Such, apparently, is the impression it makes on the little fish that plays over it, until at last it touches what is too surely a head. In an instant a bell-shaped sucker mouth has fastened to the fish's side. In another instant, from one lip, a concave double proboscis just like a tapir's has clasped the fish just as a firm finger would. And now begins the struggle, but in vain. At last the victim is tired, and slowly, yet dexterously, its blind assailant is feeling and shifting along the fish's side until one end is reached. Then the black lips expand, and slowly and surely the curved finger begins packing the fish end foremost down the gullet.

FAITHFUL TO ABSENT SPOUSE

Penelope's Beautiful Fidelity to Her Warrior Husband Immortalized In Deathless Verse.

The classic example of wifely fidelity is Penelope, beautiful Greek wife of Ulysses, conqueror of Troy. For 20 years, while her husband was away at the Trojan war, Penelope remained faithful to him, in spite of frequent reports of his death and the importunities of her many suitors. The story of how Penelope outwitted these scheming lovers has been handed down to us by no less a chronicler than the great Homer, who immortalized her deeds in "The Odyssey."

Penelope, who was the daughter of Icarius, also a famous Greek, was sought in marriage by scores of the eligible youths of her day. Unable to choose among them herself, she asked her father to decide upon a son-in-law. Icarius determined that the fleetest of foot among the suitors should win his daughter's hand, and instituted a foot race in which Ulysses, the Ithacan, was victorious.

When Ulysses was called to the siege of Troy, it was 20 years before he returned. Before he settled down to enjoy his long-deferred domestic happiness, however, Homer tells us, he killed all the men who had basely taken advantage of his absence.

Mr. Coppage, in company with his cousin, ex-County Commissioner B. Clay Coppage, of Church Hill, were guests of Mr. Selby on the gunning trip. The two young men had entered the rowboat to place the decoys, leaving the elder man on the shore. Scarcely had they gotten in deep water when the wind struck the boat and capsized it, throwing both men into the icy water.

Mr. Coppage was able twice to drag his friend to the edge of the boat, but Mr. Selby was too exhausted to help himself and Mr. Coppage was compelled to abandon the effort to save him. Mr. Coppage also was exhausted and when Clay Coppage brought assistance he was unconscious, but clinging to the boat. Dr. Charles E. Snyder was called and after several hours succeeded in reviving him. Selby's body was recovered late in the afternoon.

Mr. Selby is a son of Charles W. Selby, of Kent Island. He was a graduate of Washington College and was engaged in the mercantile business with his father.

Mr. Coppage was taken to the home of his parents in Church Hill, and was soon out of danger, but was badly injured from exposure.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch G. Coppage, Church Hill, and is employed in the office of State Insurance Commissioner T. J. Keating in Baltimore.

GRANGE NOTES

Still Pond Grange No. 245 met in Grange Hall Tuesday, Jan. 3, at 8 p. m., with Bro. Albert Jervis in the chair.

Notwithstanding the urgent request of the Worthy Master to "be ready and to arm," and be present at the regular election of officers, a very few came to help him in his untiring efforts to push along this delayed work. Surely the "spoils of office" are not sufficiently attractive to Grange members, yet we are unwilling to charge them with indifference, but please do not criticise the result of the election, as it was of so small a percentage of membership.

The installation of these officers will be next Tuesday, Jan. 10, at Grange Hall. It would be a great gratification to Worthy Master Albert Jervis to see every member at the Hall on above date.

A Grange social and supper will be given on Jan. 17, where we hope you will all come and renew your friendship and comradship with Still Pond Grange. A general good fellowship is anticipated. This is a social supper to Grangers—to be on the afternoon of Jan. 17. The regular meeting will be held after the supper.

Following officers were duly elected: Worthy Master, Bro. Albert Jervis; Overseer, Sister Ella Pennington; Lecturer, Sister Ollie Medders; Steward, Bro. Harvey Moore; Asst. Steward, Bro. Ralph Shallcross; Lady Asst. Steward, Sister Anne Bonwill; Chaplain, Bro. S. S. Hepburn; Treasurer, Sister Lloyd Dill; Sec., Bro. Charles Hague; Gate Keeper, Bro. Adam Kelley; Ceres, Sister Cora Harding; Pomona, Sister Mabel Jewell; Flora, Sister Mamie Norris; Pianist, Sister Pauline Stavely; Assistants, Sister Hilda Jewell, Sister Bertha Shallcross, Sister Edna Hackett.

To Aid Farmers—President Harding has taken steps to bring relief to the nation's farmers, hard pressed for months as a result of enforced deflation. In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace the President approved a suggestion for the assembling soon in Washington of a national conference to determine what measures of relief can be worked out to assist the agricultural population of the United States in achieving prosperity. Secretary Wallace took prompt steps to carry out the President's wishes. The President acted on the theory that so long as the nation's food-producing population is short of a proper measure of success, financially and otherwise, in its undertakings just that long will the nation as a whole lack commercial success and well being. The industrial status of the entire country, the President assumed, is dependent to a large extent upon the measure of prosperity attained by the farmers.
