IN the death of Hon. Arthur P. Gorman this state has lost a valuable citizen and the Democratic party has lost a powerful asset. Mr. Gorman had a large political following that has in several campaigns saved the Democratic ticket from defeat. He was a strong party man and his advise was always sought in political councils.

REASONS FOR A VOTE FOR JUDGE ADKINS

In the Primary next Monday the Democrats of Kent County will vote for a member of the Court of Appeals for the next fifteen years.

Judge Lewin W. Wickes, of Kent, will be elected as Associate Judge. During the short time he has been on the Bench he has shown that he can fill the place with competence and ability as well as with courtesy and judgment. By his conduct and such traits he has demonstrated to the people what he can do and hence he has no opposition from any source.

If this be so in the case of Judge Wickes then the voters should remember that Judge Adkins has demonstrated by twelve years experience, during which period some of the most important cases which have ever been tried in this circuit have come before him for trial and judicial action, that he has the same qualities. It is safe to say that not a breath, not a word, has been uttered by any man denying his thorough efficiency, deep insight into and knowledge of the law; and his high sense of honor and his rectitude as a man and a Judge. During the short time he has sat on the Bench of the Court of Appeals his fellow Judges have recognized that he has in him to a marked degree these sterling qualities, and that his knowledge and experience in the law make his retention as a Judge in that Court in every sense of the word most useful and desirable.

As a citizen Judge Adkins has all those qualities which make a desirable example to all who love justice and right. As a man he has always trod the narrow path of honor, not swayed by clamor nor the desire to please, but governed by a high sense of the thing which is right. As a Judge he has studied faithfully and diligently and he has devoted all the knowledge of the law which he acquired while at the Bar in administering his high office on the Bench. His urbanity and uniform courtesy in dispensing justice has been remarked by all our citizens. Why shall we make a change? Can anyone give a good reason for so doing? He has been tried and found not wanting. Does a bank turn down a Cashier who has proved by a quarter of a century of experience that he is the man who has most acceptably filled the place, and has given the Bank that service which has been acceptable to the Directors and to the public, in order to try a new man whose ability to fill such an important position has never been tried and is an unknown quality? Does a merchant who has been so fortunate in his judgment as to select a skilled Manager for his great establishment, as his right hand assistant, dismiss him in the prime of life, after he has demonstrated his ability to go on and upward, and place in his stead a man untried and whose ability has not been tested? Does the President of a great Railroad who, with rare judgment, has selected young men as the heads of the various departments requiring direction, and who for thirty years, while still in the prime of their lives, have shown full and ripe as well as unexampled ability to discharge their duties, replace them with younger men who have never tried such work and who have not yet had the acid test of doing the work themselves? No! He retains his trusted associates and the Railroad receives the benefit of their work for years to come. So it is with a Judge. Judge Adkins had full and ripe experience at the Bar as a lawyer for nearly a score of years. For over twelve years he has demonstrated those rare qualities which are essential in the Judicial office. He has never for a moment proven false to the trust the people have reposed in him in the past.

Few lawyers have that rare faculty which would make them good Judges. Many able men at the bar who earn $10,000 or $20,000, some of them even fabulous sums, freely admit it would be impossible for them to sit on the Bench because of temperament, because of the fact that they may have specialized in the law, and they know they have not that profound general knowledge so requisite to determine legal questions arising daily in our Nisi Prisus Courts. No man who votes to retain Judge Adkins can make a mistake.

Editor Caroline Sun,
Ridgely, Maryland.

My Dear Sir:

The editorial appearing in the Caroline Sun of August 30th, under the title "A Correction," was evidently not written by you, as no one but a very captious person, lacking much in breadth of view and one who is unwilling to accept the verbiage of the letter of Judge Adkins in its true light could have construed the language of the letter in the way that the editorial construed it. There was evidently a great effort made to lay a stress upon a point of insufficient weight and imporatnce to change the vote of any person, either for or against Judge Adkins. It is only necessary to read the paragraph quoted from Judge Adkins' letter to see that the suggestion in that paragraph is not that Judge Adkins is entitled, as a personal right, to the nomination of Chief Judge, on the ground of having served for twelve years as Associate Judge, but on the contrary that the State is entitled to the benefit of the experience gained by him during that period. The smallest knowledge of either the Constitution of the State of Maryland or of the United States is sufficient to justify this statement. The Constitution of Maryland gives to a Judge the longest term of office of any officer elected under its provisions, namely, a fifteen-year term, thus recognizing the importance of experience and the advisability of not having Judges with experience brought into primary contests, as Judge Adkins has been in this case.

The Constitution of the United States gives to the Judges appointed practically a life term, by providing that they shall hold office during good behavior; therefore, the highest law, both of the state and nation, recognizes the importance of experience and independence in the judiciary of the state and nation. Of course it can make but little difference to the public whether the valuable experience gained by Judge Adkins was as Associate Judge or as Chief Judge, so long as that experience has fitted him for the better performance of the duties of the office of Chief Judge. Neither of Judge Adkins' opponents, however competent they maye be, has had the slightest experience on the Bench, and conceding that all of the candidates are men of character, honor and ability, still Judge Adkins has the decided advantage in point of service over his opponents, and this advantage has been gained by experience, and the studious habits and conscientious efforts of Judge Adkins will weigh strongly with the electorate of this Judicial Circuit. It is not believed that the people of this Circuit are ready to say that Judge Adkins shall be permanently retired and that the State, as well as these counties, should be deprived of his ability, conscientious effort and experience for all time.

