Cop who shot teen must stand trial

Fired liquor inspector takes city to court

By James M. Abraham
AFRO Staff Writer

Controversy surrounds the firing of Bertram Dorsey, a former Liquor Board inspector who was first demoted and then fired from his job Friday, April 25.

Dorsey contends that he was fired because he refused to hide illegal or unprofessional actions of his fellow inspectors. In a Federal suit that he has filed to regain his job, Dorsey says his failure to "overlook or condone improper activities of other inspectors," gained him the enmity of his political sponsors and ultimately cost him his job.

Dorsey was originally sponsored for his position by state Sen. Verda Welcome, D-40, and cited her refusal to continue to sponsor him as an inspector as the reason he was fired.

But, according to a key figure in Welcome's Fourth District Democratic Organization, Dorsey had received his latest appointment to the Liquor Board not from Welcome, but from former state Sen. Steny Hoyer, return for Dorsey's pledge to support Hoyer in a projected bid for the governor's seat in 1978.

Although Liquor Board spokesmen declined to comment, Gerald Langbaum, an assistant state's attorney handling the case told the AFRO that Dorsey was fired solely because of his work record.

PROTEST POLICE AT INNER HARBOR — Members of the Coalition for Justice for Ja-Wan McGee demonstrated their opposition to excessive police force at the Inner Harbor, site of Law Day observances by the police department and other law enforcement agencies, Thursday, May 1.

Police department files charges against officer who fired on Ja-Wan McGee

The city police detective who shot 17-year-old Ja-Wan McGee mistakenly in a pizza parlor March 20, leaving the youth paralyzed must now face a police trial board hearing.

Announcement that charges had been brought by the city Police Department came April 30. Police officials told the AFRO, Detective Stephen McCown was advised of his option to resign before charges would be filed against him. However, the detective refused to resign.

As the department made public the charges, the Coalition for Justice for Ja-Wan McGee held a demonstration at the Law Day activities in the Inner Harbor May 1.

A spokesman for the coalition told the AFRO, "We are going to wait to see what happens when he goes before the trial board. We can't do without police but they must remember we are people and not animals and they must obey the law." The spokesman stated the coalition is asking that McCown resign.

Mike Bass, a spokesman for the Police Department could not say what the charges were but stated as soon as the detective receives a copy of the charges, they will be made public. The charges are expected to be delivered to McCown within few days and will involve infractions of departmental rules, regulations and policies. The trial board will consist of four officers and one member of the board holding the same rank as McCown.

McGee's parents filed a $15 million lawsuit against the officer and the city of Baltimore last month.

McGee was not armed when he was shot. McCown said he thought McGee and another youth were attempting to rob the store when McGee pulled a silver object from his pocket. The object was a cigarette lighter.

McCown has been with the department for 10 years and was placed on administrative duties while the department investigates the shooting. Bass told the AFRO, "It will be determined later if he will be suspended once he receives a copy of the charges."

The youth's parents are asking for $5 million in compensatory damages, $5 million in punitive damages and $5 million for medical costs.

Ja-Wan's mom asks Feds to probe shooting

The mother of an unarmed youth who was shot by an off-duty police officer said Wednesday the U.S. Justice Department should investigate the shooting and the city police department.

"I would like to see the Justice Department probe [illegible] the police department to see what justice really is done," said Constance McGee.

Her 17-year-old son, Ja-wan, was shot March 20 by off-duty police Officer Stephen McGown, who said he thought the youth was armed and planned to rob a pizza parlor. Mrs. McGee said her son was just buying a pizza.

McGee, who was not armed, was shot in the back and doctors at City Hospitals said the youth may be permanently paralyzed.

Vice-president flashes wit

Party faithful turn out for Carter-Mondale rally

By James M. Abraham
AFRO Staff Writer

"We're hot-blooded," said vice-president Walter Mondale of the Democratic Party. "We like to fight each other. But let's stop fighting each other and fight Ronald Reagan!"

Mondale was addressing a crowd of more than 2,000 Democrats who had paid $25 or $100 for the privilege of hearing him and an assorted group of federal and local Democratic higher-ups.

The vice-president was witty, ("In the midst of a heated race, there is no doubt of the outcome—Baltimore will beat the Yankees."), and self-effacing as he spoke, and the speakers who followed him attempted to keep the spirits lively.

Mayor William Donald Schaefer, Baltimore County Executive Donald Hutchinson, Gov. Harry Hughes, and state Democratic Chairman Sen. Rosalie Abrams, D-42, shared the dais with the vice-president, and each in turn stood to praise their good fortune at being Democrats and extoll the invincibility of the Carter campaign.

Pen inmate killed

A fight at Maryland Penitentiary which police believe was prompted by one inmate making homosexual advances toward another prisoner ended in death.

Police report Gary Cardell, 24, who had been serving a life sentence since 1971 for rape, murder and kidnapping entered Darsell Holmes' cell on the morning of April 29 while there were no guards around. According to police, both men had handmade weapons that had been filed down to a point. Police state Holmes, 21, was the intended victim of a sexual assault.

In the ensuing fight, Cardell's throat was cut and Holmes was released from University Hospital after being treated for a broken nose and cuts on his back and arms.

No one had been charged at AFRO press time and police report they are still investigating the case.

Holmes has been serving a 50 - year sentence for second degree murder and burglary since 1975. Cardell was found bleeding from the throat in Holmes' cell.

Ms. Gwendolyn Logan, a spokesman for the Maryland Penitentiary told the AFRO, there are 960 inmates at the Penitentiary and that Holmes was one of the inmates in a double cell with another inmate.

Ms. Logan stated, "The Penitentiary is entirely too small and it is sad that the public is not totally aware of what is happening to those guys inside."

Funeral arrangements were not completed at AFRO presstime and relatives of Cardell were not available for a comment.

Janey named judge

By Pam Widgeon
AFRO Staff Writer

Assistant U. S. Attorney Neal M. Janey says he is delighted and excited about his new appointment as judge and views it as a challenge.

He told the AFRO, "The general philosophy about District Court is it is the most important court in the judicial system and hears about 1,500 cases a day."

Gov. Harry Hughes appointed 31-year-old Janey to District Court on April 29. Janey, a former lecturer at the University of Baltimore School of Law, will replace Judge Robert Bell, who was appointed to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore in January.
