CHARLES BURMAN stands on his porch in the 3600 block Burmont Ave. AFRO photo by Roman Hankewycz shows the electric gate that the police jumped over in order to enter his home last Saturday.

Baltimore Afro American

28 NOVEMBER 16, 1974

Charles Burman upset over sons being arrested

Charles Robert Burman Sr. seemed a little upset last Tuesday when the AFRO visited his plush Randallstown home.

The reason was he said, "I did not mind them (police) locking me up. It was my boys. They don't know anything."

Mr. Burman told the AFRO he and his two sons, Charles Jr., 19, and Michael Burman, 18, were awakened around 7 a.m., Nov. 9, when city, state and Baltimore County police conducted a narcotics raid at his home in the 3600 block Burmont Ave.

The Burmans are scheduled for preliminary hearing on Nov. 29 at Western District. Mr. Burman was released on $30,000 bail, and his two sons were released on $5,000 bail.

Mr. Burman is the owner of Burman's Records a recording-firm and CWG Roofing Company, 3700 block Winterbourne Ave.

* * *

The Burmans are charged with possession with intent to distribute as well as conspiracy to violate state narcotic laws.

Mr. Burman Sr. is also charged with maintaining a nuisance house in the 600 block E. 36th St. at the Caro Tavern which he allegedly owns.

According to the state police, the alleged heroin was kept at the Caro Tavern.

Ms. Carolyn M. Gray, 35, was arrested and charged with keeping and maintaining a nuisance house at the East 36th St. Caro Tavern.

Police state she is the holder of the tavern license. According to police, they recovered $10,000 worth of suspected heroin during investigation.

* * *

Also arrested on Saturday were Elmer J. Gross, 38, 3600 block W. Belvedere Ave. He was charged with possession with intent to distribute heroin, possession of heroin and conspiracy.

Police say they conducted an unsuccessful raid at the home of Edward L. McClain, 34, 1700 block Ashburton St. He surrendered at police headquarters, and is charged with conspiracy to distribute heroin.

White frat members held following death of pledge

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI) — The first black pledge of a college fraternity died during initiation hazing. Seven fraternity members have been charged with manslaughter.

William Flowers, 19, of Neptune, N.J., and four other pledges, were ordered to dig mock graves in sand, and had to lie down in their graves as part of the pledge. Flowers suffocated when the walls of his six-foot-deep "grave" collapsed, police said.

Authorities said fraternity members tried to pull him out feet first. When that failed, they tried to dig him out with their hands, but that, too, was unsuccessful. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

* * *

Flowers, a chemistry major, was the first black pledge of the 15-member Monmouth College chapter of Zeta Beta Tau, a national social fraternity.

Det. Capt. Michael A. Irene said the pledges were ordered to "dig their own graves" as "more or less a symbolic thing."

Five holes six feet long and six feet deep were dug on the beach near the two-story fraternity house. Police said the pledges were ordered to lie in the holes, while seven fraternity members ceremoniously sprinkled a few grains of sand over the holes.

When the walls collapsed, "someone grabbed him by his legs, leaving him head first in the hole," police said.

* * *

Jane Schonener, a spokeswoman for the college, said college policy permits initiations, but it prohibits "abusive physical or mental activities." She said it was probable that disciplinary action would be taken against the fraternity members.

College president Richard J. Stonesifer said he was concerned and called the initiation rite "nonsense."

WILLIAM FLOWERS

Flowers over six feet tall was a transfer student from St. Peter's College in Jersey City, N.J., and entered Monmouth as a second semester chemistry major. He was a graduate of Christian Brothers Academy in Lincroft.

Those charged in Flowers' death were fraternity president Richard Pierce, 21, of Long Branch; treasurer Howard Raff, 21, of New Brunswick, N.J.; Frank Yavarowe, 19, of Oceanside, N.Y.; Robert Caemerer, 19, of Allenwood, N.J., and Glen Hart, 19, of New Milford, N.J.

The seven were arraigned and ordered held in lieu of $2,500 bail. A hearing was set for Nov. 25.

GRAVE SCENE — The site of mock grave where William Flowers allegedly suffocated to death during initiation.

Planned Parenthood head denies race bias charge

Warren W. Weaver, president of the Board of Directors of the Planned Parenthood Association, states his organization has always been an equal opportunity employer and does not discriminate against blacks.

