School celebrates 'love day'

How do you create a spirit of love asd brotherhood?

If you're at Madison Square Elementary School, 1400 E. Biddle St., Baltimore, you plan a "Love Day", with the hope feelings of kinship and love felt that day will continue throughout the school year.

Valentine's Day, was Love Day at School No. 26. The entire student body was asked to wear red, the color of warmth and love.

The program was conceived and directed by Miss Lillie Mae Mills, music teacher, and Miss Anne Harrison, first grade teacher. Mrs. Edna Russell is the principal and Warren Sears is the assistant principal.

The highlight of the day was the "Apple Walk" when every pupil and staff member was asked to deposit an apple in "love baskets".

To the music of Love Story Theme, classes filled by the love baskets and deposited their apples.

Four baskets were filled and presented to the Kennedy Institute and Knox Day Care Center.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mrs. Vernice Townsend West were held last Wednesday at Ames Memorial United Method Church where she had been a lifelong member. Pictured are some family and friends who attended last rites.

Gertrude J. Duckett longtime nurse

Funeral services for Mrs. Gertrude J. Duckett, 46, 633 E.36th St. in Baltimore were held Tuesday at the St. Phillips Lutheran Church. Burial followed at Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Duckett died unexpectantly Feb. 16 at her home.

A member of St. Phillips Lutheran Church for 11 years, Mrs. Duckett was formerly a member of St. Matthews Lutheran Church for 15 years.

The daughter of the late James Gray Sr. and Mrs. Gertrude Gray, Mrs. Duckett received her early education in the Baltimore public schools.

Mrs. Duckett is survived by her children, Mrs. Doris Wynn, Misses Bernice and Janice Duckett and Melvin and Carl L. Duckett.

Mayor enlists in fund drive

The Beautiful Baltimore Committee's annual fund raising drive was kicked off Valentine's Day by Mayor William Donald Schaefer.

A volunteer citizens' group, Beautiful Baltimore last year inaugurated its Hanging Baskets program and placed 200 flower baskets on street light poles in the downtown area.

This group hopes to double the number of buds blooming around town this year.

At a ceremony in the mayor's office, the committee enlisted the mayor's support in their quest for $8,000 dollars in contributions from Baltimore's business community as well as private citizens.

Contributions to the committee can be sent to Hanging Baskets, P. O. Box 2333, Baltimore 21203.

For more information contact: Mr. Edward Fitzpatrick, 393-3395 or Mr. William Amelia, 727-2222.

Rites for man found in gas station

James Taylor, 60, 1600 block Monroe St., will be buried in the Arbutus Memorial Park Saturday morning following funeral services at the Kelson Funeral Home at 10 a.m.

Police records show Mr. Taylor was found dead at 2:30 p.m. at a gas station in the 4500 block Bonner Rd. Tuesday. The medical examiners report on the cause of death is still pending.

The body, according to police, was found by school children coming back from school. He was lying face down on the westside of the gas station.

Mr. Taylor is survived by his son, Westly Davis.

She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Gray, a grandchild, Marie Duckett and a brother, James Gray Jr.

Mrs. Catlin, Macedonia member

A service of tribute was held last Saturday at the Macedonia Baptist Church for one of its long time members, Pearl Catlin.

Mrs. Catlin lived at 1911 Dennison St. and at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Ingram, 2020 Ruxton Avenue.

Mrs. Catlin died suddenly on Tuesday, Feb. 13.

She was born in Blackstone, Va. in 1883 and came to Baltimore at an early age. She joined Macedonian in 1907 where she was extremely active and faithful until her death.

Her organization affiliations included the Missionary Society, Macedonia Immediate Relief Society, and the Flower Circle. She also served as Vice President and President of the Pastor's Aide Society. Most recently she founded the Catherine Bagwell Savings Club.

Dr. Willard L. Clayton, pastor, of Macedonia eulogized Mrs. Catlin as "the precious, priceless pearl." He cited her unusual qualities as a mother, grandmother and church worker. Other ministers who participated were the Rev. Leander Brown, the Rev. Andrew Brown, the Rev. Lawyer L. Swinson and the Rev. Harold A. Carter.

