Mid-August

Spiders are spinning their webs,
I hear pears falling.
Birds are still; yesterday
They were singing and calling.

Grapes are swelling now,
Globes of silver green,
Their leaves lie close, but the sun
Slips in between.

There's a blue haze in the air,
A butterfly's questing flight
Leads where petunias bloom,
Crimson and mauve and white.

Goosenecked poppies are dead—
They have had their flaming hour.
Marigold buds are green—
We wait for the yellow flower.

The goldfinch sits like a jewel
By dried hollyhock seeds;
The wayside is adorned
With vivid weeds.

The fields are dappled brown,
The barns are filled
And sweet with hay that spills
Clover, distilled.

August's quiet time.
Do you hear pears fall?
Cicada sings all day
And at night fall

The katydid's sharp cry,
Prophetic, calls the hour
Of bins for the fruit
And death for the flower.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

Prof. Ten Hoor, of Washington College Faculty, Tells What It Is

The following is from "ABOUT FACE," published in the interests of the U. S. Army Base Hospital at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, and edited by Sgt. Marten Ten Hoor, of Washington College, Chestertown:

After every war of any importance there have been formed organizations with the definite aim of uniting soldiers who fought for a common cause against a common enemy. However, there has never been an organization whose scope was so wide, whose aims were so ambitious, whose membership was so large as this American Legion of Honor. Since it proposes to enlist in its ranks all the soldiers and war workers who took part in the Great War, every soldier and war-worker is anxious to know just what this organization is and what it proposes to do.

The Constitution of the Legion defines its purpose and aims as follows: "The objects of this organization are: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to perpetuate a one hundred per cent. Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great war; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

It is true that these phrases are general and seem to lack concreteness; also that they simply define the aims and ideals of every good American citizen, and not simply those of the soldier and the war-worker. However, it is true that those who fought for their country, who willingly risked all in the fight for the principles for which democracy, and particularly American democracy stands, will naturally keep a much more jealous eye upon these aims and ideals. They have preserved a treasure for posterity and they are organizing to protect it. Who are more interested in the perpetuation of fine political ideals than the soldiers who protected the government which symbolizes them?

There are urgent reasons for an organization of this kind. Bolshevism is growing and spreading. It is rearing its ugly head in every corner of our country; seeking to force upon the nation lawless and destructive principles in a misguided attempt to correct abuses which we all see and deplore. Bomb outrages such as shocked this country but a few days ago indicate how serious and determined these people are. We take it that the Legion of Honor sets itself with iron determination against such irrational and anarchistic expressions of political or social opinion. The enforcement of law comes first in any state. Changes will be brought about. A state or nation would stagnate if they were not. But they must be brought about as a self-respecting democratic people should bring them about, by means of an intelligent and orderly expression of opionion via the ballot-box.

It is against national dangers of every sort that this Legion is going to be on its guard. Anything which will tend to destroy our national spirit, that will tend to corrupt our political ideals, that will tend to endanger the peace of the world, that will tend to arouse class antagonism, class-war, class hostility, that will tend to lower the standards of public conduct, that will interfere with the working out of our national destiny, that will interfere with the betterment of political, social, and economic conditions in the country will invite the opposition of the Legion, that is, of five million determined American soldiers, who know what they want and who know now how to go about to get it.

That means politics. Surely, it means politics. But no soldier who has faced the dangers of war need fear politics. Politics is the natural and legitimate tool of the democratic citizen and there is no reason why he should not use it. The American Legion of Honor is a soldier's organization. Let all good soldiers join it and then it will be as substantial, determined, invincible an organization as the army was in the Great War.

At the call of the Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Kent County, a crowd of Republicans estimated at about sixty held a conference at the Court House in Chestertown Monday morning. Mr. John N. Bennett is also a candidate for the Senate, having filed his papers last week, and he signified his intention in the convention of making a fight in the primaries next month against Mr. John C. Red Cross Notes

At a recent conference held in Washington, the future activities of the Red Cross were discussed. It was then decided to let chapters determine their own peace work. Following this suggestion a meeting was held August 18 at the Kent County Chapter House. A Loan Room, located at the Chapter House, where garments and sick room requisites would be kept was decided upon. This will be in charge of the County Nurse, Miss Rogers, and physicians of the county are asked to co-operate. Red Cross workers will make all needed garments. Any one wishing to donate or loan any articles kindly leave them at the Chapter House.

The money taken in from sales of food left from the Home-Coming supper amounted to over a hundred dollars. It has been decided to hold this for a permanent memorial fund for the soldiers.

JANE V. ROBINSON,
Chairman Kent County Chapter.

BUY YOUR FORDSON TRACTOR NOW.

Price $750.00 F. O. B. Dearborn, Mich.

Strong Pull Long Life Small Cost

To combine light weight and economy with power and durability in tractor construction has not been easy. For years it seemed impossible.

It has been accomplished in the Fordson Tractor, as the work of more than 25,000 Fordson Tractors now in service throughout the world proves.

The Fordson Tractor will pull implements, generally doing the work formerly done by horses. In addition, its belt pulley will do scores of jobs which a horse cannot do.

It will drive all sorts of belt power implements—the saw, ensilage cutter, threshing machine, hay baler, etc.

While the amount of work performed naturally varies with the farming conditions and methods of handling, a conservative average would show that the Fordson Tractor and one operator will do the work of six horses and two men. It will plow an average of one acre an hour under ordinary conditions at a much lower cost than is possible with horses.

The Fordson Tractor speeds up farm work, plows deeper than is usually done with horses, thus greatly increasing crop production per acre. It gets crops planted and harvested on time, increases yield, increases profits and acreage under cultivation. It makes farm work pleasant, and solves the help problem.