Mr. Weaver was answering an accusation by the State Human Relations Commission that health and social agencies financed through United Fund and CICHA exclude blacks from services, policy-making boards and staff positions.

Planned Parenthood records show as of Nov. 1 that 37.4 per cent of its clients are black; 25.67 per cent of its managerial and professional positions are held by blacks and 17.8 per cent of its policy-making board is black.

"I call this to public attention at this time due to recent publicity which has unjustly indicted our organization.

"I strongly urge all of our citizens in Central Maryland to support the United Fund and CICHA campaign with fair share giving now.

"It is gratifying to learn that CICHA and its member agencies have all filed approved Affirmative Action Plans with the State Human Relations Commission. Those of us participating in the current United Fund/CICHA campaign can return to the all-out effort of raising a record dollar amount to help support the full complement of 93 agencies.

Dr. King memorial workshop

The offices of the Greater Model Community Council, Inc.; an affiliate of the Urban Services Agency, and Del. Kenneth L. Webster (D. 40th) announced they will co-sponsor a Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Workshop.

The workshop will be held at the Martin Luther King Jr. Elementary School, located at 3750 Greenspring Ave. on Saturday, Dec. 7, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Del. Webster, who was the chief sponsor of the bill making Dr. King's birthday a legal holiday in the state, said, "The purpose of the Dr. King Memorial Workshop is to allow statewide community input as to how we can annually celebrate Dr. King's birthday on Jan. 15, in such a way that it is a fitting tribute to the ideas that Dr. King represented."

Mr. Frank Pettaway, director of Greater Model Community Council, Inc.; and Lynnwood M. Taylor, acting coordinator of the Martin Luther King Jr. State Memorial Committee, said, "Our office is presently in contact with the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Operation PUSH to be in Baltimore to participate in the Memorial Services as part of the Rev. Mr. King tribute activities.

The Dec. 7, Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Workshop is open to the public.

Drowned man's body recovered

The body of Clarence Day, 32, who reportedly drowned in the Patapsco River last Friday afternoon, was recovered Monday, according to police.

Police said the accident occurred when Mr. Day and another man were towing boats in the Baltimore Harbor. Witness state a 17-foot derrick the two men were towing toppled, capsizing both tow boats.

Mr. Day, who lived in the 4900 block Gunther Ave., and Michael Gladden, 27, 2400 block Francis St., were in the harbor off of Fort Ave., when their boats capsized.

Mr. Gladden, who managed to swim ashore was found clinging to a pier when police arrived. Police said he was treated for shock at the South Baltimore General Hospitals and released.

However, police reveal a search crew failed to find the body of Mr. Day who, according to relatives, was a reputed swimmer.

Married but separated, Mr. Day has four children, according to his mother, Mrs. Hattie Day, a private nurse who lives in the 1800 block Thomas Ave.

Funeral services for Mr. Day are at 10 a.m. Saturday. Burial is in the Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

In addition to his mother, Mr. Day is survived by his father, Clarence Day; his sister, Mrs. Shirley Chandler; his wife, Mrs. Margaret Day and four sons.

HUD orders Uplands to rescind rent hike

Cong. Parren J. Mitchell (D-7th-Md.) has announced the Baltimore area office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has been directed to rescind a 23.9 per cent rent increase granted to the sponsor of the Uplands Apartments.

The rent increase retraction comes as a result of an inspection spurred by Cong. Mitchell and conducted by a team of national HUD experts in mid-October.

In a letter to Cong. Mitchell, H. R. Crawford, HUD assistant secretary for Housing Management, stated:

"As a result of our review of the grievances expressed by the Tenants Steering Committee of the Uplands Apartments complex, I have instructed the Baltimore area office to take the following actions immediately:

Rescind the approvals for rent increases granted on July 29;

Initiate a request to the HUD regional inspector general for an audit of the owner's books and records;

Notify the owner of the maintenance deficiencies disclosed by our inspection of Oct. 16 and schedule a reinspection of the project 30 days from the date of such notice;

Advise the owner that upon clearance of maintenance deficiencies and audit exceptions, if any, a new request for a rent increase will be entertained.

