KISS THE CURATOR—A traditional ceremony at the Third World Museum with the ending of the Children's Hour session, is placing a kiss on the right cheek of the museum's curator, Berkeley S. Thompson. The museum's Prepartory School Creative Workshop, "The Children's Hour," is in its third year. This fall's program is open for registration. Please contact Ms. Hattie-Jean Richardson at 243-9600. Enjoying the excitement above are: from left, Lisa Allen, Angelia Williams, Mr. Thompson, Bernadette Johnson, Carolyn Thomas, Shelia Fortson and Egypt, the dog.

Third World graduates young artists

By Brenda J. Wright

"We mean many things to many people," is a motto of the Third World Museum, Baltimore's only black arts museum.

To the city's youth, the museum means learning, happiness, improvement and an expansion of knowledge and artistic abilities.

The Third World Museum, located at 1767 Carswell St., through its Children's Hour program, is providing creative leadership and instruction for youngsters in various areas of art.

During the past two years, children have visited the museum for art sessions conducted in the yard and studios of the three-story museum.

The most recent class, which began June 1, held its graduation last week. Receiving certificates were 27 youngsters who had produced over 200 pieces of artwork.

The young artists displayed, to parents and friends, paintings, sculpture, mobiles and jewelry, each piece showing imagination and creativity. The children created art from commonly found objects like paper clips, string and scrap wood.

"The basic things are there—the children's ambition," Berkeley Thompson, the museum's director, told the parents.

Saying the children had worked hard, Frank Richardson, headmaster of Children's Hour, added that they were "creative and disciplined" artists.

Graduates of the June session were: Celeria Moore, 15; Laurie Burton, 9; Jane Gould, 12; Darryl Thompson, 7; Ramona Robinson, 8; Andre Robinson, 7; Celestine Branch, 9; Aretha Thompson, 10; Kimberley Bright, 9; Wanda Daramus, 10; and Angela Gilliam, 10.

Others were: Kevin Gilliam, George Richardson, 12; Cornell Horne, 11; Keith Walker, 14; Donna Owens, 7; Veronica Gilliam, 7; Anita Perez, 10; Liza Thompson, 9; Fernando Perez, Michele Goodman, 9; Myra Brown, 10; Shalonda Parker, 7; Ronald W. Parker, 5; Roger Ross, 12; Michael Marsh, 12; and Kimberly Fuller, 9.

Also on the museum's staff and involved with the Children's Hour are Ms. Hattie Richardson, museum administrator and Children's Hour Coordinator, and Miss Lenora Robinson, assistant instructor.

In an effort to expand their services to the community, the museum's staff is planning a tour exhibition in Columbia, Md., Washington and the Baltimore area. The staff is also developing learning programs involving African ballet, dramatics, music, poetry and writing.

The public may visit the museum, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., at a charge of $1 per person.

You will be sneezing again

Johns Hopkins Hospital allergy clinic reports show the sneezing season, which is now here, is going to get worse before it gets better.

A spokesman told the AFRO ragweed pollen, which seems to affect more people than any other, is in the air now and as a result of the current hot weather, the pollen is very close to the ground.

He said by Monday and Tuesday the amount of grains per square centimeter on each of those two days was 600, but, he added, "this will rise to over 1,120 grains each day by Friday."

He said the count usually increases in increments of about 100 grains per day. According to the spokesman last Thursday's light breeze sent the reading up by more than 300 points from reading of 801.

Calvert St. Minimum qualifications are graduation from a university or college of recognized standing and five years of personnel and training experience provided that a master's degree in personnel administration, public administration, or adult education may be substituted for one year of the experience requirement.

Blind home gets $2,500 to pay bills

By Pam Widgeon

"I want to thank everyone who has come to my rescue. I have paid the gas and electric bill and the oil bill. I have not completely paid off the Hilltop Beef. So many people made it possible for me to pay these bills."

