BY THE WAY...

by Joe Black

Come July 4, 1976, 200 candles on the good old American birthday cake are going to light up the sky.

And warm up a glow that's going to be felt, from sea to shining sea.

The government's going all out. Building new monuments. Renovating historical landmarks. Pumping up patriotism to a heart-pulsating pitch, as people relive the history of yesteryear.

All people. All Americans. All of us.

Yet, within the Black community, some people are projecting that Blacks should stay out of the Bicentennial celebration. Their thinking goes that racism is still rampant. Inequality of justice and opportunity is too prevalent.

So be it.

But as someone once said, "We ain't what we want to be, we ain't what we're going to be, but thank God, we ain't what we used to be."

And, progress has been made. You can't deny that.

Nor can you deny the memories of Crispus Attucks. Peter Salem. Dorie Miller. Men who gave their lives in defense of this country, during the First American Revolution.

Along with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Medgar Evers. The children of the Birmingham Church bombing. Americans who gave their last full measure of devotion during the revolution of the 60's.

As President Lincoln said, "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion."

So, as a reminder to white America that lives of loved ones are saved today because of the creative minds of Black men like Dr. Charles Drew, Dr. Daniel Hale Williams, and Garret Morgan, let's all give America something for its 200th birthday.

Let's give the Bicentennial our vote of confidence.

Wife of late AFRO exec eulogized in quiet rites

"She was a sweet, beautiful lady, devoted to her family and her church."

This description by a friend at the last rites Wednesday for Mrs. D. Arnett (Sadie) Murphy, was reflected in the funeral itself.

The quiet, 40-minute ceremony came at noon at Grace Presbyterian Church where she had been a member many years.

Mrs. Murphy, widow of the AFRO executive, died Nov. 8 after extended illness. She was 82. Her husband, youngest son of AFRO Founder John H. Murphy Sr., died in 1972 at the age of 79. He was for 66 years a stockholder, advertising director, vice president and member of the AFRO Board of Directors.

Highlighting the beauty of the rites for Mrs. Murphy was the reading of the poem, "Our Nana" written by her great granddaughter, Virginia E. Love, age 14.

Mrs. Murphy's grandchildren and great grandchildren called her Nana. Their last gift to her, a pillow fashioned in yellow, bronze and gold minimums was at the head of the casket.

Reading the narrative from the 4-page program, the pastor, the Rev. William T. Peters Jr., noted, "It is beautiful that a 14-year-old youngster penned this out of her own life which had been touched by her Nana." (The poem is printed at the end of this story)

The Rev. Mr. Peters concluded, "How prophetic was Virginia E. Love."

Previously, in the eulogy, the Rev. Mr. Peters said, "She has received what you can never give, the crown of life eternal," as he encouraged the family not to mourn.

He stated, "We rejoice because we know and affirm joyfully that high on her life were her family, her church. She trusted in the Lord who sustains life. She walked with and she talked with Him, our sister. God can turn life into eternal life.

"She was one who went about so peacefully and quietly, she never sought the plaudets of the crowd. She never sought the headlines of her husband who published a newspaper. Rejoice she has now entered into the everlasting temple."

Noteworthy is the fact that active and honorary pallbearers were mostly Mrs. Murphy's nephews, other relatives and persons longtime associated with her husband, Mr. Arnett, at the AFRO office.

On the program was the Rev. N. B. Carrington, longtime retired Methodist minister and as a pressman at the AFRO, also for many years associated with Mr. Murphy.

The Rev. Mr. Carrington said, "We are grateful for the gift of her long life which she dedicated to Thee and to her late husband, D. Arnett Murphy and their family and also to the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers."

Lending further beauty to the ceremonies was the voice of the lone soloist, Miss Rebecca Sydnor, who sang the Negro Spiritual, "There is a Balm in Gilead to Heal The Sin Sick Soul" Miss Mildred Bryant was organist.

Some 20 cars formed the procession to burial in Arbutus Memorial Park. Arrangements were by the Nutter Funeral Home.

Born Sadie Virginia Clark, Mrs. Murphy was the daughter of the late Henry and Mrs. Mary Griffin Clark, Lewiston, N.C., who moved to Baltimore when their daughter was an infant.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were married in 1912 when they were high school sweethearts, a union which remained until his death.

A daughter, Miss Virginia Murphy, died in 1938 at age 21.

Surviving are daughters, Mesdames Mae E. Dyson and Arnetta M. Lottier; six grandchildren, Mrs. Virginia L. Prettyman, Mrs. June L. Powell, George A. Lottier, Mrs. Sadie L. Johnson, Miss Deborah Lottier and David Lottier.

Also eight great-grandchildren, Virginia Love, Jon Edgar Love, Jr., Ronea Powell, Ronald Powell, Christopher Lottier, Shawn Lottier, Michael Prettyman, and Kya Johnson; cousins, Mesdames Florence Easley of New York, Blanche Watters of Edgewood, Md., Olivia Bates of Baltimore, Herschel Gordon of Philadelphia, Pa., Ovella Queen of Baltimore, and Grace Clipper of Washington and two sons-in-law, Walter T. Dyson and George C. Lottier.

Pallbearers were Richard Fry, Harry Johnson, John Lane, Siamon Merritt, Ronald Powell, Charles W. Prettyman.

Honorary pallbearers, George Gilbert, Frederick A. Howard, Dr. C. Everett Knox, Robert Matthews III, A. Paul Moss, Howard Murphy, James H. Murphy, John H. Murphy, III, Judge William H. Murphy, John J. Oliver, Sr. D. John Peters, Noah Thompson.

Out-of towners present included Mrs. Marsha Rose German, a great niece, Honolulu Hawaii; Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, Silver Spring, Md., Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lottier and Christopher and Sean Lottier, Marlboro, Mass.; Mrs. Blanche Watters, Edgewood, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clipper, Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Clara Loman, Princeton, N.J.; Dr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Knox, Fairfax, Va.; Mrs. Jeanne M. Queene and Mrs. Betty Weaver, Philadelphia, Pa.; Noah Thompson, Columbia; Mrs. Jane Wilson, Columbia, and Dr. Harold Quivers, Washington.