Mrs. Catlin was the widow of the Late Frederick E. Catlin. She is survived by ten of her fourteen children. They include Lillian Ingram, Viola Catlin, Dorothy Dandridge, Pearl Mathews, Elmer Catlin, Ruth Weaver, Verna Myrick, Thelma Bines, Virginia Holman and Edward Catlin.

Also surviving her are 26 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren, one niece two nephews, one daughter-in-law, three son-in-law, three sisters-in-law, and a host of other relatives.

The interment was in Arbutus Memorial Park; Herbert Nutter was the Mortician in charge.

MISS BEVERLY E. SPRINGS — is all smiles about being named to the honor roll for the third straight month at the Charleston, W. Va., Job Corps Center where she is training to become a keypunch operator. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Springs of McHenry St., Baltimore.

Democrat convention held here

The College Young Democrats of America recently concluded a 3-day national convention in Baltimore with the election of a new slate of officers.

Nearly 200 college and high school students from 27 states attended the convention.

The theme of the College Young Democrats' platform was "Seven Issues for the Seventies."

Co-chairmen for the convention were Howard Majev, of Johns Hopkins University, and James C. Swartz, of the University of Maryland Law School.

Officers elected Sunday at the Baltimore Hilton were: Richard Siroda, of New York City, president; Thomas Gentzel, of Penn State, executive vice-president; Dave Holt, of Pheiffer College, N. C., administrative vice-president; Barry Goldstein, of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., treasurer; Tom McNally, of Georgetown University, Washington; corresponding secretary; and Miss Kay Olson, of the University of Missouri, Kansas City, recording secretary.

City Council wants more $$ for Pratt

City Council Tuesday night adopted a resolution urging Governor Mandel to add $900,000 to the $440,000 he proposed the state to spend in Fiscal 1974 on the Enoch Pratt Free Library.

The total of $1.3 million, resolution authors Charles Wheatley (D, 6th) and Joseph Curran (D, 3rd) reported, was the figure the state Department of Education recommended spending on the Pratt as a state Library Resource Center.

The Councilmen declared the state by law should be paying $2 million a year on the central branch but the $1.3 million figure is a "substantial" improvement ove: the $342,000 received this year and the $440,000 Mandel proposed for 1974 Fiscal Year.

The idea for the resolution arose last week while Library Director Edwin Castagna was presenting his mid-year report to the Council.

Also, the Council acknowledged the passing of Dr. H. Maceo Williams, Sunday, Feb. 11.

Dr. Williams was raised in Baltimore, earned his medical degree at Howard University, lecfured at many medical schools and became the first black doctor hired for a full-time post with the city Health Department.

H. MACEO WILLIAMS KIN—Final rites for Dr. H. Maceo Williams, long-time public health physician were held last Wednesday at Union Baptist Church. Pictured among family members are his wife, Mrs. H. Maceo Williams; Dr. Euginia Collier, daughter; his grandson and H. Maceo Williams Jr., son.

Bureau refutes sex bias claim

The Credit Bureau of Baltimore claims it does not discriminate against women who either apply for credit or ask that their credit be extended.

The Credit Bureau's latest bulletin to member stores cited customer complaints that stores had told women customers the Credit Bureau would not allow them to extend credit to women for more than 90 days and in some cases not at all.

The Bureau stated that it has no policies whatsoever as to whether or not its member stores can extend credit; that it passes judgement on no applicant that their subscribers hubmit to the Bureau; and that it denies credit to no one, including women.

Consumers wishing to establish credit exclusively and independent of any marital relationship should give specific instructions that his or her file is to be developed on that basis; otherwise the Bureau's files will reflect the combined record of husband and wife.

CCB campus' needed funds appropriated

By DR. SIDNEY KOBRE

Full-steam ahead for the construction of the Harbor Campus!

That's the slogan now at the Community College of Baltimore.

The Maryland State Board of Public Works has appropriated $4.7 million in addition to its previous commitment to complete the campus.

"This gives the Community College the opportunity to move ahead rapidly," said CCB President Harry Bard. "We can now move forward with the completion of the working drawings and specifications as well as the acquisition of land. Present property-owners are being re-located."

