THE attendance at the two plays presented by the students of Washington College Thursday evening in William Smith Hall was disappointing to say the least. When entertainments are given in Chestertown for the purpose of raising money for churches and other local organizations of various kinds they are almost invariably well patronized by the faculty and the students of the College. When dances and other no-admission entertainments are given at the College the town people are usually there in large numbers and it does seem to us that the town people owe it to the college and to the student body to give them better support than they were given Thursday. About $30,000 or more is spent in Chestertown annually by the college in the various business channels, but when the students arrange for an evening's entertainment in order to raise money for some deserving purpose at the College, the attendance from the town people is so small as to be very noticeable.

AN EDUCATIONAL DRIVE

Chestertown, Md., Nov. 30, 1921.

Messrs. Editors—December 4 to 10 has been set aside by the National Education Association and the American Legion as American Education Week. The purpose is to help the public generally to understand the great importance of education in the life of the community. This would seem to imply that mankind is failing to see the need of education. So a set time is chosen to place before the public the fact that interest in the schools is waning, that earnest effort is needed to revive it.

The newspapers can be of wonderful aid and assistance in setting people to thinking about educational conditions.

Wm. McAndrew, in the "World's Work," says, "The fathers made a nation with the expressed purpose of securing a more perfect union, justice, domestic tranquility, common defence, general welfare and the blessings of liberty. They foresaw the need of keeping these aims alive through succeeding generations. They recorded their conviction that it must be so, by maintaining schools as a part of the system of government. They told what public schools are for."

He also says that "a powerful jolt was administered to public education four years ago."

This means that a revolution occurred in almost every phase of life. People were ready to slip from the paths right living and to engage in many ...its which were inimical to good ...ment.

MEETINGS FOR WOMEN

Kent County Women To Complete Organization

During the month of October the women of Kent County at eight centers formed clubs for carrying on definite programs of work in relation to the home. In order that each club may have a clear-cut idea of what the Woman's Club Work, in co-operation with the Maryland University Extension Service and the Department of Agriculture, includes, Miss Hill will meet the women of the county next week and give a talk on "Home Demonstration Work for Women." At this meeting the women will be given a chance to discuss the various needs of the home, which will aid the committees in making definite programs of work for the year.

The meetings are open to all women, and those women who have been helped by the demonstration on the dress form and the short cuts in sewing and who wish to continue work of this kind are invited to attend the meetings as scheduled below:

CHILDREN'S HOMES.

Among the activities of the Salvation Army not generally known, though of vital importance, are the Children's Homes.

Throughout the world, there are 87 of these accommodating about 4,000 children orphaned or dependent.

In the United States, there are five, and in Maryland one.

Poverty, desertion, sickness and death of parents all contribute to make this work for children necessary...
