Morgan develops program for better student housing

Morgan State University's Off-Campus Housing Office, in existence for several years, attempts to develop programs and policies that will enable students to find better housing accommodations and which will upgrade housing standards for students.

Specifically, the office is designed to assist students, faculty and staff in obtaining housing accommodations; to counsel students regarding their housing needs; and to develop and distribute information relevant to making housing decisions.

To generate off-campus housing listings, the office solicits housing accommodations throughout the entire community. Persons having rooms, houses and apartments to rent are urged to contact the university's Off-Campus Housing Office.

For the upcoming semester, the university anticipates a substantial increase in its enrollment. This means that, due to the shortage of on-campus housing accofmodations, the Off-Campus Housing Office will be flooded with requests for off-campus accommodations.

The university's Off-Campus Housing Office is always in need of additional housing whether it be a room in a private home, a house, or an apartment.

Therefore, all inquiries, comenta, and suggestions regarding the function of the program should be directen to the Off-Campus Housing Office, locaten at Morgan State University, Cummings House; phone number, 893-3217.

Afro history commission makes announcement on its priorities

A special study and research committee for the Maryland Commission on Afro-American History and Culture has been appointed by the chairman, Dr. Mary F. Berry to determine what the role of the Commission should be in relation to the city of Baltimore as well as to all communities across Maryland.

During the years since the Commission was established in 1969, a number of cultural, historical and preservation groups within the Baltimore black community have come to the fore, groups such as the Orchard Street Preservation Committee, Inc., the Herbert Frisby Historical Society, the Citizens Committee for Black History Exhibits and several others.

As a state agency with members appointed by the governor, the Commission is by its very nature an umbrella organization, established to enable and coordinate black historical and cultural activities over the entire state and to initiate only where such activities do not exist.

The current plans of the Orchard Street Preservation group to establish a black cultural complex in the heart of Baltimore make it especially encumbent upon this Commission to consult with the Orchard Street group and other similar groups in the Baltimore community.

Such consultations with these groups will help this Commission to chart an appropriate course in keeping with their needs, the resources of the Commission and its own mandated priorities.

The last seession of the General Assembly appropriated the sum of $200,000 to the Orchard Street project and an additional $125,000 fund for the design of the old Mt. Moriah Church as a black museum in Annapolis.

Over the next five years the Commission is mandated by legislative action to transform the Mt. Moriah property into a state center on Afro-American History and Culture accessible to the thousands of citizens who come to the capital city each year.

The unique center will fill an immet educational and cultural need.

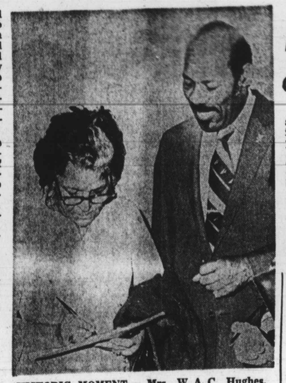
Further, the belt-tightening policies of the state government demand that this Commission, like all others, maximize its resources by attracting more outside grants and contracts to compliments its modest budget.

The Commission will continue to carry out its legislative mandate, "In research, dissemination and preservation" but it will seek more vigorously to coordinate and work more closely with citizen's groups in Baltimore and elsewhere across the state.

This will avoid wasteful duplication of effoort and fruitless competition for increasingly small funds available for cultural and historical projects.

For further information, contact Dr. Mary Francis Berry, chairman of the Commission, Dr. Berry is Provost Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences, Room 2141, Tydings Hall, College Park, Maryland, 20742. Telephone 301-454-5272.



HISTORIC MOMENT— Mrs. W. A. C. Hughes, president, signs a document at the State House in Annapolis on the granting of $200.000 to the Committee for the Preservation of Orchard Street Church through legislative action by Senator Clarence W. Blount.

Petitions on rent control must be signed

The Baltimore City Tenants' Association, Inc. has initiated a city-wide campaign in an all-out effort to gain support for the rent control bill introduced into City Council, May 17, 1976 by Councilwomen Mary Pat Clarke and Barbara Mikulski.

The Bill, which limits rent increases to 4 per cent plus pass-throughs, has been strengthened by the BCTA and will extend rent controls for another year beginning July 1, 1976.

