The Hazards of Peace

On June 27, 1918, General Agent A. L. Spalding, of Baltimore, wrote a prepaid application in New York city, for $5,000, on the life of Reverened Lucian G. Libert, of Martinton, Ill. Mutual Benefit Policy No. 845,630 was duly issued with the insured's father as beneficiary. Reverend Libert was 46 years old. He was a Knights of Co- sonal property in Kent county, subject lumbus Secretary, and that organization, in accordance with its war practice, paid the extra war premium of $125 & except in securities, which is 30 cents called for under the policy. The regular premium was paid by the insured. Reverend Libert served overseas as Chaplain with the 101st Regiment, 26th Division, A. E. F., for ten months. towns where such shares may be held. He came through the war unscathed and returned to the United States in April, 1919. After the signing of the Armistice, the Board of Directors of the Mutual Benefit ruled that all extra war premiums be refunded. The Knights of Columbus accordingly received back from the Company $125, the extra war premium on account of Mutual Benefit policy No.

The second regular premium on this policy, due June 27, 1919, was not paid, and the policy was allowed to lapse. Under the Mutual Benefit's Non-forfeiture System it was extended for its face value for 327 days, or until May 19, Reverend Libert consulted a physician for illness on November 10, 1919. On December 5, 1919, he died of an acute heart affection entirely disassociated from his war activities. The claim was paid in full by the Company to the insured's father. No other company would have paid anything under like circumstances.

This case illustrates three important points: 1. The Mutual Benefit's attitude toward the men who served their country in the great war. 2. The practical value of Mutual Benefit First Year Non-forfeiture, and 3. The pertinent fact that the hazards of peace are to be as thoughtfu!ly reckoned with as the hazards of War. It is never safe to be without adequate Life Insurance. The wise course is to carry it on an Income basis of purchase money payable on day of and hold on to it. Even the Mutual Benefit's extremely liberal Non-forfeiture System is powerless to indemnify the beneficiaries of men who lapse their policies and die after the extension period of their policies has expired. If there is a better Company than The Mutual Benefit of Newark then we would not expect you to buy from us.

JAMES G. BECK, Local Agent. CHARLES F. RALEY, District Manager.
