White House target on Sunday

Delegates of the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women will stage a demonstration at the White House, Sunday, to generate support for the Title IX law assuring equal sports opportunity for women in federally funded colleges.

A spokeswoman for AIAW said a national Title IX bake sale will also be held as a "last shot" to generate support for fighting the Title IX issue which the women's group feel is being watered down by various groups in Washington.

"The AIAW delegations feel confident," said Carol A. Bair of New York, "that if all facts and figures and methods of compliance were revealed the negative affects of Title IX would be reversed to a positive stance."

Morgan's Braxton hopeful in weekend MEAC meet

By Samuel Davis

The 8th annual Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference track and field championships get under way tomorrow (Saturday) at Morgan State University's Hughes Stadium.

Starting time for both Saturday's events and Sunday's finals will be 1 p.m., with six contenders seeking to unseat defending champion South Carolina State.

The Bulldogs figure to be as tough this year as they were in victory last April at Dover, Delaware.

Represented in the field challenging S.C. State will be host Morgan, Howard, Maryland-Eastern Shore, Delaware State, North Carolina Central and A and T.

Morgan's team will include several football Bears competing in the field events.

"We'll be relying on the guys from the football team to help boost our field events," said coach Leonard Braxton. "We're not sure of their potential, but we feel they can help us considerably."

Braxton will not have to rely completely upon the football team for his field events, however. He will have three members of last season's cinder squad who finished in the top five in championship meets. Charles Bush fourth javelin; Andre Wickham third discus, and Billy Cox, a seven-foot high jumper who finished third.

As far as running is concerned there will be no problems. Braxton feels he has one of the nation's best sprinters in Neville Hodge.

"I'm extremely pleased with the progress my runners have made," said Braxton, a second year coach. "In my opinion this team is just as good as any team Morgan has ever had."

Hodge, who is from the Virgin Islands, took second place in the NCAA, Division 1, indoor quarter-mile.

This weekend he will run in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, while he will also be running in the mile relay, with Robert Vaughn, Carlton McNorton and Theodore Abernathy.

Vaughn also will run in the 220 and McNorton will run in the 220 and the quarter mile races.

Junior college, All-American hurdler, Mike Holston, will be relied upon in the high and intermediate hurdles.

In the 100 and 220 yard dashes the burden will be upon Mike Leach, while 104-A, half-mile finalist Jerry Molyneaux is a distinct threat in the 880.

Coppin coach optimistic as injured stars return

By Samuel Davis

If you took a look at Coppin's baseball record a few weeks ago, you would have seen 8-2-1. If you take a look at it now you'll see 9-8-3.

The big turnaround began when two of the team's best hitters, Burrell Carrington (.433) and Michael Rice (.450) suffered serious injuries.

Rice suffered a broken nose in a win over Bowie, while Carrington broke his thumb as the Eagles split a doubleheader with Delaware State.

Head coach James Lindsey feels the loss of the two hurt the team badly.

"We've played good ball without them, but we've lacked hitting. In situations where Carrington and Rice would be batting, the guys replacing them just haven't been able to match their production," explained Lindsey.

Rice, a designated hitter, has been replaced by Monty Ebron, who has managed to accumulate a batting average of .263, but Carrington's replacements, William Richardson and Anthony Murphy, have not been able to come close to equaling his output, showing averages of .166 and .099, respectively.

Since the two big bats have been absent, the team's record has dropped because of the decline in offensive potency. Before the injuries, the team batting average was .340. It now stands at a staggering .230. The run production, which used to be 9 or 8 per game, has dropped to a little less than 3 in the last seven games.

According to Lindsey, things should be turning around again because he should have the services of Rice beginning this weekend. And Carrington should be back for the playoffs in May for which Coppin already has qualified.

Rice's return is a timely one, for the team will play five games in three days this coming weekend.

"These games are a very important part in our season," said Lindsey. "I feel we have to win at least three of them if we're going to be a contender for the remainder of the season."

Coppin will play Bowie in a single game today (Friday) and North Carolina A and T in a doubleheader Saturday.

Lyle vs. Ledoux

Ron Lyle, seeking another shot at the heavyweight title, will meet Scott Ledoux in a 10-round bout May 12 at Caesars Palace, Las Vegas, Don King Productions announced Wednesday.

WBC champ Larry Holmes also will be on the card, fighting a six-round exhibition.