In addition, we are now processing the necessary papers to increase the number of units eligible for the rent supplement program from 20 per cent to 40 per cent of the project."

Clarence Bishop, legislative assistant to Mitchell assigned to this project, stressed: "The positive impact of the four basic actions notwithstanding, the importance of increasing the percentage of rent subsidized units from 20 to 40 must not be overlooked."

Cong. Mitchell expressed his appreciation for the efforts of Assistant Secretary Crawford; indicating that: "The rescinding of the rent increase and the instructions to deliver proper maintenance services by HUD is an indication that, at least, some decision-makers in the federal government are sensitive to the real needs of people during this period of economic crisis."

Strike not affecting heating in schools

The coal strike by the United Mine Workers on Tuesday, Nov. 12 has not affected the heating in the Baltimore city public schools.

However, if the strike continues it may indirectly affect the schools as the temperature begin to drop.

Assistant Superintendent of Division of Physical Plant, Curtis E. Lantz stated, "The schools are not heated by coal fires but with oil, therefore the coal strike does not affect us."

He continued, "If the strike continues those institutions using coal may need oil which would then reduce the supply we receive."

The projected cost for heating the schools this winter is $2,321,000. Along with this the school system will spend nearly $3,000,000 on steam, gas and electricity.

The school maintenance operators have been informed to keep the thermostats at 68 degrees.

Reports from various school officials indicate that the schools are closely observing the temperature in order to conserve as much energy as possible.

The Office of Economic Opportunity stated Saturday, Nov. 9 that the coal strike would greatly affect the poor and elderly since they largely depend on coal for heating.

They will face not only an actual fuel shortage, but eventually higher prices they cannot afford.

Union negotiators have expressed optimism that the 120,000 striking coal miners will be back on the job before Thanksgiving.

Provident thanks voters

The Provident Hospital has expressed its appreciation to Maryland voters for approving the Provident Hospital Loan Question on the Nov. 5 ballot.

A statement signed by Ms. Joanne R. Nadel, public relations director reads:

On behalf of the administration and staff of Provident Hospital, I would like to extend our thanks to each of the 63,525 voters who enabled the Provident Hospital Loan Question to succeed in the November 5 general election.

Because of the loan, Provident Hospital has greater assurance that service to the people of northwest and west Baltimore will continue without further crisis.

CUSTOM KITCHENS
Professionally Designed Installed Financed
One Phone Call Does It All
MODERN KITCHENS
Woodlawn Showroom
6716 Whitestone Ave.
944-7800
Towson Showroom
25 E. Chesapeake Ave.
823-3187
Featuring:
CORNING
GOURMET RANGES

TV REPAIRS
$10.00 PLUS PARTS
3-D TV SALES AND SERVICE
462-4300
DAY OR NIGHT—
2038 W. NORTH AVE.

PROFESSIONALS
An exc. dentn. location. 12x47 bldg. with pkg. 10 cars. R.E. office, doctors, engineers, etc. sale/lease.
PIMLICO REALTY CO.
685-6681

NEW MOTEL CO.
Nice air conditioned rms. & TV. $8.50 or $9 plus tax. One bed for 2 people.
4601 E. MONUMENT ST.
EA. 7-5900

FUEL OIL
Don't get caught short.
Call us for your prompt fuel oil delivery and burner service.
G & M FUEL OIL CO.
728-0361

McCRORY'S PET SHOP
Downtown's Pet and Plant Headquarters
AUTUMN SALE
NOV. 9th to NOV. 16th
• Black Mollies ..... 5 for $1.00
• Moons ..... 4 for $1.00
• Angels ..... 3 for $1.00
• Brick Swords ..... 4 for $1.00
• Green Swords ..... 4 for $1.00
• Zebra ..... 5 for $1.00
PLUS MANY MORE
10 gallon set-up
Includes: 10 gallon all glass aquarium, gravel, wood, Charcoal, heater, pump, sand, filter, thermometer, book, and filter
$11.98
NOW IN STOCK!!!
German Shepherd A.K.C. reg. $99.95
Cocker Spaniels A.K.C. reg. 129.95
Doberman Pincher A.K.C. reg. 169.95
Toy Fox Terrier (Pure Bred) 59.95
Order Your Puppy For Xmas
McCRORY'S Pet Shop
227 W. Lexington Street (basement)
Open Mon. & Thurs. 9:30 a.m.-8:00 p.m.
Tues., Wed., Fri. & Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m.
Phone: 385-0099

Contestants raise $15,000; queen crowned at gala

Baltimore — Some $15,000 was raised by the young women competing for the crown of Miss United Negro College Fund. That figure came this week from the chairman of the annual event, Ruth Pratt.

