Management course for women, June 5-7

"Management Today — For Women Executives," an intensive three - day seminar in current management theory and applications, is being offered June 5-7, at the College of Notre Dame of Maryland.

"Management Today" is being taught by experts in general management, marketing, finance and human relations. The seminar is primarily for women who are now in or who are working toward management positions in business, industry, government and service organizations.

In addition to formal sessions the seminar will include opportunities for participants to consult with women who presently hold management positions in local firms.

Patricia H. Michel, CPA, chairperson of Notre Dame's business program, and Sister Rita Zeis, head of the college's human services program, are co - directors of the Management Today conference.

The seminar will be held at the College of Notre Dame campus, 4701 N. Charles Street, in Baltimore. A brochure listing the program in greater detail may be obtained by calling Vicki Moulton at 435-0100, ext. 323

OOPS! Now, we haven't had one of those in a long time. So much for perfection . . . we have been told that dogs aren't thoroughbreds, they are pedigreed. How about that — never too late to learn a little.

The Ninth Dimension Social Club held a Disco - Cabaret, at the Milbrook Center on Saturday night for 200 people.

Among those jumping to the music of Wild Bill, the dynamo disco - disc jockey, were the president, James Carter Smith; Paul Anderson, vice-president and their wives, Patricia Helen Smith and Carolyn Anderson, an assistant professor at Baltimore Junior College.

Other members and spouses were Evans and Sue Duckworth, Ken and Barbara Mason, Jack and Kathleen Rouse and James and Barbara Ann Troy. Bachelor club members are Roy Brown and James Rouse.

Leon Kramer, a staff member of Walbrook Senior High School and Barbara Huggins, member of the managerial staff of Maryland National Bank were trying out old and new disco steps — not necessarily together.

Meetings. Meetings. Meetings. The Daiquiri Dolls met at the home of Bea Brunson to play their monthly game of Tripoley. (That's gambling).

Former Turner Station residents . . . 18 as of last count . . . who were interested in travel, charities, and the 'Arts' formed the Ebonite Social Club.

On Saturday evening, in the Green Pine Court home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll M. Evans Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Elmira) Purviance, Thomas Matthews, Mrs. Ellen Evans, Mrs. Marguerite Oliver and daughter, Mrs. Veronica Mandy conferred, dined and conversed into the wee hours of Sunday morning with other members Reginald Evans, Mrs. Annie Mae Douglas, L. Cecil Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Gordan Evans and Mrs. Lorraine Hawkins.

HAIR COLOR, HAIR CUTS and STYLES by BLAIR

The above models appeared April 9th in the Maryland State Beauty Culturalists Association, Inc. The styles were created by Ann Blair Robinson, Hair Coloring Technician who conducted the class for the organization. The models are, Left to Right — Mrs. Michelle Bonaparte who is wearing the Auburn Clair; Mrs. Charley Martin who wears the medium ash blonde, and Mrs. Brazzer Moore who wears the tan blonde.

Advice: For any hair coloring to give its best to the personality and artist, a correct hair cut is a MUST.
