MAKING HIS POINT — Alex Haley, author of the best-selling book, Roots speaks before a group of campus newsmen and educators on the campus of the University of Maryland Baltimore County just prior to his lecture earlier this week. Haley was in the Baltimore area to speak at several colleges and universities about his book and future plans. While in Baltimore Monday Mayor Schaefer declared the day Alex Haley day and made Haley an honorary Baltimorean. To date Haley's books has sold over one and a half millions copies and the epic tale of his family as depicted by ABC television was viewed by well over 80 million persons.

Literary conference at TSU

The problem of student literacy will be the focus of a March 12 conference at Towson State University.

The conference is sponsored by the Maryland Council of Teachers of English, the Maryland Conference on English Education, the Maryland Higher Education Reading Association and the Division of Teacher Education of Towson State.

The executive secretary of the National Council of Teachers of English, Robert F. Hogan, will address 600 English-Language Arts educators from throughout the state on the topic "Literacy Is More Than . . ."

Hogan co-authored "The Back To Basics Controversy" in the September, 1976 issue of Media and Methods, a professional publication for educators.

Following Hogan's address, local media personalities, Spencer Christian, Glen Fallin, Edgar L. Jones, and Jerry Turner will react to the presentation.

Workshops, conducted by local talent, will give specificity to the points made by Hogan.

Registration for the conference will be at 8:00 March 12 in the University Union Building at Towson.
