LA-DE-DAH, IT'S AUTUMN — The final days of summer spread over into early Fall in late September. Many Baltimoreans like Curt Gibson and Miss Hazel Johnson find a sunny afternoon in the park a sort of farewell to the year's most delightful season.

Donor of A.A. century-old school land to be honored

Rock Point Elementary School in Anne Arundel County will be celebrating its 100th anniversary in January, 1974. According to records the foundation of the school was laid Jan. 23, 1874.

The land on which the school stands was donated by Greenbury Johnson, a black man, to the School Commissioners of Anne Arundel County.

He first expressed his desire to donate the land in 1873, however, before the deed could be completed he died. Activities are being planned to honor his memory.

Records show Greenbury Johnson, a colored man, late of Anne Arundel County, promoted a generous desire to further the educational interest of his race did convenant to convey to the School Commissioners of Anne Arundel County a part of a certain tract or parcel of land called 'Hickory Ridge.'

"The condition of the covenant is that school house should be built upon it, that condition has been substantially complied with, but while the house was being built the said Johnson died suddenly without completing the instrument of the convenant."

The records reveal the heirs of Johnson signed the convenant for the expressed wishes of the dead man to be fulfilled.

Charles Mann, 1000 block Rutland Ave., Baltimore, the great-great-grandson of Mr. Johnson, told the AFRO the name of the land has since been charged from Hickory Ridge to Rock Point. He said two schools were built upon the land, one for whites and the other for blacks.

Mr. Manns stated his great - great - grandfather owned several land; some of which were held by the family until recently they were sold.

Five projects get federal support

Federal approval and funding have been granted for five institutional projects which will give skill training to 96 unemployed or underemployed individuals in five Maryland communities, according to an announcement made by David T. Mason, Secretary of Employment and Social Services for the State of Maryland.

James N. Phillips, acting executive director, Employment Security Administration, explained that the training courses, under the provisions of the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act (MDTA), include licensed practical nurse courses accommodating 20 trainees each in Bel Air, Frederick, Hyattsville and Wheaton, and a certified laboratory assistant course for 18 in Salisbury.

The total cost of the projects amounts to $342,315, with the Federal Government contributing $490,654 and the State of Maryland the balance of $21,461.

According to Federal MDTA provisions, instruction for such programs is provided by local departments of vocational education.

The Employment Service Division of the Department of Employment and Social Services develops the need for training projects, recruits and selects the trainees, and has the responsibility of finding jobs for trainees upon the satisfactory completion of an MDTA course.

A GOOD CITIZEN is registered and prepared to VOTE. Do so TODAY at Supervisors of Elections, People's Court Building, Fayette and Gay Sts. Next election is Sept., 1974. Register from — 8:30 to 4:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

PRESTON H. WINKLER

Ex-Morgan instructor made dean

Preston H. Winkler, a native of Baltimore, has been appointed assistant dean of the college at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa.

Winkler received early education in the Baltimore public school. He was graduated from Baltimore City College in 1963 and earned a B.A. degree in 1967 and a M.S. degree in 1971 at Morgan State College.

He has specialized in the study of American and Afro-American history.

Before joining Gettysburg College, Winkler was a research assistant at the University of Pennsylvania and an instructor in the U.S. Army in Vietnam.

He served in two teaching assignments at Morgan, the most recent as instructor in history in the college's Center for Continuing Education from 1971-73.

He was also a guest lecturer on Black History at St. Bernard's Catholic School, Baltimore.

Winkler married Miss Gloria C. Dush, formerly of Orangeburg, S.C. Aug. 25, 1973.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Preston J. Winkler of 1513 East Biddle St. of Baltimore.

Gettysburg College is a co-educational, liberal arts institution of about 1,900 students and is located in historic Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

Court upholds Del. Boswell's demotion

Demotion of Delegate Hildagardeis Boswell (Dem. Baltimore) by the State Human Relations Commission was ruled justified by a Baltimore City Court Thursday.

Judge Joseph L. Carter originally voided the demotion in a July hearing on the grounds that the Commission's records did not include the approval of the demotion by state personnel secretary.

