Miss Harriet Knight, Shopper, Says Her Work Is Interesting

For instance, last spring she sent hard candy and chocolates to China to some little American boys and girls—the family of an American Steamship Company agent.

She selects clothing, shoes and undergarments for an American Army Captain's family now stationed in the Philippines. And when she makes her selections for the Philippines, she has to remember that any other sort than canvas shoes will mould—on account of the climate. The clothing must be of cotton, too, for the same reason, as well as because it is cool to wear.

Then there are the Maryland friends of Hochschild, Kohn & Co., who have moved to other sections of the country. Miss Knight says she receives shopping requests from Portland, Oregon, from Seattle, Washington, from army posts in New Mexico and Texas, and from winter resorts in Florida and California.

Miss Knight cordially invites you to make use of her personal shopping service—she will shop with you or for you, as you wish.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE LOSES TO SUPERIOR ST. JOHN'S FOOTBALL TEAM — EASTERN SHORE TO HAVE BASE BALL LEAGUE

The St. John's football team crushed the Washington College eleven on Saturday afternoon on Washington Field, on a gridiron that was both soggy and slippery, and with a wind blowing across the field from the northwest that caused the spectators to draw their cloaks about them and seek shelter from its almost frigid breath and which at times approached nearly the proportions of a hurricane. A rain, that began to fall gently in the morning, by noon had developed into a torrent that sent down to mother earth heaving sheets of water that theatened to continue all during the day and cause even a football contest—played in all knds of weather and under all conditions—to be either postponed or greatly marred. But, true to predictions, a few minutes before the scheduled time for the contest, Old Sol broke the shackles which the lowering clouds had flung across the skies, and rode clear in the firmament, except for a few fleeting, heaving, white-capped aerial billows, which went scurrying before the stiff breeze, and which at times flung a silvery veil between the brilliant orb of day and the water-drenched earth.

Scarcely had the weather-man's predictions been fulfilled, when the St. John's eleven, confident because of previous victories, alert, courageous with almost certain knowledge that victory awaited them, dashed upon the field. A few minutes later the Washington team—sullen, watchful, determined—came upon the field, feeling defeat in advance, but determined to fling against a superior foe their every, single ounce of strength and every iota of courage and endurance. Cheered by wonderful enthusiasm on the part of the students, the St. John's boys were struck by a hurricane of vigor and strength that literally swept them off their feet and caused the Washington College supporters to become frenzied with delight. The first few minutes of play witnessed Washington College clearly outplaying their heavier and more experienced opponents, and St. John's first score, a safety, was the direct result of the slippery field, which caused Russell to lose his balance and the ball to go over his head, which placed it dangerously near the Washington goal line, only to fall over the line for a safety a few seconds later on a bad pass from the center. It did not take St. John's many minutes to take advantage of the wind and boot the ball into Washington College territory and score a touchdown, making the score 9 to 0 at the close of the first quarter, with Washington putting up a far better fight than they were thought capable of doing.

St. John's soon menaced the Washington line in the second quarter and scored another touchdown, the result of exchange punts between Russell and Tickey and line gains and end runs. The half ended with St. John's having a lead of 16 to 0. But, at this period, the local rooters were not without hope, for Washington had played a steady game, and it appeared as if the game might result in a far closer contest than was anticipated.

Hardly had the teams lined up for the second [illegible], when Crowe, the speedy halfback from Waterbury, Conn., caught a forward pass, and, with St. John's men all around him, carried the ball over 65 yards of sodden sward for a touchdown, with St. John's men grabbing feebly at him and several others making for him with a killing, though futile pace. This tremendous burst of speedy and agility on the part of Crowe places his name on the imperishable scroll of those athletic heroes of the old institution that have made her name renowned the country over. To say that this long run electrified the crowd is putting it tamely. Pretty girls, dressed with all the gorgeous trimmings of 1921 splendor; old college grads, who had fought St. John's on gridiron and diamond, back in the days when the sports were young; and conservative college professors themselves gave demonstrations of their enthusiasm in many ways, because not only did this touchdown mean a score for Washington, but it spoke their strength in no uncertain tones. At this time the score stood 16 to 7.

But the enthusiasm of the Washington College enthusiasts was short-lived, for St. John's soon began to hammer the Washington line to pieces with their heavier, better trained machine, and the College enthusiasm, which had, for a few minutes, run so high, soon reached its flood—and then the ebb tide, bearing on its heaving bosom the sanguine hopes of a few minutes before, set in toward the sea of sure defeat.

In the third quarter, St. John's did fearful damage and scored three touchdowns and repeated the same performance again in the fourth quarter against the worn-out Washington College team. The attack of the latter team had become weakened and their defence had crumbled with it. The superior condition of the St. John's team had told and the visitors had won a deserved victory. The final score was 58 to 7.

