10 Young Artists Win At Pimlico

Students from Pimlico and Arlington Elementary schools carried off all of the honors in the art contest conducted at Pimlico Race Course held in cooperation with the Maryland Jockey Club.

Some 100 students from the third through sixth grades of schools in the Pimlico area participated in the contest after visiting the track stable area and attending morning workouts.

• • •

The prizes, donated by the Maryland Jockey Club, were awarded to the winners at the track on Wednesday. The prizes consisted of tape recorders, transistor portable radios and cameras.

• • •

First-place awards went to Joann Hairston, a third grade student from Arlington Elemetary; Brandon Faulkner, fourth grade, Pimlico Elementary; Darryl Barnett, fifth grade, Pimlico Elementary, and Bruce Bovard, sixth grade, Arlington Elementary.

Second place awards were won by Jerry Kowalow and James Greene, Arlington Elementary, and Richard Bryant, Pimlico Elementary.

• • •

The judges of the second such contest to be held and exhibited at Pimlico Race Course included Arnett Brown, principal of Alicia Crossland school; Niki Goss, art instructor at Cross Country Elementary school and Diane Heil, art instructor at Arlington.

NCCJ seminar on prison reform ends

Mrs. Alice Pinderhughes, director of the Model Early Childhood Learning Program, was presented with a citation of merit in the mayor's office Wednesday.

Mayor Schaefer proclaimed May 27 through June 2 Model Early Childhood Learning Program Week in Baltimore.

The program, initiated three years ago by Dr. Percy V. Williams, is designed to increase the academic capacity of children who are, supposedly, educationally deprived.

Like many federally funded programs, MECIP faces discontinuation at the end of the present fiscal year.

There is hope, however according to Mrs. Pinderhughes.

"Recently, our program was validated by a federal team of validators with a perfect score. Their job is to see if federally funded programs are doing what they said they would do."

Mrs. Pinderhughes also noted that since the program's inception, the average I.Q. of the students has risen 16 points.

Presently, the program accommodates 470 children and is staffed by 21 teachers, four masters, one program counsellor coordinator, and one curriculum developer.

Color 'em Orange

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The best color for hunters to wear in the woods is red, right?

Wrong, says the Texas Medical Association. Officials of the association say a hunter stands less chance of being mistaken for a quarry if he wears fluorescent orange.

Allen Mosley elected SGA vice president at Towson

Allen Dwight Mosley,22, has made history at Towson State College by becoming that predominantly-white institution's first elected black Student Government Association vice president.

In a run-off election held at the college May 4-5, Mr. Mosley defeated Miss Diane Viviani, a popular white dormitory student, by a vote tally of 823 to 621, or 57 per cent of the total votes cast.

In a previous election, Mosley edged out John Young, a white candidate from the Students for a Democratic Society (S.DS.)

• • •

A shrewd political candidate, Mr. Mosley realized at the outset that he needed substantial white support in order to win.

There are only 350 black students at Towson, meaning that if every one of them voted for him he still needed and got over 300 white votes.

He discussed his upset victory with the AFRO:

"It was difficult to accomplish, as, in an all-white institution, blacks are expected to really keep their grades up.

"In a white institution, only the upper echelon of blacks are supposed to run.

"If not, the white and black students will look down on you because you make other blacks coming in look bad."

• • •

His goal for the future he says "is to try to make the students part of the SGA.

"During the election, everyone puts up posters and discusses issues but it's all forgotten after the election.

"Getting them involved is going to be my main job."

The basic duty of the SGA vice president is to preside over the SGA senate, but Mr. Mosley also wants to help reduce the number of credits needed for graduation from the current 128 to 120, to bring Towson in line with other state colleges.

• • •

Mosley came to Towson three years ago and will graduate next year with a B.A. in sociology and a thematic major in black studies.

A member of TSC's Black Student Union (BSU) since 1970, he is also on its executive board and received strong Union support during his campaign.

He told the AFRO why he decided to run for the second highest SGA post:

"When I attended my first SGA senate meeting in my freshman year, I didn't understand what was going on.

"I decided to go to more meetings and find out what was really happening with out student funds and why it was that the BSU was having a hard time getting money.

"I liked representing students and I wanted to take an active part, so I decided to run."

• • •

He entered the SGA senate last September as an at-large member and announced his vice presidential candidacy earlier this year.

"People knew me from when I played basketball and baseball during my freshman year.

"I believed that if they came out and voted I'd win."

The new SGA president, Rich Danoff, is white, and the new treasurer, Ken Nelson, is black.

Mosley has moved swiftly to establish a good working relationship with them and says "We're getting together now.

"Ken and I have a very good relationship especially, as he's from my home town."

• • •

Mr. Mosley hails from Lanham, Md. in Prince George's County, son of Curley Mosley, a retired Navy chief petty officer for 20 years who is now a photographer for the U.S. Treasury Department in Washington, and Mrs. Naomi Mosley, housewife.

He has two brothers: Steven Mosley, 18, a senior at Duvall High School in Prince George's who will also go to TSC next year; and Phillip Mosley, 11, a pupil at Bowie Elementary.

