In this latter contest, incidentally, the Jaguars may have been inspired by the presence of World Series hero Lou Brock, a former student at the school.

AT COLLEGE PARK, where an estimate of 2,000 onlookers was suspect, coach Sandy Gilliam's Hawks jumped into an early lead and never looked back as North Carolina College was subdued in relatively easy fashion.

Twenty-nine seconds after the opening kickoff, Maryland's Bill Thompson intercepted a pass by Eagle quarterback Herm Matthews intended for Julie Martin, and paced 31 yards into the end zone for the first Hawk tally.

Staging what seemed a repeat performance, the Hawks hit paydirt 20 seconds after the second stanza got underway. Hawk quarterback Jimmy Duncan tossed a 26-yard pass to Erwin Williams and Maryland State was on the N.C. 14. Successive carries by Tad Stevens and Jimmy Duncan ended on the three. Then Duncan sneaked in for the TD.

In the third frame, Gilliam's flock put the contest in the deep freeze, when North Carolina's Gib Smith punted poorly to his 41.

Frankie Sumpter, circling left end, went to the 23. Then Duncan hurled 17 yards to Sumpter for the third six pointer.

Maryland added a fourth marker when substitute quarterback Andy Sharpshire, on his first call, threw a 22-yard strike to Earl Banks Jr as he raced across the goal line.

The Tarheels saved a whitewash via a Maryland State penalty, Faust's nine - yard run, and Matthews' eight-yard scamper around right end for their lone TD.

IN GREENSBORO, N.C., victory-hungry A and T State University relieved its frustrations with a 40-point first half in trouncing Winston-Salem State, 54-8 in another CIAA game.

Sophomore halfback Daryle Cherry ignited the desperate Aggies when he took Winston-Salem's first punt with 1:37 played and raced 50 yards for a touchdown.

After that, A and T. piled up points with four touchdown passes, two interceptions and a short run.

The fired-up Aggie offense was again led by sophomore quarterback Merle Code of Seneca, S.C. Code, who began the season as a starting defensive halfback, teamed with halfbacks Aaron Patterson, Tommy Blue and Willie Pearson in routing the Rams.

Code fired touchdown passes of 47 yards and 40 yards to Pearson and a two-yarder to Blue. He accounted for most of A and T's 229 yards passing and added 37 yards in six rushes.

The Rams' only touchdown came late in the second period, when freshman quarterback Foster Epps threw a 15-yard pass to end Timothy Jennings. Epps circled his own right end for the conversion.

MEANWHILE, at Nashville, Tenn., Tennessee State University spoiled Florida A and M's perfect season by clawing the Rattlers, 32-8, before 17,000 hometown fans that were shoe-horned into newly-remodeled W. J. Hale Stadium.

Going into the game, a 13-point underdog with a 1-3 record, coach John A. Merritt's Big Blues scored in every frame, had a 22-0 intermission advantage and passed and ran for a whopping 504 yards.

Returning to his dazzling form, quarterback Eldridge Dickey, engineered 65 and 80 yard drives for the Big Blues' first two scores. Dickey capped the first march with a 15-yard aerial to Wayne Reese with 8:15 to play in the first period. Roy Meneese toed the extra point to put Merritt's men a seven point lead.

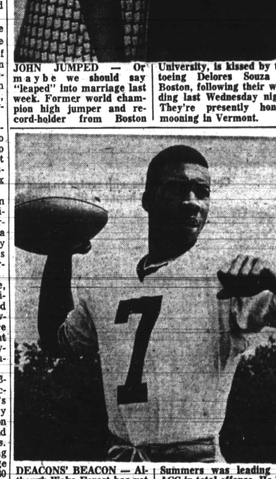
Dickey, 'doing-it-to-death' in the first half, rifled 228 yards and two TD's by zeroing 13 of 17 aerials. When the stadium lights were turned off, Dickey had hit 16 of 24, for 293 yards and three tallies.

AT BATON ROUGE, La., Southern University safety Ken Ellis streaked 88 yards on a punt return to score the Jaguars' only touchdown Saturday night, and it was enough to whittl eown Alcorn College, 10-7, before a howling homecoming crowd in University Stadium.

Other than the standing ovation and wild cheering for former Jaguar baseball star, Lou Brock, when he received his Colonel's commission on the staff of Governor John J. McKeithen, the returning grads had little to cheer about in the first half.

Alcorn held a 7-3 halftime edge over the Jaguars.

But the fleet Ellis changed all this in the third quarter, when he took a Willie Ray punt on his own 12, picked up an assortment of blockers, and jetted 88 yards to score with 6:35 left in the period.



JOHN JUMPED Or maybe we should say "leaped" into marriage last week. Former world champion high jumper and record-holder from Boston University, is kissed by tiptoeing Delores Souza of Boston, following their wedding last Wednesday night. They're presently honeymooning in Vermont.

DEACONS' BEACON — Although Wake Forest has yet to win a football game this season, Freddie Summers, the first tan quarterback in Atlantic Coast Conference history, is giving the Deacons some consolation. Going into Saturday's 24-8 loss to North Carolina State, Summers was leading the ACC in total offense. He had 694 yards, 41 more than University of North Carolina's Gayle Bomar. By virtue of his combined passing and scrambling, Summers had averaged 138 yards a game.