In summing up the result of the game, there is no doubt that the punting and all-around work of Tickey was the greatest single factor in the St. John's victory. In every exchange of punts he outkicked Russell for W. C. although his stronger line greatly aided him by giving him more time to get set for the attempts, while his offensive and defensive work were also of a high calibre.

Perhaps the best work for Washington College was done by Crowe, who not only made the single touchdown for the home team, but also was aggressive in attack while on the defense and gained many yards for his team. The work of Keenan was also of a high order. While not in a position to do sensational work, he, nevertheless, backed up the line in a fine fashion, and had he not been there, it is probable that St. John's would have increased their score by many points. If we had a few more like him, with his weight, strength and experience, Coach Kibler would soon weld together a team that would make the other state elevens know we were on the football map of the country.

The result of the game, as a whole, was no more than could be expected. With less than two weeks training of men, many of whom had never taken part in a gruelling contest, Washington's most enthusiastic admirers could not hope to defeat a well-balanced aggregation like St. John's. But one thing we can say for them: "They fought a good fight and kept the faith."

The Chestertown High School football management has arranged the following schedule of games:

Oct. 14—Smyrna at Smyrna.
Oct. 21—Cambridge, home.
Oct. 28—Milford, home.
Nov. 4—Smyrna, home.
Nov. 11—Newark, home.
Nov. 18—Bridgeville, home.
Nov. 24—Cambridge at Cambridge.

The team played its first game of the season against the second team of Washington College last Friday afternoon and defeated them by the score of 2 to 0. The Chestertown team is under the direction of Rev. Mr. Atwater and it should be of considerable interest to our fans to watch it develop and attend the games. Rev. Atwater is a football player of wide experience and will doubtless develop a speedy aggregation.

A Class D baseball league for the Eastern Shore in 1922 is now an assured fact. The decision was made at a meeting in Salisbury last week, representing eleven towns on the peninsula. Eastern Shore League was adopted unanimously as the name of the new organization. A board of directors, one from each club, was selected to govern the league. Crisfield, Berlin, Pocomoke, Cambridge, Snow Hill, Laurel, Princess Anne and Salisbury were the towns that entered the league. The salary limit was put at $1750 a month per team, including the manager, and that not more than three players extra be carried on the roster. Gate receipts in the league will be divided equally. Each club will post $850 as a guarantee of good faith. At least three towns in the new circuit will build ball parks; they are Berlin, Princess Anne and Cambridge. Chestertown, one of the best ball towns on the Eastern Shore, was not represented at the meeting and will not be a member of the league.

A new champion woman golfer of the United States was crowned on the Hollywood Golf Club, New Jersey, on the fourteenth green Saturday, Miss Marion Hollins, a member of the West Brook Golf Club, of Great River, N. Y., succeeding Miss Alexa Sterling, of Atlanta, Ga., who had held the title since 1916.

Washington College's football team is scheduled to play the strong Pennsylvania Military College team next Saturday at Chester.

The most important football game in the whole country today is the one at Annapolis between Princeton and the Navy. The Navy claims to have a strong aggregation, and perhaps she has, but we believe that Princeton, having one of the strongest aggregations in the country, will win. On the same day, at the same place, St. John's and the University of Maryland will line up, with the State College having a little the best chance to win, but not without a hard fight. The score of the first game we predict to be: Princeton 14; Navy 0. The second game: State College 10, St. John's 0.

Ruth is the champion home-run maker of all time. He has batted 59 home runs this season and has greatly aided the Yanks to win the championship in the American League, while not shining so brightly in the World's Series as some thought he would.

Aid For Starving In The Near East

"I have stood, within three weeks, beside heaps of human bones and parts of bodies representing the remains of 500 women and children killed in one spot within one year," writes C. V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief. "These were only part of thousands of non-combatants who perished in that vicinity, which suggests the reign of terror that has paralyzed all normal self-supporting activities there.

Mr. Vickrey is one of the American party that has just inspected conditions in the Caucasus and the Levant. He will be one of the speakers at the Maryland Conference, Near East Relief, to be held at the Hotel Emerson, in Baltimore, on October 31.

"Millions of farmer folks in Armenia and the Bible lands, an area much larger than Kansas and three times her population,and these include many women and children, are starving," says United States Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, nationally known champion of agricultural interests in the United States Senate. "Their men folks killed off in religious and other wars forced upon them, their country devastated, their homes looted, their live stock driven off, their crops ruined and no means of planting adequate crops for the coming season, these women and children are dying by thousands for lack of food and clothing. They are appealing to their farmer neighbors of America for food."

Senator Capper has particular reference to the appeal made by the Near East Relief for grain; 14,000 bushels each of corn and wheat is Maryland's quota. Farmers of Maryland have until the end of harvests to make their donations. If every farmer will give his share, says Harold F. Pellegrin, Maryland State Director, Maryland will easily make her quota and then some.
