Turk Scott Case Takes New Turn

FEDERAL $$ BRIGHTEN SUMMER JOB PICTURE

By SCOTT PONEMONE

A $1.4 million special grant announced Wednesday by U.S. Department of Labor should double the number of summer jobs offered city youths and more than double the money each youth will earn over the summer.

* * *

About a month ago, with no federal monies apparently coming, Mayor Schaefer proposed spending $850,000 of revenue sharing funds to allow 2,400 young people to work 6 weeks at 20 hours a week for a summer's earnings of $190.

The $1.4 million should allow 4,500 youngsters to work 8 weeks at 32 hours a week for a gross income of $430, but only if City Council passes the mayor's bill on the $650,000

Failure of the Council to approve the measure would cost the summer job program around 1,500 jobs.

Mrs. Marion Pines, head of the Mayor's Office on Manpower Resources, told the AFRO, she appeared before the Council's Finance Committee on Thursday to explain the new developments in summer job

Wife Hired Man To Kill Mate

She paid $400 to man for husband's death

LEGISLATORS' LEFTOVER LITTER — When the 1973 session of the General Assembly ended abruptly at midnight Monday, Annapolis lawmakers cleared out of the House of Delegates (shown here) and the Senate leaving in their wake mounds of papers and books scattered over desk tops and strewn on the floor. (AFRO staff photo by S. Ponemone)

Mrs. Demaris E. Feimster, 40, a teacher's aide at Bentalou Elementary School, was found guilty Wednesday by a Criminal Court jury of conspiring and soliciting to have her husband, Robert A. Feimster, 40, a truck driver, murdered for $400.

Judge Robert Watts withheld sentence pending a motion for a new trial.

The couple lived in the 2400 block Parkington Ave. The murder plot was never carried out.

Jerome McArthur, 38, told the jury he met Mrs. Feimster as a passenger on his Baltimore transit bus She later told him she wanted her husband killed.

* * *

McArthur testified Mrs. Feimster gave him two pictures of her husband before she gave him the $400. McArthur met the defendant last January. On July 17, Mrs. Feimster gave McArthur, $400.

The witness stated he gave $200 to Hercules Williams and $200 to Eugene (Tank) Allen who agreed to murder the defendant's husband. Allen was arrested before the murder could take place.

* * *

Williams, 29, and Allen 31, were charged with the contract murder last July of Alonzo Alston, 5100 block Queensberry Ave. Allen is now serving a 20-year prison term for the murder of a tavern owner.

Williams' trial was scheduled to be heard last month in Criminal Court before Judge J. Gilbert Prendergast. It was removed on his request to Harford County.

* * *

Miss Opehlia Hunter, 22, was accused of paying the money to have her stepfather, Alonzo Alston killed. She won acquittal on April 4 in Criminal Court Judge Harry A. Cole stated that the state had failed to produce corroboration of the testimony of an accomplice.

* * *

In closing argument, Gerald Richman, Assistant State's Attorney told the jury," Jerome McArthur testified that he accompanied Mrs. Feimster to Reisterstown Road Plaza where she entered a bank and came out and gave him $400.

"McArthur said he received pictures from Mrs. Feimster prior to and before July 17. When Tank Allen was arrested for killing Alonzo Alston he had those two pictures.

"The pictures were passed so Tank and Her-

DEL. SCOTT CASE

Sedgewick refuses to be U.S. witness

The case of Maryland House of Delegates member James (Turk) Scott, charged with Federal narcotics violations has taken a new turn.

First, Charles F. (Piggy) Sedgewick, 30, charged as a co-conspirator, states through attorney, Robert G. Carr, that he has been so charged "because he refused to be a witness for the government."

3 more Federal dope indictments

U. S. Attorney George Beall said Thursday a Federal grand jury unsealed an indictment naming two men and a woman on drug charges.

The indictment was returned by a special Federal grand jury April 2 and was ordered sealed by the court until the defendants had been taken into custody.

Nowhere in the indictment is the name of Del. Turk Scott mentioned.

Indicted are Edward Lee Tucker, 44, Atlanta, Ga.; Miss Patricia Gilliam, 23, Decatur, Ga.; and Mark (Slim) Morgan, 42, 3000 block Dennison Rd. Morgan is at City Jail in lieu of $20,000 bail. The other two

Mandel pushes for his man as Human Rights director

Reliable sources at the State Human Relations Commission report Governor Mandel's choice for Treadwell Phillips' successor as executive director is the Commission's general counsel, Philip Tierney.

But, sources add, the majority of the five-commissioner committee, set up to recommend a successor to the Governor (who has final say), favors three other candidates.

* * *

Reportedly acting as the Governor's liaison in convincing the committee to change its mind is Jacob J. Edelman, recently appointed Commission chairman by Mandel.