Mrs. Ann Mae Hunter, founder of the Anna Mae Hunter Home for the Blind was telling the AFRO about the people who have sent her money to pay off her bills.

Two weeks ago, Mrs. Hunter called the AFRO and asked for help because she was about to lose her home because of her unpaid bills.

Since the AFRO printed her story, she has received $2,500 and states she is "very grateful."

Man gets 63 years for shooting at police

There were 10 security guards stationed in Criminal Court part one on Tuesday when Judge William J. O'Donnell imposed a 63-year prison sentence on Nathaniel Johnson Jr. 26, 300 block Hilchester Ave.

Johnson was convicted for disarming Sgt. Norman Anderson of Northern district while he was seated in a police car on April 30, 1972.

According to court records, the defendant held a gun against the officer's head. He also took his gun and pushed him against the car.

Officer Anderson managed to get aid from two other police. Johnson struck several times in the lower portion of his body and finally surrendered his gun.

Judge O'Donnell told the court Johnson is a "Menace to society because of his anti-social aggressive and irresponsible behavior." Court records state Johnson had been involved in 23 other criminal charges since 1953.

3 wanted in bar owner's death

Police are looking for three youths who last Saturday shot and killed a West Baltimore tavern owner during a holdup of the Oxford Tavern in the 1700 block W. North Ave.

Police reports show Curtis Baskerville, 1700 block W. North Ave., shot three times, was pronounced dead on the scene.

According to police three persons apprehended soon after the 9:35 p.m. shooting were released after interrogation.

Police records show three persons entered the bar shortly before 9:35 p.m. and ordered some drinks. When the barmaid served them one pulled out an unknown revolver and ordered the maid to fill the bag.

A fight ensued between the men and the bar owner when the three were about to leave the scene. In the struggle the tavern owner was shot.

Miss Shearin weds Carl Jones II

Amist a lovely floral setting in Saint Joseph's Monastery Church in Baltimore, Miss Nadine Diana Shearin became the wife of Carl Jones II of Hyattsville, Md. last Saturday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew J. Shearin, the bride is a graduate of Western High School and Morgan State College where she received her B.S. degree. She is also a member of the Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones Sr. of Reed St. in North Englewood, Md. He is a graduate of Morgan State College and attended Federal City College and Howard University Graduate School.

What She Wore

Given by her father, the ceremony was officiated by Father Paul Chenot. The bride was lovely attired in a white empire-line gown with a high neck, long sleeves and a cathedral-length train. The gown was overlayed in chantilly lace embroidered about the bodice, skirt and train.

Organza ruffles trimmed the neck, wrist, front seams, hem and train. A white satin sash tied in a bow in the back. White pearls and glass beads embroidered in beautiful patterns on the bodice and skirt. She wore a headpiece of Chantilly lace and pearls with a series of white satin loops forming a bow. Her bouquet was of white orchids and roses with ribbon streamers.

Wedding Party

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jacqueline Johnson and maid of honor, Miss Irma Gorham, Patterson N. J. Bridesmaids were: Misses Camille Jones, sister of the bridegroom; Rhonda Webster and Rebecca D. Brown, cousins of the bride and Mrs. Victoria Jones, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

They wore gowns of violet crepe with empire waistlines and high necks. The gowns were long sleeved with crepe ruffled trim at the neck, bodice and wrist of the gown. Short violet veils with crepe bows and matching slippers and carried a bouquets of yellow flowers.

The matron and maid of honor carried bouquets of white and violet flowers.

Flower girls, Kimberly Maria Shearin, sister of the bride, of Sacramento, Calif. and Marchell Moore were attired in gowns of pale violet with high necks, empire waists, long sleeves and a bow in the back. These gowns were overlayed in white organza which complimented their headpieces of "Juliet-style" with ribbons and pearls.

Best man was Maurice Wooden and ushers were Wayne Shearin, brother of the bride; Russell Wilmore, Barrington Jones, brother of the bridegroom and Sylvester Miless, Ringbearer was Elmer Johnson II.

