Horse shooting on Pennsylvania Ave.

By RODGER M. MATTHEWS

"A horse got shot!"

So what, would be your answer but why did the horse get shot?

This was the question being asked by bystanders after a shooting in the 1500 block of Pennsylvania Ave.

The horse of Carlton Johnson, 1002 Shellbanks Rd, Cherry Hill, was shot in the chest at about 2:20 p.m. on Thursday for unknown reasons.

The steed was hitched to a wagon with fruits and vegetables for sale.

Mr. Johnson was inside of a snack bar when he heard the shots.

Officer Sidney Williams of the Tactical Squad said that there was a fight next to where the horse was.

One of the people fighting pulled a gun and fired two shots either at one of the people fighting or the policeman and then started running.

One shot missed and the other hit the horse.

William McDonald, 24, 2100 Fayette was standing across the street when it happened.

"I don't see how the boys could have shot the horse. When the shots were fired, they were running up the street. The police were facing the horse coming up.

"By the time the shots were fired, the boys were behind the horse, so if they shot him it must have been in the back of the horse."

Police on the scene maintain that the shots were fired by one of three boys fighting. Officer Williams said he stopped when he heard shots.

Sherman McCree, 29, 1224 Lafayette Ave. said "I saw the police shoot at one of the boys. The boys were fighting. One of them fired a shot and started running. Then the police chased all of them with their guns in their hands.

"When they got to the corner the police fired one shot. They could have shot me because I was in the way. They might have but the other policeman told him not to shoot. Then I got out the way."

The horse was still standing and it was believed by those around that the bullet did not go all of the way in. Most thought it hit the horse's collar.

Twenty minutes later the S.P.C.A. arrived to tell the police that "It is almost impossible to get a vet in the city for large animals." David Stewart expressed his concern when he said, "Its just impossible."

The horse was walked back to his stable on Bruce St. Meanwhile, a rummage sale took place to get rid of all of the fruit on the wagon. A replacement horse arrived and put an end to that.

No one is certain as to who shot the horse or who fired the shots, be it the police or the boys fighting. The boys are in custody though.

Ministers call for heavy voter turnout

The Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance urged Tuesday a heavy turnout of voters in Tuesday's primary, charging the black community is "caught in a racist box."

In a prepared statement, the Alliance praised both George L. Russell Jr. and Clarence M. Mitchell 3rd as mayoral candidates "either in his own way could make an outstanding mayor."

* * *

The Alliance, however, failed to take a firm stand on either Mr. Russell or Sen. Mitchell, but was content to urge the heavy turnout with the choice up to individual voters.

Here is the text of that statement:

* * *

As we prepare for the mayoralty election Sept 14, 1971, the Alliance would challenge the broader community to rise above the effects of double racism.

"We are blessed to have two outstanding candidates who for once would stand as giants above the other candidates. The credentials of Clarence Mitchell III and George Russell, Jr. are among the best ever presented to the Baltimore populous.

* * *

"Where in the city of Baltimore does an individual possess the energy, experience, and experimental empathy with the everyday people of the community as Clarence Mitchell?

"Where in the city of Baltimore does an individual possess the legal, technical, academic and resourceful background of George Russell?

"Either in his own way could make an outstanding mayor.

"Yet, as always, we are caught in a racist box. This box defines our limitations by demanding that we participate in the democratic process. Then limiting our participation.

* * *

"Several white candidates may actively seek one major office; but the community of oppressed people tremble when two blacks push for the same office. Why are blacks denied the same democratic right of participatory democracy?

"Black people order steak in a variety of styles, so why not choices for a political situation? Do not both of these outstanding candidates have the right to seek a public office?

"The answer is yes, if we are prepared to accept the consequences taught us by history: "Whites will not vote for a black in significant numbers, regardless of his qualifications. Though blacks have always voted in large numbers for some whites."

* * *

"Faced with such a dilemma, we own two options. The natural desire is to rise up and defeat racism by agreeing on one candidate. The fruitful results can produce a Parren Mitchell or a Milton Allen.

"In this race it does not appear that this is possible.

"But there is another alternative. Let the people transcend this double racism by rising above their own pathos, disillusionment and apathy; and vote, in greater numbers than ever before.

"Let them choose freely their preference. The result could well produce a double victory over racism.