But in Thursday's hearing he upheld, after studying the records, that there was "ample evidence" for the disciplinary action. This ruling followed a testimony by the state personnel secretary, Henry G. Bosz, that he approved the demotion.

Miss Boswell was demoted and temporarily dismissed last year for making $50 worth of personal phone calls at state expense.

Miss Boswell was reinstated in the departmental hearing on the condition that she accepted demotion of two grades. She accepted and resumed work with Commission but she appealed the departmental decision in the Baltimore City Court.

Leatherbury 1973 best blind worker

William Leatherbury, 2515 Quantico Ave., has been selected as Maryland's "blind worker of the year" by Blind Industries and Services of Maryland for his broad capabilities in the fields of assembly, packaging, machine operation, and his ability to efficiently work at high levels of production.

Leatherbury, who is 35 years-old, is a native of the lower Eastern Shore near Rehoboth, Md. He was born with cataracts on both eyes, and at age five surgery was performed but his sight never improved beyond the limits of legal blindness.

One of ten children, William Leatherbury received his elementary school education at Tendley's Chapel School and then attended Somerset High at Princess Anne.

On the recommendation of George Keller, director of services to the blind in the Maryland Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, William Leatherbury came to Baltimore in January of 1958 to accept training and employment at the then Maryland Workshop for the Blind in southwest Baltimore.

Chair caning was his first specialty. Then William Leatherbury began operating industrial machines and became one of Maryland's most proficient producers of set up shipping cartons and operators of stitching machines.

For the past ten years, William Leatherbury has been married to the former Clara Baker, of Baltimore. They have no children, but are active members of their church.

Hampton headlines City Fair

Lionel Hampton returns to Baltimore on Saturday, Sept. 22 to headline the Baltimore city Fair's evening entertainment schedule.

Appearing on the Fair's main staging area, a 50' x 100' foot barge moored to the bulkhead west on Constellation Dock, the 60-year old maestro will lead his famous "Inner Circle".

Sharing the bill with Hampton will be "New York City," a contemporary recording group, and singer Jodie Myer.

The concert begins at 7 p.m. sponsored by the National Brewing Company.

Lionel Hampton got his first big show-business break in Los Angeles on a hot August night when Benny Goodman dropped by a club in which the fifteen-year-old Hampton was playing.

Goodman was so impressed by the youngster that he invited Hampton to record with his trio which also included Gene Krupa and Teddy Wilson. That was the start of the Benny Goodman Quartet and nearly five decades of Hampton-style music.

AFRO AT PRESS CONFERENCE

Mandel Sees Police Hiring Success

By Claudette Newson

ANNAPOLIS — Even though only 449 black policemen are employed by the Baltimore City Police Department out of a total of 3,379, Gov. Marvin Mandel said Thursday he thinks the Baltimore City Police commissioner has a "successful program."

Specifically, Mandel asserted:

"I think if you examine what has been done in the Baltimore City Police Department, I think you'll find they have a remarkable, successful program in encouraging blacks to join the Baltimore City Police Department."

The state's chief executive, who appoints the city police commissioner, made this statement at his weekly press conference in answer to a question from the AFRO's new political writer, Miss Claudette Newson.

The question pointed out the disparity between the numbers of black police employes and the city population, which is half black, and also called the governor's attention to a two-year study by the National Advisory Committee, which was made at a cost of over $1 million.

* * *

In its report, the commission recommended "... that every police agency that has racial or minority groups of significant size in its jurisdiction insure that the needs of minorities are actively considered in the establishment of police service.

"Affirmative action should be taken to achieve a proportion of minority group employes in an agency that is an approximate proportion of their numbers in the population," the report urged.

* * *

Gov. Mandel was asked, "Have you or do you intend to request Baltimore City Police commissioner to take appropriate steps to raise the number of blacks?"

The chief executive's "remarkable success" statement came at this point.

Gov. Mandel further described Commissioner Pomerleau's recruitment program as "very vigorous" and said, "as far as the state police are concerned, they also have a very vigorous program."