The annual gala was held on Sunday where this year's queen was crowned.

With a smile that said a thousand words, Lois Mary Anderson, 16, a Seton High School coed and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Anderson walked away with the title. Miss Anderson who was sponsored by Hilda (Mrs. J. Bradshaw) Higgins reported $3,169.

The crowning highlighted the annual gala of the local United Negro College Fund. The Baltimore Women's Committee of the organization served as hostesses for the affair. Martha Allen, wife of State's Attorney Milton B. Allen, heads the committee.

"This year was bigger and better with over 500 guests. Last year we had 10 contestants and this year we had 25 young women competing in the final competition," said Mrs. Pratt.

The young women who competed in the contest sold patron ads, received contributions and made numerous other endeavors to put them in the running.

PATRICIA HAYES
first runner-up in Miss UNCF contest

Runner-ups in the competition were Anganette Taylor, third, 21-year-old student of Morgan State College, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Taylor. She was sponsored by WOBE-CO, a women's civic organization and reported $1,339.

Janice Young, second runner-up, 18, freshman at the Maryland Institute of Art, daughter of Mrs. Mary M. Young, was sponsored by the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. She donated $1,900. And, Patricia Hayes, 25, a Leithwalk Elementary School teacher, sponsored by Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. was the first runner-up with $2,000.

Other contestants were Lucille Howard, Deborah Gary, Renee Rhinehardt, Bonnie Scott, Deborah Leis, Janice Young, Doretha Ward, Faye Talbert, Janice Collins, Rhonda Walker; Beverly Gamble, Gwendolyn Hilton, Kim Dobson, Brenda Clark, Doreen Thompson, Sidney Barnett, Iris Felton, Darlene Swain, Monica Harris; Charlene Rhinehart, Faith Ford, Cherylann Cunningham, Devira Barnes, Rosland Lawson; Brenda Williams, Theresa Smithwick, Brenda Perry, Ava Sanchez, Lena Brandford, and Doretha Ware.

Escorts for the contestants were: Lee A. Williams, Conrad Hipsley, Kevin Ryles, Wayne Arrington, James Hargrove, Charles Elliott, William Banks;

LOIS M. ANDERSON
Miss United Negro College Fund

Reginald Ayers, Albert Curley, Eugene Diggs, Charles Rhinehardt, Calvin Gary, Milton Clark, Karl King; Andre Little Ronald Huff, Jerome Ward, Brenda McCoy, Purnell Hill, Michael Blake, Waverly Johnson, Ronald V. Wilson, Issac Joy Jr., and Cedric C. Easter.

Last year's winner, Jeanette Douglass, a student at Morgan State College crowned this year's winner who was presented a bouquet of flowers, a trophy and many other gifts donated by various merchants and individuals. The other participants also received trophies and numerous gifts.

The program was presided over by Thelma B. Cox, program chairperson. The Rev. Maurice Blackwell, associate pastor of St. Bernadine's Catholic Church gave the invocation for the evening followed by welcome from Mrs. Allen.

Special greetings were extended to guests and contestants by Mayor William D. Schaefer.

Plaques and awards were presented to members of the committees who had worked so hard including contest chairperson, Mrs. Pratt who was honored for her devoted service from the Women's Committee.

Other contest committee persons included Carol Haysbert, Hilda Higgins, Ida Swanson, Sandra Vance, Bernice Hurley, Marion Patterson, Frankie Hinson, Gwendolyn Brooks, Dorothy Clinton, Pearline Carter, Mary Murray, Mary Clayburn.

JANICE YOUNG
second runner-up in UNCF contest

"So You've Been Elected Publicity Chairman" is FREE to all organizations. It tells how to submit press releases to the media. Write: Booklet, P. O. Box 1857, Baltimore, Md. 21203.

Watch for new section "Reflections", coming soon to the AFRO. Exciting features on lifestyles, women, fashions, food and youth are all a part of Reflections. Coming soon!

