Elmer Travis, 65, was a bus driver

Funeral services were held last Saturday for Elmer Howard Travis, 65, at St. James Episcopal Church.

Mr. Travis died May 4. For 32 years, he transported children to nursery schools and elementary schools in his well known yellow school bus.

He was known to most school administrators, teachers and the general community for his long association with the Little School.

He was active in religious and community affairs and joined St. James Episcopal Church in 1966. Mr. Travis was also an active member of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Zion Lodge No. 4, Prince Hall affiliation and the Chesapeake Club, Inc.

He was a devoted family man and friend and always had time for those he loved.

Mr. Travis is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gillie Travis, a daughter, stepson, one brother, four sisters, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Scales, ex-Elite buried in L.A.

Funeral services were held early this week in Los Angeles (Calif.) for George Scales, one-time player and manager of the Baltimore Elite Giants. He was 75.

Scales moved from his New York home several years ago when health began to fail. At the time of his death, he was living with a sister.

A brilliant infielder and outstanding hitter in his time, Scales managed the Elites in their peak years of the late thirties. It was he who developed the skills of Jim "Junior" Gilliam, the present Dodgers coach.

He is the latest on a growing list of black stars who performed in Baltimore's black baseball and who died since the demise of the Elites.

Others included Hoss Walker, Felton Snow, Pee Wee Butts, Goose Curry, Eggie Clark and Bliz Mackey.

Brooke backs aid to minority firms

NEW YORK — Three major historical obstacles face the minority business today: it "lacks markets, lacks capital and lacks expertise," according to Sen. Edward W. Brooke, Mass.

Brooke was the principal speaker before 1,000 persons at the 1976 Bicentennial dinner of the interracial Council for Business Opportunity.

Because of the weaknesses in the minority business community, and the fact "that we are fighting in a climate of recession, retrenchment, recalcitrance and reluctance," said Brooke he joined with another Republican, New York Sen. Jacob Javits to introduce a measure "which will facilitate the evaluation which must occur at SBA (Small Business Administration), as well as more fully meet the special needs and problems of minority enterprises."

"A similar measure," he revealed, "has also been introduced in the House of Representatives by Con. Parren Mitchell of Maryland." Mitchell is a Democrat.

The measure would establish, within SBA, an Office of Minority Small Business Assistance Personnel.

"Responsibility for minority - related SBA functions," said Brooke, "principally the Equal Opportunity Loan Program under Section seven (of the Small Business Act) and the important eight (a) procurement program would be centralized.

"And, the measure would raise the SBA loan ceilings from $350,000 to $1 million. This would be coupled with an increase in the SBA authorization from $400 million to $600 million.

"All small businesses will benefit from these increases which acknowledge with greater realism the cost of doing business," added the Massachusetts senator.

"Our bill," the senator continued, "would also provide statutory standards for contracting and subcontracting by the federal government. Affirmative efforts to increase participation by minorities have too often been loosely administered and casually enforced.

"Pre-award affirmative action statements by federal contractors would be required. Statutory minimum goals for participation by minorities as contractors and subcontractors would also be delineated," he added.

McLean's observe business week

The director of McLean's Stenographic and Tutoring Service recently presented a reception program and an evening of varieties, honoring graduates from 1943 through the 1970's in observance of National Business Education Week.

Dr. Joseph N. Patterson, pastor of Wentz Memorial United Church of Christ and professor of philosophy at Winston-Salem State University emphasized the importance of well trained secretaries.

Mr. George H. Vaughn, retired district manager of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, in Winston-Salem, awarded recognition certificates to graduates.

Mrs. Louise W. King, president of Beta Alpha chapter, Iota Phi Lambda sorority, in Winston-Salem, N.C. awarded the sorority's cash awards to the most outstanding lady graduates.

Those receiving the cash awards were Mrs. Georgia M. Smith, first black lady manager at Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, and Mrs. Jeannette P. Wells, the first black to be associated with the M.L.S. (Multiple Listing Service) for Real Estate Offices.