The effectiveness of the program is left to debate however in light of the federal report and police department figures, 449 blacks out of a total of 3,379, and only 26 officers out of a total of 517.

* * *

Black residents in Baltimore are half of the population, but just 13 per cent of the policemen are black, according to figures provided by the department itself this summer.

Police Commissioner Pomerleau, in a previous interview, told the AFRO it was his view that he had "taken care" of the black population in assignment and promotion of officers.

The figures, however, show no black lieutenant colonel out of 4, 3 black majors out of 16, 7 black captains out of 18, 4 black lieutenants out of 99 and 16 black sergeants out of 380. All the rest are patrolmen or women.

Other matters discussed at the conference included charges brought by state Sen. George Synder, possible Mandel opponent next year, that a member of the Mandel staff was attempting to smear him.

However the governor indicated, as he has in the past, that there is no animosity on his part toward Synder.

When asked whether the probability of a higher than expected school building debt would jeopardize his intentions not to raise taxes next year, the governor said that the debt had been included in tabulations for both this year and the next and that he could state "very clearly" that there will be no tax increase.

Concerning Sen. Carence Mitchell's statements of several months ago that the governor had helped him obtain financing, Mandel said that several years ago, as he recalled, Sen. Mitchell was having difficulty obtaining a mortgage loan and he referred him to a savings and loan, which might have been able to help him, but which turned him down

1926 Model T Carries Pastor On Mission

By Pam Widgeon

The Rev. Lloyd A. Burrus, pastor of Zion Temple Baptist Church, Richmond Hill, Long Island, N.Y., drove his 1926 Model T Ford to Baltimore Wednesday.

While in the city, the 52-year-old pastor made the AFRO a stopover on a missionary tour across the nation.

The Rev. Mr. Burrus began the transcontinental trip July 22 and is due back in New York Oct. 1.

The purpose of the trip which is being sponsored by the Missionary Society of his church is "to organize a forum of racial and ethnic groups as a means of preventing further polarization and depravity of the American society."

* * *

During four months travel, he has driven through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Mississippi, Virginia, Washington and Philadelphia.

The Rev. Mr. Burrus said he is using his Model T car to help attract listeners.

He stated, "It was a horrifying experience when I had to sleep in my car in Arizona in the desert. The car broken down. I usually stay at a hotel or at a friend's home."

* * *

He was a classmate of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., at Crozer Theological Seminary in 1949.

Born in Hyde County, N.C. the Rev. Mr. Burrus has one daughter, Miss Felice Burris. His wife is deceased.

He recently received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Shaw University, his alma mater, for contributions to the black Baptist Church.

He earned a Bachelor's Degree from Shaw University in 1945 and received a Bachelor of Divinity from Crozer Theological Seminary in 1949. He has also studied at McGill University and earned his Master of Divinity degree from Colgate Rochester Center for theological studies.

* * *

The Rev. Mr. Burris received an award from the Philadelphia AFRO-AMERICAN Newspaper in 1952. He is a member of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, member of the World Baptist Alliance. He has visited North and South America, Europe, Asia and Hawaii.

The Rev. Mr. Burrus' hobby is collecting and restoring antique cars.

He has a 1923 TT truck; a 1955 Thunderbird, 1929 Model A Ford; 1930 Ford; 1933 Royal Eight Chrysler and a 1963 coupe.

For the trip across the nation, he told the AFRO "It cost me $5,000 to prepare my Model T car.

He calls his car "The Spirit of 76" because he said, he hopes to "get this going by 1976"; He also has plans to write a book.

When he left the AFRO, he stated he planned to visit two of his former classmates, the Rev. Harold A. Carter pastor of New Shiloh Baptist and the Rev. Marcus Wood, pastor of Providence Baptist.

As he drove off in his 1926 black Ford, the crowd standing around was engrossed in reading the sign that hangs on the back of the car, "When this 1926 Ford was made, American's loved God, had good manners and we had safe streets."

(former Miss Carolyn Boles)

Miss Boles-Mr. Hendricks Wed In Beautiful Floral Setting

Miss Carolyn Boles, daughter of Mrs. Dolly B. Barrow and Alfred Boles, both of Baltimore recently spoke her wedding vows to George Ronald Hendricks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hendricks (Annie) of Pressman St., in the beautiful floral setting of the Sweet Hope Freewill Baptist Church in Baltimore.