Broken catcher's mask nets Dodger star 20 G

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Roseboro, veteran Los Angeles Dodgers catcher, has won a $20,000 damage award against a sporting goods manufacturing firm because his mask broke during a baseball game.

A Superior Court jury awarded Roseboro the damages for injuries he suffered April 29, 1962, when a foul ball struck the mask, broke it and inflicted eye injuries.

THE ACCIDENT happened during a game with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The ball which struck Roseboro's mask was fouled off by Dick Stuart, later a member of the Dodgers.

Roseboro charged the mask was defective and asked for $25,000 damages from the Rawlings Manufacturing Co. The sporting goods firm contended the mask was dented before the game and it was up to the player to notice the damage and have it repaired.

ROSEBORO said the broken mask bar struck his eye, causing it to bleed. He was sidelined for two weeks as a result of the accident. He also claimed he suffered severe headaches for a year after the accident.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated for an hour and a half before awarding Roseboro the damages.

Morgan offense sputters but continues unchecked

DOVER, Del — "As I told you earlier in the week, I am not at all satisfied with our offense. Perhaps you now understand what I meant."

Morgan State College coach Earl Banks was experiencing mixed emotions in the wake of the 27-0 victory scored by his team here Saturday over Delaware State.

The rotund Golden Bear mentor was naturally please.l that his charges had succeeded in racking up their 22nd consecutive win over a 3-year span, and their fourth of the CIAA season. But he was not happy over the fact that Morgan had frittered away at last two opportunities for additional scores.

"IT ISN'T that I'm interested in piling up a big score," Banks declared. "Im sure nobody we've played has any such thought. But no coach is happy when his boys become careless or complacent.

"In my conversation (with the AFRO) prior to this game, I explained that our execution on offense is well short of what it should be. So many people think I can't be serious when we were averaging 30 points a game until this (Delaware) one.

"BUT I was serious, and I can be believed now. Our blocking is not up to par, our backs are not hitting with the kind of zest I like to see, and there are occasional signs of a psychological letdown.

"Obviously, their attention was distracted by the fact that Delaware doesn't have the record the boys think poses a problem. It is a big headache — probably one of the biggest a coach has — trying to convince these young players that any team is dangerous if they catch you with your guard down."

IN THE GAME itself, Morgan leaped into an early lead, tallying twice in the opening period, the first time on the sustained drives.

SYKES, INCIDENTALLY, was an All-America high school pick last year from Baltimore City College's unbeaten eleven.

The shifty freshman, given a full shot at ball carrying duties for the first time by Banks, stole the thunder from Morgan's All-CIAA halfback George Nock.

Sykes gained 100 yards in 22 carries for the day, Nock netted 63 yards in 21 tries. — LACY.

Jesse Owens frowns on Olympic boycott idea

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Jesse Owens, the athlete who dominated the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, spoiling the games for Adolf Hitler and his "master race" theory, says he strongly opposes suggestions for a threatened boycott by U. S. colored athletes of the 1968 Olympic Games.

"The civil rights situation in the U.S. has improved greatly since I began international competition more than 30 years ago," says Owens, now 54 years old and a radio-television sportscaster. "There have been enormous strides forward.

"THESE young men and women are simply great athletes, simply as athletes, and it has nothing to do with color.

Why boycott? What is to be gained by cutting off your nose to spite your face? These U. S. athletes deserve to compete against the other great athletes of the world."

TOMMIE SMITH of San Jose State College, one of the long line of successors to Owens' title of "fastest human," said last month that colored athletes, at various meets during 1967, had discussed a boycott.

"Several athletes around the country appear to be in favor of it," he said then.

"Whatever decision is reached will be an agreement among all of us. But it does appear unlikely at this time there will be a boycott."

Cubs ace signs as Globetrotter

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ferguson Jenkins, the Chicago Cubs' ace righthander, Tuesday signed a contract to play seven games this fall with the Harlem Globetrotters.

The 6-foot-5 Canadian-born righthander, a 20-game winner for the Cubs this season, will appear with the Globetrotters six times in Canada. Jenkins' basketball experience is limited to high school competition in Chatham, Ont.

N. Orleans hotel doorman eyes heavyweight crown

By BILLY G. JAMES

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — John Rankin weighed only six pounds when he was born, but now the big fellow is 7-feet-4, weighs 295, and is in training to be the heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

"I want to be the greatest heavyweight that ever lived," the 26-year-old Rankin says. "And I believe I have the credentials to do it with."

HE CLAIMS he has been told that his 15-inch fist is the biggest in boxing when he extends his arms, they measure 90 inches from finger tip to finger tip. His hand measures 12 inches from his little finger to the tip of his thumb and is 10 inches from the tip of his index finger to his wrist.

"I know I have the tools," Rankin declares, "and I'll be ready when the time comes."

He did not start to grow until he was 14. At 16 he was 6-foot-6 and at 22 weiged 460. "I didn't stop growing fighter friend who told the manager John wanted to make "some money." After watching Rankin work for awhile, Arnone kept him.

