Country Fairs Aid Progressive Farmers

Timonium To Take Lead In Matters Of Vital Importance To Maryland Men.

Realizing that now since the war is over, the revival of country fairs on a scale in keeping with the progress made by agriculturalists during the war means more to farmers than heretofore, the directors of the Maryland State Fair, held annually at Timonium, Md., are planning to make the fair next September the best ever held.

The fair will be run both day and night, 2,500 arc lights being used to make the night as bright as day at Timonium.

Cattle, horse, sheep, swine and poultry exhibits on a larger scale than ever are projected. In addition a horse show which will combine the points of a metropolitan exhibition with the advantages of a real, old-fashioned horse fair, will be held. The exhibits of farm machinery and farm products will be more extensive than in past years.

A feature this year shared by but comparatively few fairs and which will mark a new era, will be the new cattle arena and exhibition hall. This building, the erection of which began June 1, is to be a fireproof structure of concrete. On the first floor will be the show, judging and sales arena with the most modern of stalls ringing it.

The second floor will be given over to offices, sales room and space for exhibits which, from their nature, must be sheltered in a permanent building.

Awards aggregating $10,000 will be offered exhibitors and the management of the fair authorizes the statement that the judging will be solely on merit and points. In the four recognized types of dairy cattle—Jerseys, Guernseys, Holstein-Freisians and Ayreshires—there will be awards of $1,000, making a total of $4,000. One thousand dollars is the value of the awards in the swine department for the best medium, bacon and lard hogs.

The poultry department this season will be a big success if the plans of the fair association are carried out. The increasing value of poultry and eggs is pointed to as one reason why interest in this "by-product" of the farm should be stimulated.

The farmer's wife has not been neglected in the plans, for in addition to the household and domestic science departments, under the management of skilled women, there will be a dwelling house erected on the grounds which will contain virtually every household article—from parlor furniture to time and labor saving kitchen utensils—that is to be found in the home.

For the younger people the management has provided a circus and menagerie containing 15 high-class attractions.

The officers of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society are Louis McLane Merryman, president; John M. Dennis, vice-president; W. B Kemp, secretary; Charles E. McLane, treasurer, and Matt L. Daiger, assistant secretary and treasurer.

WEANING A COLT.

Foals belonging to mares that work hard should be weaned earlier than those belonging to mares which are practically idle. While most foals are weaned when about 5 or 6 months old, it is well to remember that it is economical to feed a foal through its mother. However, in case the mare is again in foal, if she is allowed to nurse for over 6 months it may decrease the vitality of the next foal. If the foal is getting plenty of nourishment from grain, grass and roughage, it will not be seriously set back when shut off from its dam's supply of milk. When taken away from its mother it should be placed with another foal of the same sex and age in an inclosure where they can not possibly get out or become injured. Feeding grain is not absolutely necessary if the foal is on good grass and previously has been accustomed to it, nevertheless it has its advantage, especially with draft animals. Foal feeding always should be practiced with foal belonging to mares that are worked.

The foal should not nurse more than once after it has been taken away. The excess milk from the mare's udder should be taken from 3 to 5 times a day, but enough should be left so that her system will start to absorb the milk, otherwise the drying-up process will be delayed unnecessarily. Not withdrawing sufficient milk will cause the udder to cake and spoil. Vaseline or lard rubbed on the udder will aid in keeping it soft.

GIVES SIRES TO GOVERNMENT.

The Maryland Jockey Club, it is reported, has presented to the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture, a number of thoroughbred sires to be used for breeding purposes by the Government at its breeding stations. The stallions given to the Government include Captain Ray, b. h., 1914, by Imp. Sea King—Katriona; Star Ben, b. h., 1913, by Ben Brush-Waldena; Imp. Valais, b. h., 1913, by Ethelbert—Lady of the Valley; Trial by Jury, ch. h., 1912, by Fair Play—Princess Chic, and Imp. Greek Legend, b. h., 1914, by Polymelus—Evadne.

CHAUTAUQUA AND RECONSTRUCTION

OUT OF THE CHAOS OF WAR COMES THE WORLD OF 1919. It is rich in new possibilities, but also full of new responsibilities. The realization of the possibilities, within the grasp of men and women everywhere because of the triumph of the forces of right, depends entirely upon how the responsibilities are met.

It is the great task and privilege of Chautauqua to throw its powerful forces into the struggle of meeting these responsibilities in the best way. The Chautauqua platform, the freest forum in the land, is open for the discussing of the world's great problems. The Chautauqua spirit will create that community interest which banishes individual selfishness.

During the war Chautauqua proved itself of inestimable value in maintaining the nation's morale. President Wilson called it "an integral part of the national defense." And now, during the Reconstruction period, Chautauqua has a unique opportunity for service. It will turn itself wholeheartedly to its new task with that effectiveness which made it so valuable during the war.

STAMP CONVERSION IS NOW AUTHORIZED

Treasury Department Offers Through Banks and Post Offices Savings Certificates in Large Denominations.

Richmond, Va.—The War Loan Organization of the Fifth Federal Reserve District has been advised that hereafter War Savings Stamps may be converted into Treasury Savings Certificates of $100 and $1,000 denominations according to a new plan of the United States Treasury Department to afford greater convenience to holders and purchasers of War Savings and Thrift Stamps.

The development of the savings idea is one that has been urged for some time in order to attract larger investments. The holder of a sufficient number of Thrift Stamps may now exchange them for a $5 War Savings Stamp and in turn the holder of twenty of the $5 War Savings Stamps may convert them into a $100 Savings Certificate, or the holder of two hundred of the $5 stamps may in turn turn them in for a $1,000 Saving Certificate.

