TRACTOR

"Henry Ford Was Right When He Said:

'The Tractor will enable the farmer to work fewer hours in the day, giving him more time to enjoy life. I believe the tractor will make farming what it ought to be —the most pleasant, the most healthful, the most profitable business on earth'."

This tractor has done much—very much—in bringing true Mr. Ford's prophecy; for in it is a machine which has harnessed one of the most dependable, efficient, adaptable, economical sources of power in the world—a machine that saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time — a machine which many farmers claim plows, harrows or drills as much ground in the same time as four, six or even eight horses. And more —a machine that takes care of every power job on the farm.

Call and let's talk it over, or telephone or drop us a card and we will bring the facts to you.

SHIPPING EGGS—TO INCREASE THE TARIFF ON EGGS SHIPPED TO THIS COUNTRY

Never send eggs to city markets in badly used fillers and crates. If it is necessary to use battered egg cases see to it that they are patched up sufficiently to be able to stand the strain of travel. The loss to the country today as a result of eggs broken in transit is $5,000,000 a year. Two million dollars were paid by carriers last year in settlement for damaged eggs. Many claims were not paid because many shippers disregard the rules of the railroads and express companies. Moreover, it is reported that some manufacturers are selling fillers and flats that do not comply with the requirements of the railroads and express companies which specify that if the ordinary honeycomb filler is used all the flat dividing boards and tray fillers must be of hard calendared strawboard weighing not less than three and a half pounds to the set of ten trays and twelve dividing boards, each of which is to be of sufficient size to fill the compartments and prevent shifting. In addition to watching the quality of the fillers used to protect the eggs, shippers can do two other things to reduce practically to a minimum the damage claims. First is the use of an additional excelsior pad in each side of the case, and a pad can be put above the top layer. This seems to furnish a sort of cushion, takes up unusual shocks, and prevents shifting.

There is a great deal of talk about the value of commercial feeds that contain the necessary elements that make the birds develop quicker and better than the ordinary feeds. This may be true, but we doubt it. Our experience has been that feeds bought and mixed by the owner are far more successful and practical than the ones purchased from the commercial houses, although the latter are, no doubt, more practical for the small raiser, who does not have sufficient birds to justify him mixing his mashes and his scratch feed.

The Fordney Tariff as it now stands calls for duties of 6 cents per dozen on eggs in shells and 15 cents on dried eggs. Fifteen cents on dried egg albumen is equivalent to only 2 cents on shell eggs. The committee on protection of the poultry industry, of which Prof. Jas. E. Rice is chairman, is now working for a higher rate on shell eggs and more equitable rates on the different forms of dried eggs. When it comes to the practical politics of the situation is appears reasonable that Congress is trying to establish import duties that afford some protection and at the same time provide revenue for a heavily burdened treasury. A tariff high enough to bar out a commodity produces no revenue to the government because no importations are made. It is not likely, therefore, that an actually protective tariff will be adopted by Congress. It is to be hoped duties will be granted on dried eggs that are based on the quantity and value of shell eggs used in producing the dried commodity, as it is the dried product that has been coming in large quantities from the Orient. It appears, therefore, that importers would agree to almost any duty on shell eggs if they should be permitted to break eggs in cheap producing countries and ship them into the United States at a relatively low tariff on the dried product.

NEW BOARD FOR W. C.

Control Of College To Be Shared Fifty-Fifty Between Alumni And State

At a meeting of the Board of Visitors and Governors of Washington College held Wednesday, October 12, steps were taken to bring before the Legislature a bill to amend the charter of the College. This charter was enacted in 1782, and is one of the oldest college charters in the United States. It is indeed possible that no other college has a charter that has stood so long without amendment.

At the Alumni meeting held last June resolutions were adopted asking the Board to amend the charter so as to abolish life tenure of the Board of Visitors and to reduce the number of board members to thirteen. Of these six were to be appointed by the Governor of Maryland, six to be elected by the Alumni, and one, the President of the College, to be appointed by these. These resolutions were approved by the Board, and submitted to a committee with instructions to put the recommendations into the form of a bill to be introduced into the next Legislature.

The discussions in the Board revealed the fact that most of the members believe that the Alumni resolutions would reduce the Board to too small a number. Since Washington College is the college of the Eastern Shore and should function as such, it was thought that every county of the Eastern Shore should be represented on the Board. If the dual method of control is to be adopted, this would mean that each county should have at least two representatives. Since some members of the Board should come from the outside, it was decided to retain the present number of Board members (twenty-four) and allow each of the appointing powers to select three members at large. When these changes are enacted into law the old college will be distinctly an Eastern Shore institution as its founders intended that it should be. It will also conform to the suggestion made in the Flexner Report on the colleges of Maryland that the Eastern Shore should receive special consideration in the state system of higher education. The further suggestion that the state's money should be applied to state controlled institutions is also carried out in a large measure.

There are many other minor changes that must be made in the charter of the college in order to modernize the control of the institution.

At the same meeting of the Board of Visitors, Dr. J. S. W. Jones, who has for many years been the professor of mathematics at the college, was elected dean. This election merely recognizes a position which Dr. Jones has held without special appointment for some years. Mr. W. D. R. Straughn, of Worcester County, was appointed assistant in the Science Department. Mr. Straughn graduated from the college last June, and returned this year for further study. The large attendance at the college this year made it necessary to secure assistance in several departments.

Resolution of Respect for Our Deceased Brother, Samuel P. Goodhand

Whereas, The great and Supreme Ruler of the Universe has in his infinite wisdom removed from our order one of our fellow-laborers, Samuel P. Goodhand, and, whereas in his daily walk of life, as a private citizen, an ardent worker in the church, at home with his beloved family, and as a member of our order, he faithfully put into action the great and noble teachings of our order—Friendship, Love and Truth—makes it, therefore, eminently befitting that we record our appreciation in his membership; therefore,

Resolved, That the sudden removal of such a life and fellow companion from our organization and the community in which he resided leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all who knew him.

Resolved, That with deep sympathy with the beloved and bereaved family and relatives of the deceased we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in memoriam for a period of sixty days, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the records of this lodge, a copy be printed in the Centreville Chestertown script, and a copy be forwarded to the bereaved family.

W. L. MEDFORD,
