WASHINGTON COLLEGE OPENS ITS BASKETBALL SEASON TONIGHT WITH NAVY AT ANNAPOLIS —OTHER NOTES OF THE SPORTING REALM

Washington College opens tonight with Navy at Annapolis what promises to be the most successful season in its history. Whether or not they will be able to start the season with a victory is a much-mooted question. At any rate, we look for them to give Navy a harder battle than in past years. Navy always has a hard team to beat on its own floor, which is somewhat different from the average floor and much bigger. The first team will be picked from the following players: Gordy, Carroll, Dumschot, Lohran, Johnson, Carrington, Fiore, Dodson, Bankard, Ruark, Bankert, Howes, Cavanaugh, Reiger, Flowers, Galvin, Tyson, Holland, Conant and Griffith. More and better material is more plentiful than ever before in the history of basketball. The entire 1921-22 team is back with several other good ones. The work of Carrington is particularly pleasing and he looks like a fixture on the team. His ability to handle the ball, his floor work and coolness, make him a player of unsual ability. Dodson also looks like a comer. Last year the local quint won 14 out of 16 games. In previous years a lack of reserve strength has proved a handicap, but not so this year.

Washington College and Blue Ridge College open the season here next Wednesday evening. Blue Ridge always brings a fast team here and the game will likely be a good one. W. C. will likely win the game, but we hear Blue Ridge has a pretty fast team, which should make our team hustle.

Small towns have produced a great majority of the baseball stars of today and the past. Look them over: Rogers Hornsby, Winters, Tex.; Geo. Sisler, Manchester, Ohio; Ty Cobb, Royston, Ga.; Tris Speaker, Hubbard, Tex.; Eddie Collins, Millerton, N. Y.; Everett Scott, Bluffton, Ind.; Walter Schang, Wales, N. Y.; Eddie Roush, Oakland, City, Ind.; Sam Rice, Morocco, Ind.; Zach Wheat, Hamilton, Mo.; Stanley Coveleskie, Shamokin, Pa.; Ray Schalk, Marvel, Ill.; Burleigh Grimes, Clear Lake, Wis.; Walter Johnson, Humboldt, Kan.; Joe Bush, Brainerd, Minn.; Wilbur Cooper, Bearsville, W. Va.

Washington College has a fine basketball schedule for this year. Manager Stenger has arranged 23 games, 12 of which will be played away from home and 11 home. University of W. Va., University of Penn Jr. Varsity and all the State Colleges will be played here. The schedule is as follows:

Dec. 16—Navy at Annapolis.
Dec. 20—Blue Ridge at Chestertown.
Jan.9—Washington and Lee at Lexington.
Jan. 10—Virginia Military Institute at Lexington.
Jan. 11—Virginia Poly at Blacksburg, Va.
Jan. 12—Catholic University at Washington, D. C.
Jan. 13—Loyola College at Baltimore.
Jan. 20—Mt. St. Mary's at Chestertown.
Jan. 26—St. John's at Chestertown.
Jan. 27—Temple University at Philadelphia.
Jan. 31—Penn State Forestry at Chestertown.
Feb. 2—Dickinson College at Chestertown.
Feb. 3—Western Maryland at Chestertown.
Feb. 6—University of West Virginia at Chestertown.
Feb. 8—Lebanon Valley at Chestrtown.
Feb. 9—Western Maryland at Westminster.
Feb. 10—Mount St. Mary's at Emmitsburg.
Feb. 16—Temple University at Chestertown.
Feb. 17—University of Pennsylvania at Chestertown.
Feb. 20—Penn Military College at Chester, Pa.
Feb. 23—St. John's at Annapolis.
Feb. 24—Pending.
Feb. 28—Loyola College at Chestertown.

The usual scramble for the football championship of the east continues. Princeton, by winning every game, has a good claim to it, but how many believe they would stand much of a chance against Cornell or Pitt or even Syracuse, who lost its only game by a last-minute fluke, and whose victory over Nebraska was the outstanding football feat of the year. There can never be any fair ranking so long as schedules remain so uneven or so long as there are so many different eligibility rules.

While picking an All-Maryland eleven is merely a matter of opinion, there is, nevertheless, considerable interest in the same each year. The Baltimore Sun's All-Maryland first and second elevens follow:

First Team—Middleton, Hopkins, l.e.; Magill, Hopkins, l. t.; Keenan, Washington, l. g.; Bailey, Maryland, c.; Wolbert, Hopkins, r. g.; Burger, Maryland, r. t.; Branner, Maryland, r. e.; Darley, St. John's, q. b.; Cain, St. John's, l. h. b.; Turnbull, Hopkins, r. h. b.; McQuade, Maryland, f. b.; Captain, Bailey. Best bet, Cain.