Conversion may be made at all first and second class postoffices and at all incorporated banks and trust companies that have qualified as agents of the second class. The Treasury Savings Certificate will be issued in registered form and will bear the name of the owners. They will yield four per cent compounded quarterly as do the War Savings Stamps. The limit of the individual investment for the 1919 series of stamps still remains at $1,000.

The new Treasury Savings Certificates should prove particularly attractive for the investment of the funds of fraternal societies, labor unions and other civic, social and religious organizations because the interest is added to the principal automatically each quarter, the entire amount being payable at maturity.

OBJECT IS TO MAKE PEOPLE PROSPEROUS

Government Much Interested In Series of War Savings Societies That Are Rapidly Being Organized.

Government officials at Washington are watching with no little interest the growth of a series of societies springing up all over the United States. They have already attained a membership that reaches well up into the millions.

Treasury department officials are particularly interested in this movement, and it is fostered by that department. As soon as a society is formed the names of the president, secretary and each individual member are placed in the treasury department archives.

These societies are War Savings Societies, and the motive of each society is Thrift. The government, in favoring these organizations, has not only in view the replenishing of the United States treasury through the sale of Thrift and War Savings Stamps, but the big idea is to cause each individual member to learn the value to himself of being thrifty.

The government is not seeking to divert capital from legitimate commercial enterprises. It does not want to tie up vast sums. It is the person who has never saved systematically that it is the most anxious to reach. This person can put aside the small amounts that he has been accustomed to spend, and this, drawing four per cent compound interest, will in an incredibly short time grow into a large enough sum to make the first payment on a home, or to provide a sum with which one may make a permanent investment.

"Nothing is final!" said Napoleon after the battle of Jena. In days of prosperity insure against emergencies. Buy financial safety with War Savings Stamps.

RISKED HIS LIFE FOR ENEMY

Glorious Deed of English Officer Surely Constituted the Highest Type of Bravery.

Valor and glory shine brightest when we behold them in sacrifices such as that of Gen. John Gough, V. C., who went from his place of safety far down the line to take comforts to his old regiment, and was killed while on his mission of mercy.

If where a high officer sacrifices himself for his men is glorious, what shall we say of the deed of a British officer who offered himself to save his foe? During an attempted daylight raid on the part of the Germans, they were held up by a withering machine gun fire and retired with great loss to their own trenches. One poor Hun, who was terribly wounded, was impaled upon his own wire, and he hung there writhing in agony in the eyes of both armies. Finally the sight of his suffering and his cries for help were too much for an English officer in the trenches opposite. Vaulting over the parapet, he walked boldly across No Man's Land in the direct face of the foe, and lifting his wounded enemy from the impaling wire, he carried him across the Hun parapet and down into his own trenches. When he arrived there a German officer took an iron cross which he wore off his own breast and placed it on the breast of the brave British officer. The firing on both sides ceased while he returned to his own trenches. And looking on, both friend and foe alike knew that they had beheld the highest form of glory.—Capt. Arthur Hunt Chute in Leslie's.

SMALL SPOONS AS REMINDER

Hotel Man's Idea Brought Good Results in the Decreased Consumption of Sugar.

At breakfast in a small hotel a traveling man noticed that the guests in the dining room were averaging about two spoonfuls of sugar to the cup of coffee, though the sugar was low in the bowl.

In the dining room of the railroad station where he got his lunch, the sugar bowl was empty. Nobody was grumbling about the scarcity of sugar or anything else, because the country was at war. But a man wearing spectacles did lift a big spoon out of the bowl where the sugar would have been.

"Wonder why it is customary for us Americans to shovel sugar instead of dipping it?" he asked a friend.

That night, at a hotel in the city, the drummer had dipped about four times with the after-dinner coffee spoon he found in the sugar before he got half as much sugar as he usually took. He looked at the negro waiter opposite and smiled.

"Yes, suh, mister," that black dignitary grinned, "that's whut we calls the little 'war spoon.' The boss, he says it helps people to remember; and they don't use much more'n half as much sugar since he put it in the sugar dish."—Eugene Blake in The Vigilantes.

Curious Food Supplies.

Heeding the Puget sound call for food from the deep, a whole regiment of patriotic seals offered themselves for slaughter in the Sea island, Bering sea, and a large supply of their meat was brought down in January by the United States steamship Roosevelt, for scientific test of its food value. Phil Norton writes in Leslie's. Officers of the bureau of fisheries and new dish connoisseurs at Seattle sampled the seal roast at sundry feasts. It gave them a grand and glorious feeling, they said. It makes the stomach feel slick and efficient. It is better than the meat of the burly whale. It is dark red in color, rich and juicy, stripped of blubber, as good as fine beef, in fact. The north Pacific is full of them. Only three-year-old males are slaughtered. Little pieces of pork are cooked with the seal roast, to give it flavor.

The walrus, adorned with valuable ivory tucks, also is being mobilized. One of these fat and bulky creatures would feed a whole troop of Sammies. "Not so," say Puget sounders; "we'll eat the walrus and send our beef across."

Waited Long for Order.

The German soldier does exactly what he is told, and no more.

A German officer was drilling recruits, and had just given them the order: "Quick march!" when he noticed his sweetheart coming across the barrack square.

Forgetting all about the recruits, he entered into conversation with the girl and went away with her.

Six months later the same officer was walking down the main street of the same town when he saw some tattered and tired soldiers approaching him. One of the soldiers, recognizing the officer, went up to him and, saluting, said:

"Please, sir, what about a halt?"