The other members of the committee are Mrs. Lane K. Berk, Sampson Green, Alvin Blank and Mrs. Eloise Hall.

Treadwell Phillips resigned his post in February.

Out of 280 resumes received, the Committee chose to interview 24 candidates for executive director and finally reduced the list to three top choices.

* * *

They are Jerry H. Rich, 32, a business management consultant in Washington; Clifford A. Brown, 39, a communications specialist in D.C.; and Elbert L. A. Guillory, 28, a staff member with the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission.

Mr. Edelman refused to discuss with the AFRO the names of the people the committee is considering.

He did say the committee will have a special meeting on Saturday to be followed by an executive session of the Commission next Thursday.

Meat protest still on

Internal Revenue officers here have 24 agents on the street checking to see if markets and stores have meat ceiling prices posted.

Meantime, Mrs. Rubye Gill, coordinator of the inner city church and community protest against high cost of food, has announced plans for the next two weeks.

Spots for picketing and distribution of literature from 5 to 7 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday through Easter are:

A and P, Druid Park and Reisterstown, Tuesdays; Giant, 5900 Reisterstown Rd., Thursdays; Food-A-Rama, 2700 W. Coldspring, Tuesdays; A and P, 300 McMechen, Thursdays.

All citizens are urged to have meatless meals each Tuesday and Thursday until the effort reaches its goal of "sensible" prices.

Christ Seen As Super Star, Palm Sunday 1973

Thousands of Christians will follow tradition Palm Sunday to mark Christ's Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem over 1,900 years ago.

However, Palm Sunday '73 witnesses a new 'Jesus Movement,' a return to Christian teachings and Christ rising as a super star.

* * *

The rock and roll song, "I Knew Jesus Before He Was A Super Star" is No. 1 on the hit parade. The Broadway show, "Jesus Christ, Super Star," is breaking all records.

The weather man predicts ideal spring weather, maybe some April showers as Sunday opens Holy Week. Good Friday's sorrowing for Jesus' suffering on the Cross precedes Easter Sunday, April 22, the most joyous of all holidays.

Grand Jury dismisses Del. Conaway's charges

The Grand Jury for Baltimore County Circuit Court on Monday dismissed charges of larceny against the former wife of Delegate Frank Conaway, her parents, and a friend of her family.

The charges derived from a complaint by Del. Conaway that Mrs. Bernice Kelly Conaway (ex-wife), Mrs. Bernita Kelly (former mother-in-law), Raymond Kelly Sr., (former father-in-law) and James Brown on Feb. 3 allegedly removed furniture from his home on Clanford Rd. in Randallstown.

The case first went up before a County District Court judge in Pikesville, but the jurist declared the charges were too serious for his court.

The judge said the case should be sent to Circuit Court.

Del. Conaway, according to State Police records, originally tried to have troopers arrest his ex-wife and her family on Feb. 3 as they were moving furniture out.

But, police report, the trooper who arrived on the scene refused to make an arrest.

So, District Court records show, Del. Conaway went before a commissioner and had summons taken out against his ex-wife and family.

Sen. Mitchell's statement made by his attorneys

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

Marvin Garbis and Clarence M. Mitchell Jr., associate counsel representing State Senator Clarence Mitchell III, have released the following statement to the AFRO:

"Sen. Mitchell is charged with a misdemeanor under the income tax law of wilfully failing to file income tax returns.

"Needless to say the public wants to know his side of the story. He is eager to tell it.

"Because of the technical nature of this matter and the code of professional responsibility, we have advised Senator Mitchell to make no comment on his case at this time.

"The public has a right to know. The senator has a right to a fair trial. The courtroom is the place where both of these rights have the best chance to be satisfied."

* * *

Sen. Mitchell III is known throughout the country as a young, courageous, and highly effective leader.

His legislative record includes sponsoring the first state Public Accommodations Law, the Fair Employment Practices Bill of 1965, the Anti-Cross Burning Law of 1966, the Open Occupancy in Housing Bill in 1967, and the State Rent Escrow Law in 1968.

In all, he has sponsored or co-sponsored over 60 measures which are now state law.

When the nation was torn by riots after the 1968 assassination of Dr Martin Luther King, President Lyndon B. Johnson called him and other leaders to the White House and asked them to help restore domestic peace.

Sen. Mitchell returned to Baltimore, and, at the risk of personal safety, worked in the streets around the clock to save lives and property.

In 1962, when hoodlum elements in South Baltimore used violence to drive black children from the public Riverside Swimming Pool, he put on his bathing suit and led the children back in.

* * *

In the just completed session of the Maryland Legislature he helped get the ratification of the 15th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which gives black citizens the right to vote.

The Senator also led the fight to prevent Maryland from passing successful proposals to deny black and white children the right to have transportation to desegregated public schools.

Informed sources point out that the State Senator has paid income taxes each year through the withholding system.