His sister, Sheila, 20, works for the Government Employees Insurance Co. (GEICO) in Washington.

Mosley's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Austin, Washington, and his maternal grandparent is Mrs. Delsey Nickens, Nokesville, Va.

• • •

Mosley attended Our Lady of Victory Grade School, Portsmouth, Va.; Hart Junior High, Washington, from which he graduated in 1966, and Frank W. Ballou High School, Washington, graduating in 1969.

His campaign cost $10 and this was spent for posters, photos and handout sheets.

Mosley's major campaigner, he states, was his girlfriend, Miss Victoria Watkins, 21, 1970 valedictorian at Edmondson High School and a math major at Towson in her junior year.

His plans for the future include going to graduate school for sociology and political science and then residing in the Washington area.

Right now though, he says "I feel that everyone at Towson is watching to see how I do, from the president of the college to the average student."

Union wants OEO boss fired

WASHINGTON—(NBNS) The union representing most of the nation's federal anti-poverty workers want a federal judge to fire OEO Acting Director Howard J. Phillips.

In a petition filed with Judge William B. Jones, who ruled last month that the President had acted illegally in ordering the closing of the agency, the union asked that Phillips be fired or make sure he is prohibited from changing any programs or personnel policies.

Cockrell is named colonel

Paul J. Cockrell, Baltimore attorney, has been promoted to the permanent rank of lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Reserves and selected to serve as liaison officer in the Baltimore metropolitan area for the U.S. Military Academy Admissions Office at West Point, N.Y.

In a recent VIP tour of the West Point Military Academy, Col. Cockrell asked for and received permission to confer with some of the Cadets enrolled at the Academy from the Baltimore metropolitan area concerning life at the Academy.

Col. Cockrell told the AFRO: "An appointment to the U.S. Military Academy is the equivalent of a $57,000 scholarship.

"For the bright youngster who can qualify and who has an interest in obtaining a West Point nomination, there are several routes available.

"The traditional route is by Congressional appointment and interested youngsters between the ages of 17 and 22 of high moral character who are U.S. citizens and who have never been married are urged to initially apply through their respective Congressman or U.S. Senator.

"In addition, the applicant should contact the West Point admissions office, preferably during his junior year of high school, and ask that a candidate's file be established for him at the Academy.

"This way, the Academy can monitor the progress of his application and assist him in enhancing his chances of ultimately receiving an appointment to the Academy."

Ala. bank readies stock sale, opening

MONGOMERY, Ala. — United Memorial Bank is expecting authorization of a stock sale by the comptroller of the currency, according to Perone Gray, its interim board chairman.

The bank, Alabama's first, will open about June 1 in a trailer at Cleveland and Fairview Avenues, Gray said, pending construction of a building.

One of its purposes, the interim chairman said, is to form a base to meet the economic needs of the community. This is the only Montgomery bank with black board members, Gray said.

Other directors are Sam C. Cook, and Leon McClain, Mrs. Catherine W. Caswell, Garfield Richardson, Frank Taylor, Dave Bradford, Peter M. Shine, the Rev. E. W. McKinney and Thomas Campbell.

17 students graduate from insurance course

Seventeen high school students from Baltimore City College, Patterson and Northern High Schools and the Neighborhood Youth Corps graduated May 11 in a brief ceremony at the Maryland Casualty Co., 40th St. and Keswick.

The students had just completed a course sponsored jointly by Maryland Casualty and Calvert Fire Insurance Co.

On hand to celebrate their graduation were Dr. Roland N. Patterson, Baltimore City public schools superintendent; Quentin Lawson, educational aide to Mayor Schaefer; and Thomas Hatem, state insurance commissioner.

Also present were Earl Koger, Sr., an insurance executive for over 35 years, and Del. Frank M. Conaway (D. 4th.) also a successful insurance man.

• • •

"You've begun a new aventue, the first casualty course participated in by high school students.

"You must come to grips with the fact this is only the beginning.

"The whole insurance field is open to you and you can become presidents of these companies or of your own.

"You'll need hard work to become leaders in the society in which you will exist and I will not."

• • •

Mr. Lawson stated "I wish you great success on your graduation."

Mr. Hatem said "You have been diligent and faithfull students, and I wish you all success."

The Rev. Sidney Daniels, Ministerial Alliance, told the students "You deserve congratulations all around.

You have proved there's hope for America across racial barriers and that the solution to our problems is to get together with men of good will like this.

"You have the determination to hew out your own opportunities and I know you will."

• • •

Other officials present who were instrumental in getting up the course along with the Rev. Mr. Daniels included Mrs. Shirley Andoniades, coordinator, division of guidance and placement, Baltimore City public schools; and Fillmore Dryden, State Department of Insurance.

The 17 honored graduates are :Steve Spencer, Neighborhood Youth Corps; Leon and Lee Patterson, High; and Allen Lee, Northern High.

Also City College students Wiley Barnes, Marcus McKay, Albert Alston, Lawrence Tate, Rodney Pennett, Rodney Pegtler, Demetrius Lewis, Charles Dowkins, Ricardo Tyson, Winslow Holman and Wright Williams.