In double ring ceremonies officiated by the Rev. John T. Crumedy musical renditions were provided by Mrs. Bessie Smith, organist; Mrs. Ruby Smith and Mrs. Elsie Myers, soloists. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Blanche Sterrett, aunt of the bride.

What She Wore

For her wedding the bride chose to wear a gown of eggshell color with a mayflower trimming. Her veil was made of white nylon with a raised velvet design. She carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations and small mums. The bride's attire was made and designed especially for her by Mrs Yvonne Moody.

Wedding Party

Matron of honor, Mrs. Janice Harrison and maid of honor, Miss Yvonne Dunbar of Washington wore gowns of polyester knit and carried bouquets of carnations sprayed to match their gowns of peach and light blue.

Bridesmaids Mesdames, Viola Jones, Shirley Burke, Patricia Jessup, Deborah Hendricks, Beaulah Beverly and Misses Barbara Sterrett, Rose Richardson, Washington and Beverly Barno, Washington wore A-lined gowns of rainbow colors in yellow, pink, green, and lavender. They carried floral bouquets to match their gowns.

Flower girls were LaShawn Williams and Cynthia Taylor attired in peach dresses with white satin ribbons and carrying baskets of petals.

Ushers were Bernard Boles, Jerry Reeder, Jerome Hendricks, Carlton Hendricks, Larry Hendricks, James Hendricks, Raymond Murray, Laverne Gunther and Billy Dunson. Ringbearer was Master Aaron E. Harrison.

Best man was Freddie Hendricks.

Bride's Mother

Fashionably clad was Mrs. Dolly Barrow, the bride's mother, dressed in a floor-length gown of pink trimmed in a floral print with matching turban. She wore an orchid corsage. Her dress was designed and made by Mrs. Faye Cheeseburo.

Bridegroom's Mother

Elegant was the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Annie Hendricks in a floor-length light blue gown with matching accessories. Her corsage was a white cymbidium orchid.

In a lavish buffet-style sit down dinner reception the newlyweds were feted by over 400 guests who showered them with gifts.

Bishop Golphin unites Baltimore couple

In a lovely floral setting in the New Galilee Church of God and Christ Jesus, Inc., in Baltimore, Bishop M. Ledge Golphin united Miss Jittaun Meevan Newby and Samuel Joseph Burgess in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Columbus Newby Sr. of Elderon Ave. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Burgess.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was pretty in a white silk organza gown which featured a scalloped neckline. The bodice of silk organza was trimmed in lace and pearls. A fingertip veil studded with seed pearls served as her headpiece. She carried a bouquet of baby's breath with long satin streamers.

Miss Angela Jones served as the bride's head attendant. Her gown of hot pink polyester crepe was complemented with a bouquet of carnations tied with yards of hot pink satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were: Misses Elaine Burgess, sister of the bridegroom; Grace Bradley, Wanda Thornton and Janice Thomas, all of Baltimore. Their gowns, of various pastel shades, were identical to the maid of honor's.

Little Gill St. John was the flower girl. She, too, wore a floor-length dress of hot pink. She carried a basket filled with freshly-cut summer flowers.

The head male attendant was Ronald G. Bolden, the bridegroom's cousin. Ushers were: Myles Moore, Calvin C. Williams Jr., Rajah L. Dorsey and Philip Jackson, all of Baltimore. Little Alvin L. Hill was the ring bearer.

Following the ceremony the couple greeted their guests in the Student Union Building located on the Coppin State College campus. Some 300 well-wishers helped themselves to tasty finger foods while they were entertained by Baltimore's Theories of Reality.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Burgess are graduates of Northwestern High School. Mr. Burgess works as a teletype operater at Peterson Howell and Heather, Inc. They are now making their home in Reisterstown, Md.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Kelvin Newby, Columbia, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fotton, Philadelphia, Pa. and Mrs. Mattie Bucker, Philadelphia.