The Harbor Campus is part of Baltimore's extensive Inner-Harbor Development Project. The campus will be in the Market Place area, with one building facing Pratt street and bounded by Market and Gay streets. The second building will be bounded by Lombard and Water streets.

Dr. William V. Lockwood, vice-president of the new campus said that land for the campus is being acquired now and actual construction will begin in mid-August. This is the required deadline date for breaking ground and for awarding the construction contract, as federal funds are involved.

The educator pointed out sources for construction funds for the campus which showed the state will provide about $.75 million; the city about $1.3 million; and $6.0 million comes from the federal government. The campus will cost a total of approximately $14.4 million.

Maintain public's faith in judges, Bar pledges

The Baltimore Bar Association has publicly stated its determination to do everything in its power to maintain the public confidence in the city's judiciary.

Citing a recent Commission on Judicial Disability report which "found two judges of the District Court of Maryland for Baltimore City engaged in conduct . . . prejudicial to the proper administration of justice," the local association called on the governor to intervene.

Wilbur D. Preston Jr., president of the Bar Association, said the group had asked Gov. Mandel to defer any reappointments of incumbent judges to the District Court until a final determination had been made by the Judicial Disability Commission and the Court of Appeals on the conduct of each judge.

The group's spokesman also said the association would hold a plebicite among all Baltimore City lawyers regarding the qualifications of incumbent judges.

The association's executive council joined with Preston in asking the governor to wait until after the plebicite before making any reappointments.

Currently two judges have been recommended for censure by the Commission on Judicial Disabilities for 'fixing' parking tickets. They are A. Jerome Diener and Joseph L. Broccolino.

These two are among six district judges up for reappointment to 10-year terms by the governor subject to confirmation by the Maryland Senate. Three other district judges have been questioned by the Judicial Disability Commission, but no ruling has been made thus far.

Gov. Mandel has stated he will remain on the sidelines until the Court of Appeals makes a ruling on the accused judges.

Jesse Paylor is first loftsman in local yard

Jesse Bernard Paylor, 21, is making history.

He is the first black to be promoted to mold loftsman at Bethlehem Steel's Key Highway Shipyard.

A mold loftsman is a draftsman who draws ship lines to scale that are later used in the construction of ship hulls. One mistake by Paylor could cost Bethlehem thousands of dollars in faulty ship construction.

Mr. Paylor, son of Mrs. Connie Paylor, a housewife, and the late Coy Paylor, has been at the yard over six years and says "I want to stay."

He graduated from Douglass High in 1966, after which he began as a mechanic's helper at the yard.

He has been the only black loftsman in a crew of seven for almost a year, and is a member of Local 24 of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, AFL-CIO.

Currently a third class loftsman, he wants to continue his schooling and hopes to reach the first rating within five years, afterwards aiming to become leader of the mold.

Mr. Paylor lives on Elamount St. yith his wife, Mrs. Sarah Paylor, 21, and their two children: Tracilla, three, and Jesse, Jr., two.

Mr. Paylor has one brother and six sisters: Edward, 27, a probation and security officer in Washington; Mrs. Mary Nolan, 28; Mrs. Linda Rhinehart, 23; Miss Peggy Paylor, 20, in California; Miss Marcella Paylor, 18; and Miss Thereza Paylor, 17, a Western Senior High student.

Warning issued to accountants

Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) were cautioned this week by Atty. General Francis B. Burch from recommending tax shelter investments to clients especially high income professional people.

This warning was echoed in a letter to the Maryland Association of CPAs by Burch's securities commissioner Ronald M. Shapiro.

"It has come to light that accountants have become involved in the promotion and sale of securities. By so interposing themselves in the chain of distribution of securities that are not exempt from registration and have not been registered under applicable law, accountants are subjecting themselves to possible criminal and civil sanctions," he said in the letter.

PSTA, BTU quarrel over proposed merger

There's a new battle in the works between the Baltimore Teachers Union (BTU) and the Public School Teachers Association (PSTA).

According to Carl Boone, PSTA head, "We had informal, exploratory talks about merger with the BTU, but our executive board voted to discontinue them."