Second Team—Groton, Western Md., l. e.; Nisbet, Maryland, l. t.; Hough, Maryland, l. g.; Cromwell, Hopkins, c.; H. Morey, Mt. St. Mary's, r. g.; Flannagan, Western Maryland, r. t.; Rich, Hopkins, r. e.; Cavanaugh, W.C., q. b.; Crowe, W. C., l. h. b.; Kirkpatrick, St. John's, r. h. b.; Cronin, Mt. St. Mary's, f. b. Captain, Kirkpatrick. Best bet, Crowe.

The Baltimore Post printed an All-Maryland eleven the other day, giving Keenan, guard, and Carroll, end, places on the same.

Coach Thomas Healey's Baltimore Professionals defeated Jim Thorpe's Indians at Baltimore Saturday, 7-0. The game was rather a poor exhibition and professional ball will not likely be played next year in Baltimore. Both the American and Sun spoke particularly well of Mr. Healey's playing at tackle.

Speaking of Eddie Keenan, giant guard on Washington College football team, the Sun says in a recent issue: "Keenan once again proved the mainstay of the Washington College forward combination. Not once during the season was he outplayed, and he earns a place on the first eleven by a wide margin. While a lot of avoirdupois is not the chief requirement of a good guard, it, nevertheless, is desirable when combined with other necessary endowments. Keenan was one of the biggest men playing on any gridiron this year. In condition he weighs around 290 pounds. Besides playing an aggressive and heady game on defense and a driving offensive game, Keenan was of other value to Kibler. It was he who drove through the Johnnies' line for the gains that gave Cavanaugh his opportunity to drop-kick for the points that gave the Maroon and Black the lead in the final quarter of the game at Annapolis. On one or two other occasions during the year he was brought behind the line to carry the ball for the Eastern Shoremen."

Crowe, placed on the second team by the Sun, was the best back in the state. He broke his hand in a tussle at the college near the last of the season and was incapacitated for several important games because of it. Had Crowe not broken his hand, W. C. would have won both the Delaware and the Western Maryland games and Crowe would have been on the Sun's first team instead of the second. In our opinion, Crowe is one, if not the best back, that ever played the game here.

Once the sport only of the aristocracy, shooting is becoming the pastime of the masses in Austria. Few countries are so plentifully stocked with game of every kind, furred and feathered, and the large estates have been splendidly preserved for centuries. The great European stag, smaller dear and chamois are still abundant, while pheasants of various kinds, partridge and quail, woodcock, snipe and other game birds, not to mention the great flocks of wild lowl along the Danube and the marshy lakes, furnish excellent sport.

There is a great deal of discussion going back and forth regarding the Ty Cobb controversy over a base hit. Either he made or he didn't. The official scorer said he didn't, while the unofficial scorer says he did—so there you are. Cobb is and has been a great ball player. But he is never satisfied. He always wants something done for him, which, were it asked for by the average ball player he would be ridiculed out of existence almost.

For the past decade or so the Yale football team has been in a most decided slump. But if you will look at football between the Big Three for the whole span of years since they began to play the game, you will find Yale away ahead of Harvard and Princeton. Yale, through a stretch of 47 years, has won almost as many games as Harvard and Princeton together. Yale has won 26 and lost 13 with Princeton and has won 21 and lost 15 with Harvard. Princeton has evened up somewhat by winning 14 games with Harvard, with 8 defeats.

Kent county youngsters, who may have inherited some of the genius displayed by their forbears in successfully trapping rabbits, are offered an opportunity to earn a dollar for each cotton-tail caught and kept in captivity until the end of the season. The reward is to be paid by the State Game Warden. The Game Warden has also placed an order for 5000 cotton tails from Kansas for January delivery. The scarcity of rabbits in this state has convinced officials that game is being killed much faster than it is breeding.

Ducking in this part of the state has been more enjoyable this season than for many years and some large bags are being reported. Last Friday Messrs. J. C. Loud and Edward Wilkins killed 55 blackhead ducks. Further down the Chester river, clubs at Cedar Point, Ringgold's Point, Hail Point and other places, ducks by the hundreds have been bagged. Gunning is only enjoyed on Mondays and Fridays.

Mrs. Marcus Hedley, of Marcus Hook, spent several days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Oliffe.

The Mite Society of Grace Church will meet at the home of Rev. B. B. Staats and Mrs. Staats Wednesday, Dec. 20.

D r. Sparks has been quite sick the past week at the home of his niece, Mrs. James Archibald.

Mrs. D. C. Kelly has been spending some time at her home in Annapolis.

We are sorry to hear Mr. Ralph Shallcross, who was removed to Elkton Hospital, is very little improved at this writing.

—Suit has been filed in equity in the U. S. District Court in Wilmington by the Pennsylvania R. R. and the Delaware R. R. to determine whether the plaintiffs or the government, which now owns the Chesapeake & Delaware Canal, shall be liable for the cost of the new $300,000 bridge, to be built over the waterway inplace of the present railroad bridge. January 4 has been set for the hearing.