Musical renditions for this ceremony were provided by Sylvia Young, organist and James Reynold, soloist.

Their Reception

Feted by over 200 guests including those out-of-towners from California, Virginia, Washington, New Jeseyr, Philadelphia, New York and North Carolina the guests gathered in the lower church auditorium to shower the couple with well-wishes.

Honeymooning in Atlanta, Ga. the couple will make their home in Owings Mills, Md.

Townsfolk Are At It Again; A Bevy Of Things Going On

BY MARIE MURPHY PHILLIPS COOKE
AFRO Women's Editor

Summer, winter, spring and fall, Baltimore townsfolk do it all . . . a bit corny, but it's true. The long, smelting summer months didn't stop this city's dwellers from doing what they do best . . . PARTY. Now, parties don't have to be the usual finger-snapping, open bar-type, they can include debutante and anniversary parties.

Like a couple of Sundays ago when Dr. and Mrs. Otis D. Froe welcomed some 150 guests at their Ivy Avenue home to meet their daughter Lynne.

Many of the guests hadn't see her since she was a youngster and couldn't believe their eyes. She's quite a young lady, charming and pretty and all grown up.

Miss Froe was presented by Dr. Theodore C. Patterson at this year's Me-De-So Cotillion and is a sophomore at Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn.

The threesome greeted their guests on their spacious Morgan Park lawn where Mrs. Froe was frocked in a bright summer print gown which blended beautifully with natural background of colorful flowers and green grass.

Lynne chose to wear her debutane gown of yards and yards of white accented with lace, while Dr. Froe was handsome in a summer tuxedo.

50 Years for Newtons

Speaking of parties, the Fred Newtons of Turner Station were the guests of honor at an anniversary party given at St. Matthews Methodist Church last Saturday. It was the couple's golden wedding anniversary and nearly 300 well-wishers came out in the 95 degree heat to help celebrate their big day.

Guests tried not to think about the heat after they entered the church and saw Mrs. Barbara Newton, lovely in a gown of pink chiffon nightlighted with white seeded pearls and Mr. Newton in his black tuxedo.

Following the renewing of marriage vows, the Rev. Chester A. McDonald, pastor of Maple Spring Baptist Church in Washington, D.C. paid special tribute to the couple. Guests were served dinner by the dozens of hostesses. Mrs. Geneva Graves served as Miss Lynn Pamela Froe, 1973 Me-De-So debutante, is shown here with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Otis Froe, at a recent reception given in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newton celebrated their golden anniversary with the renewing of marriage vows last Saturday at the American Legion Hall in Dundalk. The Rev. Leslie A. Dyson, pastor of St. Matthews United Methodist Church officiated at the ceremony. Following the service, the couple hosted a sit down dinner where Mrs. Geneva Graves served as toastmistress.

Miss Carter Weds Mr. Phillips

Pretty Miss Wanda Elaine Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Long of Wrights Rd., Hanover, Md. recently spoke her wedding vows to Gregory Phillips, son of Sgt. First Class and Mrs. Jimmy Phillips of Watts Rd., Hanover, Md. at the St. Marks United Methodist Church.

After honeymooning in Virginia the newlyweds will make their home at the Americana Woodside Apartments, Hanover.

Columbia Capers

for and about Women

By Pinnie Ross

Cocktails, music, food and conversation provided the social gaiety at Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gant's beautiful home in the Birches last week. Entertaining with enthusiasm to make her evening as relaxing and entertaining as possible for her guest, was pretty Mrs. Eloise Gant.

The charming Mrs. Gant received her 75 guests in a brilliant yellow pantsuit, adding to the scene were many other pantsuits, long dresses, cocktail dresses were seen.

Hostesses for the evening were the Gant's daughter, Cathy and Rae Ross, University of Maryland and Adelphin University students.

