ALL WORN OUT

Does morning find you with a lame, stiff and aching back? Are you tired all the time—find work a burden? Have you suspected your kidneys? Chestertown people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbors. You can rely on their statements.

Mrs. J. E. Allen, 511 W. High St., Chestertown, says: Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I have ever found for kidney complaint. My kidneys were weak and in a disordered condition. I became run down and had no energy. My back often ached and pained me so it was all I could do to keep going. Headaches were frequent and kept me feeling miserable. The action of my kidneys was never regular. I used Doan's Kidney Pills as directed, from Toulson's Drug Store. They just suited my case. I have never had anything to act so quickly and relieve the aches and pains as Doan's. My energy was restored and my kidneys didn't trouble me, either."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Allen had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

MARYLAND LEGISLATURE

Many Important Bills Will Be Offered Early In Session

Kent County's Senator, Mr. William F. Russell, and our Members of the House, Messrs. Bowers and Miller, left Tuesday for Annapolis for the opening sessions of the Maryland Legislature.

Although many bills will be dumped into the legislature early in the session few, if any, of them will receive much consideration for the first two weeks, the first few weeks being consumed in perfecting an organization and there is reason to believe this Legislature will be no exception to the rule.

Much of the time early in the session is consumed in fixing up committees, the delay being occasioned by the the House, in which the Speaker is unable to get a line on the membership, the great majority of the Delegates being new.

The President of the Senate does not experience the same difficulty for the reason that nearly half of the Senators are veterans, being hold-overs from the last Legislature. But even here the list is never ready until the second week of the session and more often announcements are delayed until the Speaker is ready to name his committees. So that it is always well in February before these get down to work and the wheels begin to move.

Meanwhile the bills are rolling in and are referred to committees to be named and in time turned over by the Secretary of the Senate and Chief Clerk of the House, in whose custody they are placed.

Both houses manage to keep up with the procession until about two weeks before the close of the session, when the discussion of important bills takes up so much time that the files are congested. Then night sessions are necessary, and when these do not suffice, three sessions are held daily.

It is to avoid the jam that Governor Ritchie is trying to have his bills in readiness for introduction when the Legislature gets under way. These include bills pertaining to the reorganization of the State Departments and the budget. If he can get these out of the way by March he will be fortunate.

He will not be subjected to the same pressure by office-seekers this time as when he first assumed the office, it being taken for granted that a majority of the incumbents will be retained, and hence he should dispose of the appointments before the days fixed by the constitution as the time limit for sending the nominations to the Senate.

The 90-day session of the Maryland Legislature began last Tuesday evening, Jan. 3.

JAIL NEWS

Murderer Of William Epps To Be Tried At The April Term Of The Circuit Court For Kent County

Sheriff Hadaway now has eleven "boarders" at the Kent County Jail at Chestertown.

Harry Comegys, in Chestertown Jail for the killing of William Epps, ex-soldier, to which crime he confessed last week, is an illiterate of the most pronounced calibre. He can neither read nor write, and is believed by many to be partially demented. On the afternoon of the night when he deliberately killed Epps, he was out rabbit hunting and killed a small one. Asked by a colored woman of that neighborhood what luck he had Detective Manning stated that he remarked, "I got a small one today, but will get a big one tonight."

For a man to make a statement like this and then go and deliberately shoot a man in the back with a shot gun, in cold blood, apparently no grievance against him, transcends the bounds of ordinary reasoning. But that is what Chambers is said to have done. Asked why he did the act he states that he don't know why he did it—"I must have been crazy." To us it—"I must have been crazy."

Chambers will be put on trial for his life at the April term of the Circuit Court. Being almost penniless, the Circuit Court will furnish him with counsel for defence. At a trial evidence for defence, as well as offense, is brought out that the public never dreamed existed. What defense will be made in the effort to save the man is a question that is being asked throughout the county, with the general impression being that a plea of insanity will be entered.