Godfrey Moore, BTU executive secretary, said the AFRO-AMERICAN PSTA made an offer to merge and then rejected its own offer because of a selfish desire to grab the whole pie."

The "whole pie" refers to Baltimore City teachers, more than 8,000 teachers, about 4,600 of whom are now in the BTU, claims Mr. Moore.

* * *

Mr. Boone disputes this figure: "Of all city teachers, one third are in the PSTA, another in the BTU and the rest are in neither, so Mr. Moore's figure is inflated to include teacher aides."

The question "Which group wants to merge?" is difficult to answer.

Says Mr. Boone "The BTU has been wooing us from the beginning, and Godfrey Moore ran on a pro-merger ticket last August for vice president of the American Federation of Teachers, a national group."

State takeover of city jail - Dixon

AFRO Bureau

ANNAPOLIS — A Joint House resolution requesting the Governor to direct the Commissioner of the Division of Corrections to study the "feasibility of incorporating" Baltimore City Jail into the state penal system has been introduced by Del. Isaiah Dixon (D., 4th Balto. City).

Del. Dixon argues that the city jail is "beset by numerous problems many of which could be alleviated the state of Maryland assuming the responsibility and control, financial and otherwise, of this burdened institution."

The "grave fiscal drain" the prison now represents to the city, he points out, makes it impossible for guards to participate in a state training program for correctional institution guards.

"Baltimore City Jail is in dire need of immediate change and direct action," Del. Dixon declares in again calling upon the Governor for the "feasibility study".

Veteran employees honored by HCD

Thirteen employees who have been in the service of the City for 25 years were honored Tuesday by Mayor Donald Schaefer in a ceremony at the Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD)

They were among 115 employees of HCD who received certificates attesting to their long term service.

The thirteen 25-year employees ore: John F. Bokman, maintenance supervisor, Leased-Used-Vacant Housing Program; Jessie Brock, Jr., foremam, paving and drainage crew; Augustus Brown, laborer, Somerset Court; Helen G Capoella, analyst, Housing Management;

Ottavio F. Grande, director of Construction and Buildings Inspection; Elaine F. Howard, manager, Perkins Homes; Dorothy F. Lewis, clerk, Maintenance Operations; Francis Miles, maintenance crew, Lafavette Courts; Walter J. Miles, building inenector;

Ruth P. Morton, Relocation cashier, Oldtown; Walter E. Price, Jr., superintendent of elevator inspectors;

James Butler, maintenance supervisor for George B. Murphy Homes received Tuesday the 1973 Walter Sondheim Award as the outstanding employee of the Department of Housing and Community Development.

The award was made by Mayor William Donald Schaefer.

Butler, an employee of the Housing Authority for more than 20 years was only recently transferred to Murphy Homes, where he supervises a force and 20 walk-up apartment buildings. Murphy Homes houses 758 families.

Housing Commissioner Robert C. Embry, Jr., cited Mr. Butler's concern for people, his willingness to work extra hours to help residents; and his leadership ability.

Conference needs contributions

The Maryland Conference of Social Welfare must replace its antiquated addressograph equipment.

Because their operating budget is very tight, Thomas Waxter Jr., president, is asking for at least 10 benefactors to costribute $25 to the conference to enable them to replace the equipment. Waxter says they have an opportunity to purchase a used Scriptomatic manual machine for $250 if the group receives the needed contributions in time.

College fair on Saturday

"College for Everybody Day", an event believed to be the first of its kind in the nation, happens Saturday at Eastern High School, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Some 24 institutions of higher learning are taking part in the college fair designed to reach veterans, housewives, teen-age mothers, persons older than the normal college age and those studying for General Equivalency diplomas.

anyone who may never have thought of themselves as college material but want to make sure.

What's open in Civil Service

The Civil Service Commission has announced the following job vacancies to be filled by competitive examination.

Applications for these jobs must be filed at the 10 South St. office of the commission no later than March 2.

Minimum qualifications for all openings require graduation from a recognized high school and in some cases a college degree.

The Mayor has directed that wherever possible, openings shall be filled by bonafide residents of the City.
