A Telephone System Must Expand

THERE is no such thing as closing the capital account of a telephone system unless it proposes to go out of business. The telephone system that is not going forward is going backward.

Each new subscriber requires additional plant—a new telephone set, additional central office equipment, in most cases an additional line from the central office to the subscriber's premises.

But these additions cannot wait until the subscriber wants service. To do this would require that applicants wait sometimes for an indefinite period. We must anticipate the public's needs and always maintain a reserve plant—conduits, cables, switchboards, wires.

To meet the requirements for next year and the years to come the money for the extensions must be secured from the investors this year. Our earnings this year, then, will determine whether we can attract the new capital necessary to meet your requirements for service next year.

SPORTING NOTES

FOOTBALL SEASON IN FULL SWING ALL OVER THE COUNTRY—AMERICAN LEGION TO HAVE BASKETBALL TEAM—OTHER INTERESTING NOTES

The American Legion of Kent Co. has formed a basketball team composed of such star players as Barber Bartley, Bud Ford, Clarence Usilton, Herbert Usilton, Coach Kibler, Phil Wilmer, Edward Blackway and Harry Rouse. At a meeting the other night the following were elected officers: Herbert Usilton, captain; Phil Wilmer, manager. Five games have been arranged with the Washington College team, which team promises to be one of the best ever at the institution. The Legion team wants to arrange games all over the state.

While many big football contests held the center of attention throughout the country Saturday, the Harvard-Penn State game furnished by far the most thrills. Harvard managed to tie the score, but they were outplayed at every department of the game and a few minutes before the last whistle Penn held them 21 to 14. Harvard rallied with that teriffic eleventh hour punch which they invariably develop when the outlook is darkest, when the urgency is greatest, when impending disaster throws its shadow across the barred turf. Penn State left the field with a moral if not an actual victory. Yale barely beat out the Army and thereby failed to show strength they were thought capable of, while Princeton was again lost without Lourie and Garrity and lost to Chicago, 9 to 0. It appears to us that the Navy-Penn State game on November 12 at Philadelphia will furnish more real thrills than any of the contests between the so-called, self-styled "Big Three."

The Chestertown High School football team showed up in a splendid manner on Friday afternoon when they defeated Cambridge High School on Washington Field by the score of 19 to 0. The Chestertown team outplayed the visitors in every department of the game, showing a far superior knowledge of the game than did the visitors. Pryor Armstrong was the shining star of the game, tearing big holes in the Cambridge line and darting through for tremendous gains, and adding six points to his team's score by two beautiful field goals.

Thus far this season the list of backfield stars on the big elevens has been numerous. Among the best backs are Noyes and Barchet, of the Navy; Holloran and Davies, of Pitt; Lourie and Gharrity, of Princeton; Anderson, of Syracuse; Killinger, of Penn. State; Barron and Harlan, of Georgia Tech; Aldrich, of Yale; Owen, of Harvard; Asplundh, of Swarthmore; Wray ,of Penn.; Banks and Stektee, of Michigan; Kaw, of Cornell. Keck, of Princeton; Golick, of Syracuse; King and Bolles, of the Navy,are among the best tackles. With King and Bolles the Navy seems to have the greatest tackle strength in the country, with Keck and Golick as strong a pair as one can reasonably think of.

The all-around work of Pryor Armstrong, of Chestertown, in the football games played this year by the Chestertown High School stamps him as the best High School football player ever developed here. With proper management he will make some college team a man of real ability in a very short while.

It is being currently reported that Frank Baker will play third base and manage Cambridge in the Eastern Shore League next esason. He contemplates leaving the big leagues to be close to his home and farms. He would be a big drawing card and a big asset to the league.

The hunting season in Kent county is only a little more than a week distant and hundreds of gunners are expected to make application for hunting permits within the next few days. Reports from the rural sections indicate that both birds and rabbits are fairly plentiful. One outstanding feature of the present season is the fact that so few licenses have been issued to date. This means that the Clerk's office will be rushed during the last week prior to the gunning season, which opens Wednesday, Nov. 10.

With four games of Princeton's schedule past history and but three ahead, the football team is polishing its depleted team for a long-hoped-for climax—the defeat of both Harvard and Yale. The absence of Gharrity and Lourie has been a big handicap to the Tigers and their reappearance in the line will mean untold aggressiveness and strength to Princeton.

Playing against overwhelming odds in weight and experience, the Pennsylvania team's average soaring so high as 30 pounds to the man, Washington College lost a hard-fought football game against the Pennsylvania Military College team at Chester on Saturday by the score of 26 to 7. It was only by using their best efforts that the Cadets wer able to win from Washington College.

Washington's score came a few minutes after the kick-off when Duffy caught a fumble up near the middle of the field, and, with the whole Pennsylvania team in hot pursuit, ran over their line for a touchdown. It was a most spectacular run on the part of Duffy and gave the Washington team an advantage that the home team had difficulty in overcoming.

The game was full of freak plays, Pennsylvania getting the breaks on several plays that were greatly to their advantage.

Washington College put up the pluckiest kind of fight, in fact one of the best seen on the Cadets' gridiron this year, but they were outweighed and outmatched in aggressiveness by the gray soldiers from Chester.

Crowe, Duffy, Johnson and Ruark did particulary good work, while the defense work of Keenan, Washington's giant tackle, was well up to his usual high standard.

The Pennsylvania team made a touchdown in each quarter.

The Chestertown High School team was playing Milford, Del., High School yesterday afternoon when we went to press.

Washington College has a real fighting chance against the University of Delaware today at Newark and a big crowd of Chestertown rooters will go to the Delaware town to help the local team along with their enthusiasm. The Washington College team has developed wonderfully during the last few weeks and several new men have added weight and strength to the eleven. On the other hand, Delaware has lost five of last year's varsity men either because of studies or by players leaving the squad.

The Chestertown High School schedule for the balance of the season is as follows:

Nov. 4—Smyrna H. S., here.
Nov. 11—Newark H. S., here.
Nov. 18—Bridgeville H. S., here.
Nov. 24—Cambridge H. S., there.

Across The Continent On Horseback

On Wednesday afternoon, without any previous notice whatever, there appeared in Chestertown a boyish figure on horseback, accompanied by a little terrier, who was safely seated in the rear of his master. This young fellow breezed into town, garbed in true western fashion, with a distinctly western air and manner. He gave his name as Andrew J. Abbell, of San Francisco, California, age 18, and made the statement that he was to visit all the states of the Union, secure a letter from the executive of each and return to San Francisco within a year from the time in which he started. He stated that he had been nearly six months on the journey and was now on his return home, after having made in the neighborhood of 5800 miles. On his return he will visit the southern states and return by the El Paso trail through Texas. As a reward for this trip he will secure tuition and board in any university of the world that he desires. This is perhaps one of the most unique and interesting young men that have visited this section in many years. He tells of interesting and hazardous experiences along the route, how he has been shot at and wounded by moonshiners who mistook him for a revenue officer. The young fellow is intelligent and nervy and deserves to make the balance of the trip successfully and earn his coveted reward.

The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse will be presented at the Centreville Opera House, Centreville, Md., Monday and Tuesday next, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

The last day together

They sat at the table in the restaurant where they had danced together so often, and knew that this afternoon together was their last. There had been gossip—of the sort no woman can resist. Small wonder they were distrait. They would have been more so, could they have foreseen the end of the affair which is so prominent a part of