FREE, OPEN-HEARTED, LOVING

Travis Winkey saluted by area youth group

"He is one of the most unselfish people I have ever met. He is so unselfish that sometimes it scares me. I have never met a person before who was so free, open-hearted and loving."

These were the words used Sunday evening by Congressman Parren J. Mitchell to describe Travis Winkey, owner and manager of the Travis Winkey Modeling Studio when some 100 townsfolk gathered at the downtown Holiday Inn to salute the young gent.

The salute was hosted by the Baltimore's Youth and Young Adults Community Organization. The group which is composed of young people from ages 18 to about 30 felt a definite need to honor their peer who has "accomplished so much in such a short period of time," says Dennis Weems, one of the organizers. Stephen T. Milburn and Alvin Parson also helped form the group.

Mr. Winkey started his career at the age of 13 as a 'go-go dancer' and since that time has performed with the Maryland Ballet Company, the Pittsburgh Dance Ensemble, and studied at the Peabody Conservatory and the Boston Institute of Performing Arts. In addition, he has studied dance under well-known dance instructor, Walley Saunders and has toured the U.S. choreographing for top singing artists.

* * *

The versatile Mr. Winkey who has been on the fashion scene since 1969 stated, "I really didn't know what was going on during the planning of the affair, but it was truly 'out-of-sight.' It was a real honor."

Program participants included Congressman Mitchell, Larry Young, Pinnie L. Ross, Pinnie's Charm Studio; Marguerite Campbell, Mayor Schaefer's special assistant; Lloyd McDonald, director, Student Liaison Workers, Baltimore City Public Schools; and Carolyn Wainwright public relations, YMCA.

TRAVIS WINKEY

Plaques and citations were presented to the honoree by the Druid Hill YMCA, the Mayor's office and a women's community organization.

* * *

Noted on his special night as being one of the youngest persons who have ever been saluted in Maryland, the young Mr. Winkey stated, "Tonight isn't just a night for me, it is a night for all young people in which they should be proud. Anytime your own peers can salute you ... it just becomes one of the most beautiful things ever."

Mr. Winkey who established his own modeling studio in 1973 has trained some 100 Baltimore youths in fashion careers. In addition to his duties at his modeling studio, he has served as producer and associate producer of many area beauty pageants. He also produces the 'Black Model of the Year Contest' which made its premiere in Baltimore last year.

R.S.V.P. WITH MARIE

No stone was left unturned during sexual dysfunction talk

By Marie P Cooke
AFRO Women's Editor

It was once considered taboo to show pictures of couples engaged in sexual intercourse . . . pornography it was termed. In fact, we never even talked about sex except in rare occasions to a physician or a very close friend.

M. Cooke

Those days are gone FOREVER.

It all started a few years back when the physician couple, Drs. Maters and Johnson, broke the ice After much study they concluded that most marriages fail due to sexual dysfunction. Further studies showed that numerous ailments, both physical and mental, were related to sexual inadequacies.

So began the sex clinic boom in this country where couples and singles went to learn how to "get it on."

We now have sex clinics right here in the Baltimore area . . . one such clinic is in living color.

Dr. Richard F. Tyson and his wife, Joanne, a registered nurse, direct the Institute for Marriage Enrichment and Sexual Studies, in Columbia.

The young couple emphasizes that sexual intercourse, for recreation and pregnation, is an art . . . the art of making love.

Thus, they leave no stone unturned.

The Tysons gave a one-hour demonstration of how their operation works at the annual dinner meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monumental City Medical Society last Sunday evening at Provident Hospital.

Members of the auxiliary are wives of area physicians. Robbie Chissell, who is president of the local chapter, told this writer on Wednesday, that she felt the Tysons' presentation was timely and "very informative." Oh, how right she was!

* * *

The presentation was by no means boring.

Dr. and Mrs. Tyson didn't just stand at the podium and rap . . . . it was "their film slides they brought along that held everyone in rapt attention." They called them visual aids that cover most facets of human sexuality.

Pictures that must have been taken with cameras using zoom lenses showed real-life couples demonstrating a variety of positions, including the traditional one, foreplay and such. Slides of the human physical anatomy were shown as the couple took turns commentating.