The City-wide drive involves the distribution and signing of petitions, writing letters of support to Mayor Schaefer, City Council President Walter Orlinsky and all members of City Council.

The Baltimore City Tenants' Association has been in existence now for 6 months and represents many of the City's apartment tenant organizations and individual renters.

Harry Hart loved people

"Harry would walk in a courtroom and act like he was a judge. He loved people a lot more than people loved him. Thank you for coming to say goodbye to a little man of God."

Rev. Dr. Marion Bascom, pastor of Douglas Memorial Community Church made the above statement Thursday at the home going services for Harry Hart, 83.

Mr. Hart, died May 21 in Provident Hospital. For years, he was a familiar figure at all major Baltimore gatherings and a daily visitor to the courthouse, Police Headquarters, and City Hall.

The Rev. Dr. Bascom described Mr. Hart as an extra ordinary person who had the courage to walk anywhere he wanted to and had no problem with self identity.

Less than 100 people attended the services. However, the Rev. Dr. Bascom mentioned there were city, state and government employees attending the service.

Mr. Hart, was also called "Mr. Harry." The Rev. Dr. Bascom stated Mr. Hart was a "great lover for life and children and a great guy is gone from among us.

Mr. Hart leaves no relatives but several of his friends he admired attended the services. One of his closes friends, Judge Charles E. Moylan Jr., of the Maryland Court of Special Appeals attended the last rites.

Judge Moylan gave a birthday party for Mr. Hart when he was serving as States Attorney. Among other friends of Mr. Hart's attending the services were Col. James A. Watkins, Col. William Box Harris, George Russell, Officer William Gant, Major Clarence Roy, Henry Parks. Rev. Vernon Dobson, who assisted in the services. Mrs. Lula Sheffy, Mrs. Rosalie Thomas, Mrs. Kitty Mueller, Del. Lena K. Lee, Sonny Young, Mrs. Evelyn Burrell and Mrs. Nellie Bowie.

people will take a step backward.

Already, since May 21, this action has caused all offices of the Bureau (except the Prince George's County Elderly Project, which is separately funded) to close to new clients other than in extreme emergencies. This is to allow an orderly process to wind down caseloads and terminate offices and staff in an orderly manner.

It is not only sad but ironic that these monies should be taken from our services which saves the State many times over that amount of money. One case alone, Brown v. Weinberger, resulted in an estimated saving of from $2 million to $5 million of State money, taking individuals off the State rolls and putting them on Federal rolls.

In this manner, a cut in funds to the Bureau is a double edged sword: Not only does it add to the already overcrowded unemployment rolls, it also cuts off a primary source for increasing State revenue.

But, by far, the most important injustice will be done to those people of this state who will go without proper legal services because of lack of funds.

If each person is to be equal under the law, each person must have access to full legal services regardless of economic predicament.

I urge everyone to give us support in helping sway the Governor into reconsidering this unjust, and harmful cut of funds. (CHARLES DORSEY, Director of Legal Aid Bureau).

garnering the 15,000 needed signatures then city voters will have a chance to vote on his amendment in the November elections.

Julian's proposal is in line with a growing concern in many American cities over residency requirements of civil servants. Recently Mayor Daley of Chicago declared, "if the city isn't good enough to live in, then I don't think I'd want to work for it."

Moreover, Daley has given all present Chicago employes until Aug. 1 to move into the city or lose their jobs.

Two weeks ago Delgate John Douglass released here the results of a study which showed that Baltimore City was paying nearly $105 million (or one third of its payroll) to non-city residents.

Douglass characterised this trend as "unsound fiscal policy" and recommended that a requirement of residency for city jobs be implemented immediatley.

Julian's proposal is seen as less stringent, however. He regards the long term effect of the Douglass measure as "fragmentary and confusing to the voters," and he suggests that it could even be construed as unconstitutional.

"I hope we can concentrate on my proposal," Julian told the AFRO. "It represents eight years of preparation and hard work. I seek no personal glorification from this but I think my recommendations are the most realistic and stand the best chance of being passed."

Volunteers interested in working in the effort to collect the names of registered voters may call Dr. Julian at 945-6885 or 233-8227.
