NEAR EAST SCENE OF GREAT TRAGEDY.

Millions of Refugees on Shores of Mediterranian in Dire Distress.

The vast proportions of the exodus of Christians from the lands now dominated by the Turkish National Government are becoming daily more evident to American relief workers engaged in the task of succoring the hapless army of homeless,, hungry half-clothed and generally destitute people which has been rushing blindly for safety since the Turks gave them "permission" to leave Turkey.

It is difficult to arrive even at an accurate estimate of the total number of persons involved in the migration, owing to the frantic haste of the refugees, the suddenness of their movement and the chaotic conditions resulting from inability to provide them with transportation and the necessities of life during their flight for shelter anywhere except on Turkish soil.

The latest estimate by relief workers place the total number involved at 2,250,000. Nearly 1,000,000 of these are believed already to have reached safety in Greece, and another 1,250,000 are supposed to be trying to get out of Turkey before the time limit set by the Turkish Government.

A great burden has been thrown upon the Greek Government, relief workers declare, and the American relief agencies by the movement of these hords of fear-ridden people, the majority of whom are Greeks and Armenians.

The cost of providing food, clothing, shelter, medicine, nursing and transportation for these multitudes is not yet known. Even the relief officials can only guess at it, for much depends upon the number yet to come out of Turkey. One estimate has placed the cost at $12,000,000.

One of the most extraordinary phases of the bight is that the millions of refuges are composed only of women, children and aged men, a huge army without able-bodied men, for men of military age, between 19 and 55 years, were not included within the terms of the Turkish "permission" to go. Relief lorkers in the field say this fact has intensified the helplessness of the fugitives, and enormously increased the task of caring for them.

In addition, thousands of the women and children are reported to have suffered so severely from the exposures attendant upon thir flight, as to require medical attention far beyond the slender resources available for that purpose.

American observers and workers have characterized the scenes enacted along the shores of the eastern Mediterranean as "a great human tragedy." "The situation is so stupendous that 1,000,000 good Samaritans are needed," cabled one competent American woman relief worker.

Fipds Earth Is Wobbling.

The earth is wobbling on its axis, according to Colonel P. Jensen, the Danish scientist, who returned recently from a degree-measuring expedition into Greenland. He reports that Greenland is moving westward at the rate of 20 yards a year. This seems to confirm the recent reports of surprising climatic changes at the North Pole.

It is now established that there is a periodic shifting of the latitude of the North Pole. The movement is difficult to detect because of the small area of the Pole—about the size of a tennis court. Some authorities say the poles are gradually changing their positions, and that this alternation to the world's axis will in time mean that regions at present icebound will become warm and habitable countries.