* * *

"First, we would vote according to the issues, rather than become the victim of a racism that forces us to debate over who shall freely run for what.

"Secondary, we would choose openly our choice, and become triumphant over a system that inherently promotes inequity by denying the very democracy it mouths.

"The Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance does trust the people's insight. It commends two candidates to the voters, and believes fully that their perceptivity will render the power to elect our next mayor.

"Rise, Shine Give God the glory.' Our time under God is now."

Tanzanians on Cuban mission

DAR-ES — SALAAM, Tanzania — A Tanzanian delegation has recently begun a goodwill mission to Cuba and the Caribbean.

Israel Elinawina, minister of state for foreign affairs, heads-up the 11-man team of officials as they spend a week in Cuba.

The group will then split, with some remaining to study Cuban progress in education, health and agriculture. The others will go on to visit several Caribbean states.

FOOD FOR THE MIND.

A limited-time offer from one of the most recognized names in encyclopedias.

During the next few weeks, we're offering the complete 25-volume set of the Funk & Wagnalls Encyclopedia. Besides being one of the world's most popular encyclopedias, it sells for one of the world's most popular prices. You can buy a volume a week for only $1.89 each. And the first volume for the introductory price of 25¢.

But don't let the low price scare you off. The Funk & Wagnalls is a full-fledged encyclopedia researched and written by hundreds of scholars and Nobel Prizewinners.

It has over 10,000 pages and 5,000 illustrations—including a full color World Atlas.

It's durably-bound to resist the ravages of time and children.

It's written in clear, simple English. (It isn't designed for scholars or children; it's designed for families. Children can use it to help with schoolwork, and parents can use it to help keep up with children.)

And it covers over 30,000 subjects—or about as many as encyclopedias that cost hundreds of dollars more.

But unlike other good encyclopedias, which are sold through salesmen, the Funk & Wagnalls is available only through supermarkets. That way, you don't have to pay the cost of somebody to sell it to you.

Which means that to own a good encyclopedia, you no longer have to be rich.

You just have to be in the right place (ours) at the right time (now).

Motorcycle deaths jump

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the nation's booming fads — motorcycle riding — claimed 2,330 lives in 1970, a jump of nearly 20 per cent over 1969, government safety experts said Friday.

This new increase in motorcyclist fatalities is exacting its tragic toll primarily among our young people," National Transportation Safety Board chairman John H. Reed said.

New coach ready for Charger debut

Clarence White, newly-installed head coach of the Eastside Chargers, will be hoping for a successful start at Utz Stadium, Patterson Park, tomorrow Saturday) night.

The Chargers meet the Washington (DC) Stonewalls in an 8 p.m. kickoff.

White will be aspiring to match the feats of his predecessor, Charles Brown, who guided the Chargers to the Mason-Dixon Free League title last year.

Youth, 15, gets term of 20 yrs.

A 15-year-old youth, found guilty of sexual assault, was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment when he appeared in Criminal Court on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 8.

Judge Paul A. Dorf told the defendant, Quentin David Childs, 1900 block McCulloh St., that although he was not the aggressor and was led into the crime by a companion, he was equally guilty.

Another 15-year-old, Theodore Queens, 2200 block Brookfield Ave., is also charged along with Childs of rape, kidnapping, robbery with a deadly weapon and an additional charge of assault.

Mr. Queens is awaiting trial. Childs was tried and found guilty by Judge Dorf on June 24.

Mr. Childs, shortly after his arrest, reportedly told police he had doubts about assaulting the 30-year-old victim, but he followed his friend in the crime anyway.

According to a statement reportedly issued by Childs to police, he and Queens, on the night of May 20, 1970 walked towards a man and a woman sitting in a parked car in the 00 block N. Arlington St.

Childs said they drew a gun and forced the man, identified as Willie Gillard, 1300 block Edmondson Ave. to move from the driver's seat.

Childs told police that Queen drove the car away while he got in the back seat and held the gun on Mr. Willard and his female companion.

In the statement, Childs allegedly told police his lard get out of the car, companion made Mr. Gilstruck the man, and then robbed him of his wallet before driving on with the woman.

They then drove away according to the statement given to police, assaulted the woman and then took her to her home after she gave them the address.