Black people are really going into business in Columbia. Speaking of black business, a new realty company has been organized known as the Gant and Hayes Realtors, that's Eloise and Joe Gant and "Al" and Connie Hayes. These beautiful people will give you service in sales, rental, property management, all kinds of insurance, appraisals, custom building, and even legal services. You must know that Joseph Gant was the first black to be admitted to the Howard County Board of Realtors, and was the first of his race to have part-ownership in a realty company in Howard County. Blacks are "doing it" not only in Howard County, but also across the country as well.

Holiday Notes

The Forest Study League sponsored a month-long trip to Europe. Taking advantage of the tour were Phil Scott, Debbie Wiggins, Aderion Harris, and cute Donna Hill.

Travel Notes

Cathy Harris, second runnerup in the Howard County Miss Black Teenage Pagent, vacationed in Tampa, Fla. and visited Disney Land while there. Terrie Hill, sister of Donna Hill, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hill (Ethel) spent her vacation in New York and then to further her skills in basketball, she attended basketball camp there. Cute Tamia Webb, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Webb (Ozella) spent three weeks in Europe and three days in Berlin. Her fabious trip was sponsored by The Children's International Summer Villages.

Prior to going to Europe, Tamia took private lessons in Germany, she frequently used it especially on shopping trips. Dr. and Mrs. Webb have memberships in the International Summer Village. Tamia is in the Jr. group while her brothers Harvey and Hoyt are in the young group.

Dr. and Mrs. Hubert G. Skinner (Janice) spent eight days in London, Mrs. Skinner said "the trip was antastic." The Skinner's stopped off to the Medical Convention in New York, before departing for London.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren R. Jones (Iris) of Bryant Woods, spent one week in Atlanta, Ga. According to Mrs. Jones it was "out-of-sight."

Vacationing in the Bahamas were three lovely ladies, Mrs. Barbara Sands, Mrs. Mabel Hill, and Columbia Association's Commercial Operation Aide, Mrs. Barbara Barnes.

Cuff note: There have been many comments concerning the services in the Bahamas. The islands are in the tropical one and therefore the living is mighty easy. The place is leisurely, the people are very warm and friendly. Sometimes you'll find the service a bit unhurried and relaxed for a moment. If you'll make an effort to know them, you will be surprised how quickly they get to like you, and your service will hurry very quickly (try it!).

Mrs. William E. Wade (Lula) and son Michael spent a week in Tampa, and also visited Disney World. The Wade's oldest son, William Rodney, is a junior at A and T College, and a member of the R.O.T.C. He attended summer camp this year and won the Vice Commander's Award. Having demonstrated achievement in all aspects of Air Force R.O.T.C. Field Training, he was selected as one of the outstanding individuals of Flight 11, (cuff note) congratulations to the Wade family.

Another visit this summer to Europe was made by Dr. and Mrs. Lennard Simmons and family (Mattie). The Simmonses spent 18 days visiting various countries, they flew into Frankfurt, Germany, visited Stutgart, and Paris, and Rome. Mrs. Simmons is the newly-elected president of the Columbia Chapter of Jack and Jill.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Toomer (Jean) spent ten days in Boston, N.C. and Fla.

Visiting the New City was Mrs. Ruby Bailey from Jamica, N.Y. She was the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Blake (Hutcena). Col. and Mrs. Daniel Lanier were house visiting with Dr. and Mrs. Lennard Simmons. The Lanier's are from Europe.

Pretty Miss Toney Collins, a beautiful Administrative recruiter for Eastern Air Lines was guest of this writer Labor Day. Miss Collins expressed her concern about the lack of responsiveness on the part of blacks across the country to employment opportunities available in the airlines industry. These opportunities include in-flight service, passengers services, administrative services, air craft and ground maintenances and pilot's. She further expressed that stringent educational and experience requirements are not to be considered as deterrents in applying for certain positions. She encourages blacks to apply for positions in the airline industry.
