Howalton School, the alternative educational institution. (The family suggests contributions in her name to this school, 4646 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., 60609.)

Cuff note: If You Ask Me readers may recall that we noted honors to Mrs. Tate in this column last August.

She received special citation at the National Technical Association's Convention in Chicago, when that group cited her father, Charles Sumner Tate, the engineer.

He was the founder of the technical association, a nationwide group which fosters the development of black scientists.

Chi grads

More Cuff: Mrs. Tate, her husband, Herman, and daughters, Amy and Eileen Cline, are all graduates of U. of Chicago. Mrs. Cline is the New Haven, Conn. music school director.

In her own right, Mrs. Billingsley is a branch manager for a commercial bank here in Baltimore.

Other survivors of Mrs. Tate: grandchildren, Jonathan and Jay Cline; Angela and Bonita Billingsley; brothers, Charles S. Duke Jr., Milwaukee, Wisc.; and Jesse C. Duke, Atlanta; and an aunt, 91 - year - old Esther Duke Hamilton.

More cuff: Mrs. Duke was a Christian Scientist, longtime member of Chicago's Eighth Church of Christ, and of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

Granny notes

Like we said several columns ago, we vowed before the grandchildren came that we would not, repeat would not baby sit them.

But, as we said before, all that changes when the grands arrive

We did our first babysitting a day ago:

This is to report that 16 - month old namesake has a pretty good idea of what she needs others to do for her.

We expected the crying infant who demanded constant attention when she visited us for a day ago.

But, today, at 16 months, it's a different story.

She plays and sings to herself.

She walks around to inspect the house. She picks up a pin from the floor and hands it to you.

She follows your direction to put a piece of trash in the trash can.