* * *

Even though one could hear a pin drop in the room, there were times when light laughter arose.

Like when Mrs. Tyson was telling about the male sex organ unjokingly said that many women had never seen a real one (?) before . . . the lights were always out and the sheets pulled way up. And vice versa, I suppose.

But on a serious note the Tysons provided information that was timely and long overdue.

If you find it hard to believe what I've said and you want to see it for yourself, there is going to be an Adult Human Sexuality class presented by Dr. and Mrs. Tyson, Part I and II on Dec. 7 and 14 from 11 a.m. to noon in the Provident Hospital Auditorium.

Registration fee is $10 per class and medical care cards are accepted. Call Dr. Tyson at his Madison Park Professional Center office at 728-5800.

* * *

The Sunday program was not all sex talk. In fact it was last on the program, for good reasons, of course.

President Chissell and her hard-working committe organized a very interesting and well-rounded program.

One of the honored guests was the president of the Women's Auxiliary to the National Medical Association.

Mrs. U.S. Reed jetted to Baltimore from Pine Bluff, Ark. to greet the members.

Other hellos came from Beatrice Smith (Mrs. Cleveland E.) regional director, Region III, Woman's Auxiliary to the National Medical Association.

Dr. Bessie Small, charter member and past president of the medical association and Pattie (Mrs. George (C.) Page, president, Woman's Auxiliary to the Maryland State Medical Association, also said hello to the gathering.

Highlight of the affair was the presentation of awards. An unrestricted monetary gift was presented to Provident Hospital, the local group's pet charity, and citations to past presidents of the Baltimore chapter.

Recipients were Helen Birt (Mrs. William); Serena Holmes (Mrs. John); Vivian Pendleton (Mrs. George); Charlotte Holt (Mrs. Edward); Rene Clay (Mrs. Earl); Gladys Sheppard (Mrs. Douglass); Pattie Page (Mrs. George); Thelma Bando (Mrs. McDonald); Ethel Harris (Mrs. Bernard, Sr.); Celonia Walden (Mrs. Emerson); Verda Welcome (Mrs. Henry); Ponjola Priest (Mrs. James); Mitchell.). (Mrs. Kiefer).

Chairwomen for the dinner meeting were Mrs. Jimmie Laforest and Ruth Hunt. Hostesses included Mary Bacote, Thelma Bando, Marilyn Beale, Helen Birt, Jacqueline Chambers, Renee Clay, Dorothy Clinton, Jean Cooper, Darlene Downs;

Also, Marie Francis, Mable Grant, Ethel Harris Gwendolyn Hill, Charlotte Holt, Irma Holmes, Serena Holmes, Helena Hunt;

And Catherine Johnson, Frances Mitchell, Louise Owens, Barbara Owings, Sylvia Patterson, Vivian Pendleton, Hazel Phillips, Ponjola Priest, Marie Randall;

And, Alice Russell, Minnie Smoot, Shirley Stewart, Octavia Venter, Lucille Wade, Pauline Watts, Juanita Wilson, Mary Zollicoffer, Walter Young.

"We'll do more in '74 and be alive in '75" is the theme of the local chapter . . . slogan goes without saying.

Columbia capers

By Pinnie L. Ross
AFRO Columnist

It was a gala affair on last Friday night when the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority had its Harvest Dance at the Otner Barn.

P. Ross

It was a fund-raising affair to benefit its Scholarship Fund.

The crowded group danced to music by a youthful and talented group calling themselves The Sounds Unlimited, who played a variety of selections consisting of oldies and new ones.

Guests "bumped," and some did the latest dance called the "Hercules." If there were prizes to have been awarded to the best bumpers, it surely would have gone to Mr. and Mrs. Warren (Iris) Jones, because they were "doing it."

Pink and green, the AKA's colors, were displayed on Ethel Hill's table. She is basileus of the organization. Guests at her table celebrated her November birthday. In the center of her table was a beautifully decorated tray of pink and green sandwiches and a pink and green birthday cake. All of the goodies were prepared by her lovely mother, Mrs. Ethel Brown who motored from Chester, Pa., to share in the festivities. The color scheme was carried out with pink and green table cloth with matching napkins.