Mrs. Narvie P. Larke, former mathematics and English instructor presented honorary certificates to the first three male graduates.

Two original poems and words to the standard graduation song, "Farewell Dear Graduates", were written by Miss Naomi C. McLean, founder and director.

The first poem, "Life Means Reaping" which was read by Miss McLean was dedicated to former graduates.

"My First Day At the Office" was recited by Mrs. Mae C. Corley, a 1968 graduate.

Typing Demonstrations were given by undergraduates.

Out-of-town graduates who were present for the program were Mrs. Helen P. Banks, Detroit, Mich., a 1943 graduate; Mrs. Mary E. Sollers, Baltimore, Md., a 1945 graduate; Miss Jacqueline P. Barber, Parkersburg, West Va., a 1963 graduate and Mrs. Rose E Haith, Richmond, Va., a 1966 graduate.

Political scientists attack Harvard

CHICAGO — The National Conference of Black Political Scientists has adopted a resolution condemning Harvard University's "oppression of blacks," especially as it concerns the Afro-American studies department.

The resolution was drafttd by the members of the faculty and student concentrators (majors) of the Afro-American studies department and was adopted unanimously at the conference's seventh annual meeting, held here recently.

"It is noted," the resolution states "that since slavery, Harvard professors have felt a compulsion to advance theories of African genetic inferiority, and when we see Harvard professors Kissinger and Moynihan leading the assault in the United Nations against Third World peoples while giving covert and even open support to the forces attempting to perpetuate minority rule in Southern Africa, it should not surprise us that an academic lynching bee is surfacing at Harvard today."

* * *

Specifically the resolution deals with the allegation that the DuBois Institute for Afro-American Research was being formed "without benefit of guidance from any distinguished black authority on Afro-American Studies," and that Harvard President Derek Bok has "assailed" the original charter of the Institute "by not naming a single member of the national black community to the board.

* * *

Moreover, of the initial 12 members appointed to the advisory board not 1 was from the Afro-American studies department."

The resolution further accuses Harvard Dean Henry Rosovsky of "Subordinating the Afro-American studies department to the 'tutelage' of Harvard's traditional departments" in that he is attempting to reject nominations for tenure in the Afro-American studies deaprtment unless another "White department first approves the candidate — departments which have never had a black tenured professor and whose current course offering ignores the history and culture of blacks peoples."

The National Conference of Black Political Scientists was organized in 1969 to "study, enhance and promote the political goals of black peoples."

Ohio lung group hit for slighting minorities

CLEVELAND — The Northern Ohio Lung Association (NOLA) has been strongly criticized by its outgoing president for failing to adequately respond to the needs of blacks.

Karl C. Johnson, the outgoing president, told the 48 trustees that "some of you have made it extremely difficult for all of us who are black."

"NOLA's performance leaves much to be desired," he added. "When neighborhood chairmen are appointed, none of them are black, and none of them are inner city. When smoking clinics are conducted, they are in eastern and western suburbs. Goods and services come from white contractors."

Yet, according to Johnson, tuberculosis, one of the prime concerns of the 60-year-old organization, is found in higher proportions of blacks than among whites.

Johnson was particularly critical of a decision by William W. Lewis, the director, to lay off the only black staff members.

Two of the 12 NOLA workers are black, and both will be laid off because of a drop in organizational income, Lewis had explained earlier.

Johnson added that he was "highly indignant" regarding the situation and said that the Ohio Lung Association, the group's parent organization, has never employed a black.

"I still believe in the potential of the lung association movement, but some of you make it very difficult for me to be a part of that movement at this level," Johnson said.

Johnson, a programmer for the Cleveland Board of Education's WBOE Radio, finished his term as president and was replaced by Dr. Joseph B. Stocklen.

Nine of the group's trustees are black, or 19 per cent.

Last year the group adopted an affirmative action goal of 25 per cent minority employees. After the layoffs, of the black employees and a white, the minority representation will fall to 11 per cent, officials said.