The manager agrees it may at first be hard to find a match for Rankin because of his size and weight. "But when he gets on top, every one will want to fight him-no matter how big he is."

until I was 24," Rankin laughs.

RANKIN is known by most New Orleanians as the friendly giant doorman at the Royal Orleans Hotel in the French Quarter. But this is not exciting enough for John — he wants to get back in the ring.

He has a good reputation as an amateur boxer in Southeast Louisiana and Mississippi, winning all of his 20 matches.

"I never lost a street fight either," says Rankin with a slow grin, "but I can't tell you how I won them."

VINCENT Arnone, Rankin's manager, says Rankin is "pretty agile" for a big man, and says if he continues to work hard he could "get to the top." Arnone should know, he steered welterweight Jerry Pellegrino into the World Boxing Association ranks.

Arnone reveals Rankin was brought to his gym by a

Richards sees Alou solving outfield ills

ATLANTA (UPI) — Felipe Alou, mainly a first baseman the past two seasons and presently recovering from a shoulder operation, is Paul Richards' choice to fill the Braves' vacant center field post.

"Felipe has a lot of work to do this winter, but he may be the answer to our centerfield problem," Richards, vice president of the Braves, said. "I certainly feel that he can be as good, if not better than anyone we might be able to trade for."

Richards said right after Atlanta wound up seventh at the gate in the past season that the Braves needed help at shortstop and centerfield. He solved the shortstop problem by acquiring Sonny Jackson from the Houston Astros.

RICHARDS, then at Houston, was the man who originally signed Jackson to a pro contract. The swift infielder had a tremendous year in 1966, his first full season of major league play, as he batted .292 and stole 49 bases but he was injured last year.

"I never figured the Astros would let Jackson go," Richards said. "But then, they never expected us to offer a pitcher like Denny Lemaster for him."

AFRO SPORTS

REMEMBER WHEN — Ed Hayes, brilliant defensive halfback and safety of the unbeaten Morgan State College eleven, may stir memories with the old grads back for the Centennial Homecoming Saturday at Memorial Stadium. The fleet young Floridian returns enemy punts in the style of former Bear greats Otis Troupe, Brutus Wilson, Terry Day and Leroy Kelly. Morgan's ambitious 100th anniversary homecoming features the traditional football rivalry with A and T State University and figures to lure upward of 25,000 spectators.

EX-EDMONDSON all-city halfback Charlie Pittman of Baltimore, continued his slashing running for Penn State over the weekend. The fleet young AFRO "profile pick" of 1965, tallied the winning touchdown on an 83-yard run of the second half kickoff as the Nittany Lions downed West Virginia, 21-14.

We put our old bus in a new box.

If there was anything the old bus didn't need, it was more room on the inside.

Which brings us to the first thing you should know about the new box.

There's more room on the inside.

In fact, the Volkswagen Station Wagon has almost twice as much room inside as conventional station wagons.

On the outside (which is a little bigger, too) we replaced the 13 little windows with 8 big ones. And one of them is a wrap-around windshield.

What next?

A wraparound bumper to help you step up into the driver's compartment through wider front doors.

As for the 2 side doors, they're not there anymore. We replaced them with a single sliding safety door. It locks when it's open and locks when it's closed.

An aisle through to the back is now standard equipment. (After all, what's a bus without an aisle?)

If you'd rather do without the charm and convenience of an aisle, it'll cost you.

But you'll get 2 more seats (total: 9) for your trouble.

Only Volkswagen would give you fewer windows. Fewer doors. Fewer seats.

And call it an improved wagon.

Top jockey set for Laurel meet

LAUREL, Md. — Jockey Chuck Baltazar is set to pick up where he left off — in the winner's circle — as he returns to Maryland racing for the Laurel Race Course meeting beginning Friday.

Baltazar, 20-year-old Coloradan, was Laurel's leading jockey a year ago and is seemingly invincible at the major Maryland tracks, where he has reigned as top rider for two years running.

In ract, as Maryland's top jockey, Chuck has been the biggest winner at the past eight meetings at Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie. He has not campaigned regularly at the smaller tracks, since he switches to the New Jersey circuit during the summer and early fall.

Baltazar, working under a two-year contract, is employed by Mrs. Milton Erlanger's Woodside Stud and thus gives first call on his services to trainer J. Bowes Bond.

Unlucky 13

LAUREL, Md. — Thirteen has been unlucky for U. S. horses competing in the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel. The largest fields to compete in the turf classic numbered 13 horse in 1955 and 1962. On both occasions foreigners won — Venequela's El Chama and France's Match II.

If you've never tried the bottle, try the glass.

The Canadian Clubman's Code: Rule 6.

If you haven't gotten around to trying Canadian Club yet and don't want to try a big bottle, try a little glass.

That way, you can see for yourself—no other whisky tastes quite like Canadian Club. It's the one whisky that's bold enough to be lighter than them all.

Next time, practice the Canadian Clubman's Code, Rule 6: if you've never tried the bottle, try the glass.
