IF it is true that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, then it is worth while for th people of this community to arm themselves against the epidemic of grippe that is sweeping the county. The main precaution are plenty of fresh air, without getting cold and when indoors be sure that the room is well ventilated.

JUSTICE CLARK who resigned his seat on the Supreme bench of the U. S. that he may go over the country and, irrespectively of party, try to convince the people of the great necessity of joining the League of Nations has started on in his town of the country. He sees in it the only way to rehabilitate Europe and at the same time to quicken trade between Europe and our own country.

FUTILITY OF HIGH TARRIFF

It is hoped that the farmers of this country will no longer be misled in believing thot protective tariffs on farm products will benefit them. The prices of wheat, corn, hogs and other articles are not determined here, but in the world's great markets, and it will do them little good to shut out Canadian and Argetena products from New York if these products can go to Liverpool and so limit the sale of American wheat in this great wheat market. So protective tariffs on wheat, corn cotton, tobacco and hogs are of no use at all to the American farmer and he should not deceive himself in thinking so.

IMPORTANT RULING AS TO TITLE IN BANKRUPT CASES

The Sudler Loller Bankrupt Case Finally Decided

On Thursday of last week, January 18, Judge Rose decided a point which all laymen have generally thought would give them title. Mr. Sudler Loller purchased a binder from Davis & Satterfield and paid $75.00. He gave a note and subsequently Mr. Sutton Tarbutton, his landlord, signed this note first, claiming that this gave the title of the binder to him as the first maker. A number of farming implements were purchased by Mr. Loller from George Baldwin and Mr. Tarbutton also paid for them making the claim that this made them his property.

The case was placed before Mr. Sidney P. Townshend th Referee and after hearing the evidence he passed an order directing Mr. Loller's Trustee, Mr. Henry W. Anderson, not to sell the farming implements and binder which he decided were the property o Mr. Sutton Tarbutton, Mr. John Wethered Barroll, the Attorney of Mr. Anderson, the Truste took an appeal from the Referee's decision and contended that the Trustee was the proper one to sell this property. S. Scott Beck, Esq., represented Mr. Tarbutton and contended that the title was in Mr. Tarbutton and that Mr. Anderson, the Trustee, had no right to sell it.

Judge Rose decided that the title was in the Trustee, had never passed from Mr. Loller and the only way that Mr. Tarbutton could claim title as he left the property in the hands of Mr. Loller, was by a bill of sale duly recorded. This will change a practice which has been existing in this county for many years, of men who go security for the purchase of a horse and sign the note first claiming that the horse is theirs.

L. Wethered Barroll and John Wethered Barroll were the Attorneys for Mr. Anderson before Judge Rose.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

The Frank M. Jarman Post Active. Minstiel Show To Be Staged Later.

The Frank M. Jarman Post No. 36 held its regular meeting at Legion headquarters, Thursday Jan. 18 There was an unusual number of legionairs present, and more interest and enthusiasm shown than for some time, which shows that the legion in Kent County is still very much alive and prospects look good for 1923. In a letter from department headquarters it states that "to the Frank M. Jarman Post No. 36 goes the distinction of leadership in renewal of membership." Last year this post had seventy four members and today it has seventy four members paid for 1923. The American Legion, while made up of ex-service men is not an organization of men who aim to promote war, or to remind the people of America that they were heroes, as many people believe, but an organization made up of men who have seen the horrows of war and who are at the present time reminding Uncle Sam that there are thousands of buddies in this country who were wounded or disabled in other ways, and who need hospitals, money and training. At a meeting held this month of the national executive committee of the American Legion it was decided to establish a national orphans' home for children of former war vterans. At the meeting of the legion in Chester town last week it was decided to organize a legion bowling team and Mr Derrick was appointed manager. All legion men who can bowl see Derrick. It was also decided to have a minstrel show some time in the near future. At the next meeting there will be some salt waters waiting for you so everybody be present and on time because they won't wait very long.

Telephone Service

Shortage of telephone facilities in certain places throughout the United States because of the"continuing and increasing application for exchange service" is explained by President H. B. Thaler, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in a notice which has just gone out to the 3,300 Maryland stockholders with the January dividend checks.

"There can be no better demonstration that the value of telephone service to the public greatly exceeds its cost," says Mr. Thaylor in the statement," than the continuing and increasing applications for exchange service and the constantly increasing use of toil and long distant lines.

"After a year of extraordinary plant extension undertaken with the expectation that by the end of this year we should have ample facilities and in spite of the fact that more telephones have been added than we expected, we are confronted with only a slightly diminished shortage of facilities, the flow of population is often in unexpected directions. City houses are turned into apartment houses and large suburban tracts more or less remote from city facilities become quickly covered with residences.

The central office and the underground conduits to furnish service in such districts must be of a permanent character to guarantee continuous service, and require a longer period of construction than the houses they serve. In such districts, and on account of such districts, there is still a shortage of facilities although a less shortage than at the end of 1921.

In other respects, including quality of service, financial operations and financial results, the program during the past year has been gratifying.

Although complete and final earnings figures for 1922 are not ready in detail, they will show, as usual, a substantial margain above dividend requirements.

During 1923, $3,662,000 will be spent in Maryland in adding to the telephone plant. Of this amount $1,567,000 is to take care of the increase in the number of telephone users by furnishing instruments and apparatus for the 10,000 new subscribers expected in the state during the year.

Baltimore And Chesapeake Ferry Company Asks P. S. C. Privilege To Extend Service

The fight between the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Company interests and those behind the Baltimore and Eastern Shore Ferry Company for the route between Baltimore, Love Point and Queenstown moved forward another step yesterday. Ralph Robinson, an attorney for the Baltimore and Chesapeake Ferry Company, filed application with the Public Service Commission for permission to operate over the route.

The Baltimore and Chesapeake Ferry Company is a newly incorporated concern, organized with $200,000 capital, by interests identified with the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia. It proposes to take over the line now operated by the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Company and extend it to Queenstown.

Its conditions its application on the granting to the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Company of permission to withdraw its present service between Baltimore and Love Point, provided at the time of granting permission there shall be no other or competing service over that route or in the immediate neighborhood. The application is signed by Robert H. Smiley, as president.

With this application was filed a petition from the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Company for permission to withdraw its "ferry" service between Baltimore and Love Point. This is signed by Turnbull Murdoch, president.