Very truly yours,
W. MASON SHEHAN,
Political Agent.

CECIL COUNTY'S JUDGESHIP CLAIM

Cecil county's right to a resident Judge is based upon stronger grounds than can be urged in behalf of any of the other counties in this, the Second, Judicial Circuit.

Cecil has the largest population, the 1910 census giving her 23,759; Talbot 19,620; Caroline, 19,216; Kent, 16,957, and Queen Anne's, 16,839.

Cecil has the largest white and the smallest colored registration of all the counties in the Circuit.

Cecil has the largest Democratic vote in the Circuit, leading Caroline by 700, Kent by 600, Talbot by 500, and Queen Anne's by nearly 500. Cecil cast the largest Democratic vote in the Circuit for Price in 1918, for McMullen in 1917, for Wilson in 1916, for Harrington in 1915, for Wilson in 1912 and for Gorman in 1911.

Cecil's assessed value of porperty for 1919 totals $23,006,465.00. This does not include the great Government owned plant at Perryville, costing many millions, the sale of which to industrial interests would greatly swell her total, already far in excess of that of any other county in the Circuit or on the Eastern Shore.

Cecil leads the other counties in the Circuit in the volume of her legal business, which equals or nearly equals that of any two of them.

Cecil without a resident Judge would be more inconvenienced than would any other county in the Circuit, Chestertown and Centreville, Easton and Centreville, Easton and Denton being more readily accessible, each to the other, than Elkton is to Chestertown, or the others.

Cecil's claim, or rather her right to a resident Judge was recognized in 1867, when the present Constitution was adopted and the Circuits were formed; was conceded in 1882 and in 1897 by the re-election of Judge Stump, and again in 1912 by the nomination and unopposed election of Chief Judge Constable. Her claim is as rightful in 1919 as it was in 1912 and is urged now on the foregoing substantial grounds. If the coming primary is to be held merely to give the winner a chance to secure a post of dignity and Profit, then Senator Crothers deserves that chance as fairly as either of his competitors. Judge Adkins, in his circular to voters, states, as all of them know, that he enters the primary because of his acceptance of promotion, and tells them that they "cannot vote for either of his opponents without voting to remove me (him- from the Bench." Promotion might as deservedly have been tendered to Judge Hopper by his Excellency, the Governor, and Judge Adkins by accepting promotion risked three years further service on the Bench and possibly eleven more years after 1922, as he will arrive at the age limit at that time. Mr. Goldsborough, in his circular to voters, says "I have youth and vigor, and I believe I have the ambition for useful service. I hope you will feel like giving me the opportunity." Mr. Crothers can truly and properly say likewise.

The Republicans elected Judge Duer in the First Circuit two years ago. F. R. Owens, Esq., of Caroline, has filed as their sole nominee for Chief Judge in this Circuit, and if Mr. Crothers is defeated in the primary, they will likely nominate Henry M. McCullough, Esq., of Cecil, for Associate Judge. They will strive hard to land both their nominees. Mr. Crothers' nomination would lessen their chances for success. His rejection would increase their chances. Should they elect one or both of their nominees, they will try to win Judge Hopper's seat in 1922 with a nominee from Cecil, Talbot or Kent, as the situation may dictate. They now have two members of the Court of Appeals, Judges Stockbridge and Urner, whose terms expire in 1926 and 1924. They will likely elect Chief Judge Boyd's successor in the Western Maryland Circuit next year and Judge Briscoe's in the Southern Maryland Circuit in 1922, both of which are Republican. Should they elect Mr. Owens this year, they would have pretty strong prospects of controlling the Court of Appeals after 1922. With 60,000 colored female votes to reinforce them, as they may have by that time, if not sooner, by the adoption of the Suffrage amendment, they might retire Judge Pattison in the First Circuit in 1924 and secure six of the eight members of the State's highest Court. Control of that Court by a Republican majority is a prospect that should impel every thinking Democrat to defer its realization as long as possible. Therefore it is the duty of Democrats to pick the most likely winner for Chief Judge of this Circuit. The most likely, as the situation stands now and may stand in November, is Senator Crothers.

His defeat means that the Republicans will place a candidate in Cecil county against Judge Wickes, which they will not do if he is nominated. His defeat also means that Cecil will have a candidate to succeed Judge Hopper in 1922, which it will not have if he is successful.

Judge Adkins, by accepting promotion, risked not only the loss of the Judgeship to himself, but also to his County and his party. He could have remained where he was and saved his party from its present embarrassing situation. Mr. Goldsborough, if nominated, will have a candidate against him in his own county (Caroline). It is, therefore, apparent that Senator Crothers' chances of election, under the existing circumstances, is better than either of his opponents.