As the guests danced around the floor, this writer observed a few fashions which needed to be mentioned as ultra-feminine. Rena Clay looked pretty as always in a moss green knit gown that fitted the bodice neatly with a loose flowing skirt complemented with a ruffled edged shawl covered with sequins and tied in a loop knot in front.

Jean Cooper also chose moss green in a gorgeous two-piece evening ensemble. The long-sleeved, three-quarter-length top was accented with ostrich feathers around cuffs and bottom of the top, with matching trim at hem of skirt.

Elaine Wright chose a Spanish design. The three-piece evening ensemble was a gold and aqua long skirt with gold fringe at the hemline, with a coordinated aqua, long-sleeved evening blouse and jeweled vest.

Vera Hayes, a psychiatric social worker, was feminine and elegant in a two-piece outfit. The long gown fitted snug at the waist, was stitched flat over the hips, then burst into a spray of knife pleats flowing in soft, gossamer material. The jacket could be unbuttoned to reveal a backless halter top.

Sensuous black was a favorite of many, like the sophisticated, tailored, two-piece evening velvet pant suit worn by Andy Bryant, D.C. school teacher. The well-cut blazer had rhinestones that sparkled on the pockets wide lapels, and tail of the jacket. Her ensemble was completed with a white satin evening blouse with mannish tie in front.

Still another favored black worn by Mary Day was a slinky, uncluttered, molded-to-the-body, long gown. The two-piece ensemble was made of shiny metallic.

And, Ruth Young chose a black and multi-colored three-piece ensemble. black crepe pants were worn with a sleeveless, scoop-necked blouse which was adorned with a lavishly embroidered, multi-colored, long-sleeved jacket — very stunning.

Also, Helen Williams, Wilde Lake High School teacher and wife of Howard University professor, Dr. Eugene Williams, was terribly chic in a bright gold metallic pant suit. The fashionable jacket had bits of black and beige peeping through the fabric.

Nettie Jones, wife of attorney Thomas L. Jones, D.C., selected a bright kelly green gown which had an empire waist effect with frilled, flounced ruf-

(Continued on page 31)

Community Calendar

NOV. 15

Wedding reception of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Douglass Robinson: Meushaw's Hilltop Inn, Security Blvd., 8-12 p.m.

NOV. 16

Wedding of Miss Katherine Justis and Ronald Brooks; St. Pius Catholic Church, Edmondson and Schroeder St., reception at La Fontaine Rouge, Belair Rd.

NOV. 19

Auditions for Teen Talent Show; YWCA, 128 W. Franklin St., 4-7 p.m.

NOV. 21

Auditions for Teen Talent Show; YWCA, 128 W. Franklin St., 4-6 p.m.

NOV. 22

J.U.G.S., Inc., Living Ads Ball; 6817 Dogwood Rd., 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

JOANNE H. TYSON
directs sex institute with husband

DR. RICHARD F. TYSON
directs the Institute for Marriage Enrichment and Sexual Studies, Inc. in Columbia.

BEATRICE SMITH
regional director, Region, III, Women's Auxiliary to the National Medical Association

ROBBIE CHISSELL
president, Women's Auxiliary to the Monumental City Medical Society

WOMEN'S VIEWS:

Child support and custody

Who should get custody of the children in a divorce — the mother or the father? In the past, most people would have automatically answered "the mother."

But a new study indicates that traditional attitudes on this subject are changing. The Virginia Slims American Women's Opinion Poll, Volume III, conducted by The Roper Organization and just released, shows that today only 24 per cent of American women — and only 18 per cent of men — say that the mother should automatically get custody of the children in a divorce. Rather, the study shows; — The majority of both women (56 per cent) and men (55 per cent) say that each parent should be considered equally and that

(Continued on page 31)

On the inside . . .

Listed in this week's Local Club Notes are the new officers of Woman Power, Inc. including a report on the 17th Annual Leadership Luncheon held recently. Read what other area organizations are doing around town . . . inside this section.

Corn meal is one of the few good buys you'll find on supermarket shelves. There are loads of recipes that call for corn meal in today's holiday food section. Cookin' with Soul has festive delights, too . . . please look inside.

AFRO columnist, Marjorie Green, tells of an impressive ceremony held for police officer who was injured during an act of duty at the Social Security Administration complex. See this week's Woodlawn Highlights.