Coldest Spell Of Winter—Kent has been experiencing the coldest spell of the winter this week, and for the first time this winter the Chester River has been frozen over. The cold snap, that began on Sunday afternoon, drove the thermometer down to 13 degrees on Monday morning, which, accompanied by a heavy wind, made the weather very uncomfortable. By Tuesday it had, however, moderated, with the thermometer going down to 1[illegible]

SPORTING NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST THAT WILL BE WORTH READING BY THE GREAT THRONG INTEREST IN SPORTING AFFAIRS

The hunting season has at last ended in Kent County, but those who enjoyed either the chasing of rabbits or the stalking of birds should bear in mind that the few that are left in the covers of the county should be helped to weather the icy blasts of winter. Many of our rabbits and birds perish during the cold of winter that could be saved if our hunters would carry a little grain into the woodlands, clear a place here and there, in different sections, and spread the grain. Don't depend on hte farmers to do this altogether. It is every bit as much the place of the town gunner to help the game to survive by feeding them as it is the farmer—and perhaps more. But how many do it? Very few. They expect the farmer to do it, and then go out in the fall and expect to find game literally "tied" for them. If we all helped a little in this matter game would be more plentiful in season and many hungry little mouths would be filled.

Jack McAuliffe, who retired as undefeated lightweight champion, is of the opinion that when Carpentier and Cook meet in England the Frenchman will be beaten, despite the fact that Cook is the inferior of Beckett, who fell easy prey for Carpentier. It is stated by those who are supposed to know that Carpentier was literally beaten to death by Dempsey and that although he may appear fast in training he will never be the equal of our fighters, even of the Tom Gibbons type.

There is a public shooting ground-game bill before Congress that will receive much support. The American Game Protective Association says of this bill:

"Briefly, the bill provides that every man who hunts migratory birds must take out a federal hunting license of $1. This money goes into a separate fund which will be used for establishing throughout the country areas where and other areas where the man of ordinary means may shoot. A portion of the money will also be used for the protection and care of these birds throughout their range."

Now that the holidays are over, the attention of the basketball fraternity will turn to that much popularized sport of the past few years. Washington College's first big game of the season is with Philadelphia College of Osteopathy at Chestertown on January 13, with George Washington University on January 14. The American Legion team is getting in trim to resume the season and will put a fast quintet on the floor against Washington College and the other teams on their schedule.

Dempsey, Ruth, Tilden, Guilford, Hollins, Barnes, Hutchison, Schaefer, Zbyszko, Mallory—how many of these names will be engraved along the top pane[illegible] a year from now? To have is one thing. To add and to hold is another thing.

[illegible] doubt if they would hardly slow up fo[illegible] me, if I, unfortunately, got into their way. The setter and pointer are allowed to toast themselves be[illegible] fire and receive the admira[illegible] loafers at the store, as their deed[illegible] the field are recounted, while I am [illegible] to the back step and receive a ha[illegible] boot in the ribs if I get in the way. I seek the warmth of the kitchen stove, but, alas, the broom beats me in the face and occasionally a pan of hot water is dashed against my bone-protruded hide. I cry out in anguish and I am beaten. The fox hound, considered one of the lowly animals of my tribe, is given some consideration, and is allowed the seclusion of the barn, where he warms amid the dried clover; the despised poodle, good for nothing, not even to look at; the bull dog, for nothing worth a graveyard rabbit's foot, and the big airedale, who continually alarm the neighborhood by their noise and cause unending trouble, are fed high twelve months in the year with the best of free bones from the butcher's and an occasional spoiled steak from the same source. But what do I get? I am fed on the fat of the land for two months and rode in the best of autos for the same time—but I've got to watch my step the other ten months and be not only a diplomat and crawl at everybody's feet, but also a "faster," who can go an unlimited time without food. It's a wonder I don't starve; sometimes I think I will—that is, if the hens stop laying."

The prospects for a good baseball team at Washington College this year are good, but not near so good as they were last year. The pitching staff will be without the services of Schelberg and Wright and Robbins ended his college career last year. But even at that, Coach Kibler will have some pretty good material, with which to whip a team into shape with.
